Why A Family History

Why do people spend years of energy, money, patience, and just plain hard work to research and write a family history? What is there in most of us that sooner or later draws us to our past? Is it the old adage, "Those who ignore the past are doomed to repeat it?" Or were we happier in what seemed "simpler times?" Or do we wish to know from whence we came?

And why as we age, do we seem more inclined to look for our "roots" than the "Promised Land?" Why do some think of comforting memories and others think only of bitter memories, and why do some say they wish to forget their past, altogether?

In working on this family history I've run into people who suffered many trials in life and say they want to forget their past. Others said, "You can't live in the past." Yet, as they reminisced, expressions common to "our family" shone through and a true kinship between us developed. I felt their pains and joys as they spoke. I laughed at humorous tales they told on themselves or members of their families, and shed a tear or two for those who felt "left out or snubbed."

Several thought they were the lone Hawkins family until they heard from me. Some identified pictures of parents or grandparents for me, (pictures they didn't have) and I was happy to provide copies for them. One said, "What a pleasant surprise to open your letter and see a picture of my mother!" Another had lost her photos years ago during a move but identified her father and grandparents for me. Many said, "Please write again." One lady asked, "Why were we forgotten or ignored by our own grandparents for so long especially when we were the only grandchildren?"

In researching this book there were the relatives I'd never met who had lived close to me for 40 years or more. I worked as writer and Director of Public Relations in a small office building in Roscoe Village, a restored canal town, across the street from one relative for several years. My daughter worked with his wife at a restaurant, my husband directed his daughter and son-in-law in a community musical show and we never knew they were "family."

But within a family there is a bond stronger than all bitter memories. Perhaps blood really is thicker than water. There is that common kinship we have though we are very different. And reunions with "lost family" can bring a healing even if we think we want to be separated from our roots. My purpose is to discover not only my past but the present too, and to provide us all with a way to at least peer over the walls that separated us so long. Many have said "Thank You," and helped me in numerous ways to do this.

One of my goals is to bring our Hawkins family closer together. I can't do it but you can. This book is something I have provided as a mechanism for you to break through the walls which separate us so needlessly. We have included addresses, photos, genealogical information, generation codes, family lines, and indexes to help you.

A distinguished Catholic cardinal once said, "A parent has two things to leave his children, 'roots' and 'wings.' " Roots we have, even if we feel rootless—wings, somehow, seem to elude many of us. But perhaps, for all of us offspring of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, and their eight children, which now includes well over 2500 people and spans eight generations from 1809-1987, our wings are partially within our heritage and we just haven't found them yet.

When I started this intense look backwards, my father, the last of the 15 children of Elder J. Hawkins (code AH) had lost his last sibling. He began to wonder about his roots and about uncles with whom he'd lost contact over 70 years ago. But I too, at age 56, sense a rootlessness in our times and long for family kinship. Maybe that's why I've stuck with this family history so many years.

It seems we so need something that we can count on in this world of constant change; where family life is something we have to work on to keep. And, maybe our "roots" help us find our "ground of being" spoken of so eloquently by Dr. Paul Tillich.

But roots can and do imprison some families rather than giving them wings. Family life styles, family beliefs on religion and traditions, and family pride, can hold back or destroy the "wings of diversity" which so enriches a family and the world. Even our grandparents, Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins struck out for the new adventure of something and someplace different as did their children building new lives in new places. All left their mark as even people outside the family called, wrote, sent brief histories, precious photos and documents, and asked for copies of the book.

When I read the lines and listened to those family members who responded to calls and letters, I could see our likenesses, our differences, and the commonness of our being. I feel the "roots" in poignant words and shared joys from the young to the old. I am enriched by so many I never knew. I think of the aged lady with a wonderful sense of humor who told me what homestead life in the west was really like, and I enjoyed reading handwritten documents bearing signatures of our forbearers or an x - his/her mark. Finding photos of ancestors was most exciting as were the stories of their lives. It's been a great adventure.

Often we hold very narrow views of each others' lives and how we should live and act. In my research, I've heard numerous scandals and people have shared their sorrows of wayward children, siblings, or parents. Ironically, the same weaknesses were in every line and in every socioeconomic level. Every family has its problems. Yet

I found the same caring for those who stray from those close to them, in all families.

Perhaps, I would want most, that people would USE but not MISUSE this book to find or prove misfortunes of our kin. I hope all readers realize that honest sharing has taken place and see that we all really are very much alike. We all fall short and when one hurts, we all hurt for we are "family, one family."

In the end, the family is really a community — a community of people bound together by a special thread of blood and sharing of love. If we have failed to find our love broad enough to include all of our kin, we and our children are the losers. We have lost something vital to our lives — family loyalty.

I feel this Hawkins family has made a good difference in our world over the years, even if we've all fallen short of our potential at times. When you read even the briefest lines about each of the numerous families in this book, you'll be amazed at the areas where we've left our mark. So, though we are literally tied together by blood and the commonness of human frailty and human strengths plus the commonness of potential before us, we are bound too, to the family of man, God's special creation.

Finally, our past is really the prologue of our lives. . . . our family is ever ending with each death and ever beginning with each newborn, and regardless of the status of his birth — each newborn is ours. He will tread an uncharted course on life's sea that most people who came before him would dread. But as Loretta Lynn said, "My past made me what I am today and I wouldn't take a million dollars for it."

As you search through our lineage, I hope you rejoice with those who achieved something (so many were too modest), and sympathize with those who suffered. In so doing, we bind wounds, develop new family pride, and draw closer to each other than we were before we read this book. Here's hoping you find pride in your "roots" and new freedom in your "wings" within this group called the Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins family.

About the Author

Jo Cullison

In the process of doing this book, I've had two heart attacks, heart surgery and another major surgery, congestive heart failure, severe asthma, a broken hip, five back fractures, and have been hospitalized more times than I care to count. Most of this hit me just as we were preparing to put this family history together in 1984. At the same time, my husband was hospitalized and was told to retire due to severe spinal disease. But he continued to work as postmaster of our small village despite the pain and stress until June 30, 1987.

I live on 45 to 50 pills a day plus oxygen. Many days I spend a lot of time in bed so at times, work on the book almost came to a standstill. Every day and in the long, sleepless night hours for the past two years I've wondered how and if I could finish our family history begun almost 10 years ago.

So far, as has happened many times in my life, a way was made to keep moving slowly ahead as well as keep up with a home and family. I've had fulltime household help for the last two years since I'm unable to do much housework. (Some days I don't have enough air in my lungs to talk. I know many of you who know me will find that hard to believe but it's true!).

Help came from unexpected sources both within and outside my family. It came at the right time and was absolutely essential. So though writing this book has been an expensive, time and energy consuming task, it has been very rewarding. I owe much to many including my physician who cared enough about me and this book to keep me going a little longer when I felt like giving up.

I've lived a full life in 56 years and much longer than anyone ever predicted. I will not bore you with my resume but will say I've enjoyed being a professional published writer and community leader for over 40 years. I have the usual achievement award plaques hanging on my wall. These remind me that no matter how ill I get, the days behind me were productive days and can still be if I can find the way.

I was expected to die in 1931 at four months of age from pneumonia. I was so low I could not even cry aloud. There were no magic antibiotics then.

Dr. Hilton Buker, after telling my dad not to expect me to live through the night, cut a pill in quarters and gave me one piece. He didn't guarantee anything.

But my great-aunt Alice Preston Hawkins (wife of Andrew Jackson Hawkins -code AI), pronounced a cure — hot, fried onion poultices on my chest and back. My parents and Grandmother Ackeret (mom's mother), stood all night at a woodfired stove making and applying hot, fried onion poultices to my chest and back.

By morning I could breathe deep enough to cry aloud. I lived. The next day, the old country doctor, very rotund Dr. Hilton Buker, and one of our good neighbors, "Mag" Preston Hawkins (code aaa) danced a jig together around our living room. Neighbors, relatives, and friends helped my parents night and day for over 10 days to keep me from strangling on the mucous that I tried to cough up. So many cared and put feet under their love that I now believe love plays a big part in one's healing as well as antibiotics!

When I was 12 and nearly died from pneumonia again, my parents sold their farm — my father's homestead which was part of Elder and Elisabeth's second farm in Coshocton County, to take me to the dry climate of Arizona hoping my health would improve. I was 13 years old and weighed 68 pounds. My mother cried as she walked through our late summer garden still spilling multicolored produce from its vines and stalks. She was leaving her home of over 20 years established when she married my father. She could only take what we could load in a car filled with eight people. But I never knew of her sorrowful feelings until years later.

My father would never see his sons' names on the barn with his. He had no skills except farming and with nothing but a newer car and what we could load in it and on it, he and my family went forth determined he would make a living for this family of eight some way. No doubt we looked like the Okies going west a little late!

If they had regrets, they were never voiced so I never felt guilty. They met every challenge head on. That was and is my family legacy. Perhaps that trait, common to the Hawkins family, is what's kept me living for so many bonus years and what is chiefly responsible for at least trying to finish this family history.

At age 26, when my two daughters were three and five, I had two lung surgeries and ten really good years followed. From then on, life has been a struggle. But though I've known deprivation, I've also known achievement, hate and love, rejection and acceptance. I've known self depreciation and self appreciation. I've had blows and breaks, and unexpected help from unexpected sources. I've known disagreements, I've cried and I've laughed, been loved, and loved. I've made decisions I didn't want to make. BUT I SUSPECT MY LIFE HAS REALLY BEEN LITTLE DIFFERENT FROM YOURS! And I realize again our commonness.

To my immediate family I give thanks for an abundant life despite all the problems caused by my illness especially during the difficult years of "the Great Depression" and to my husband of 39 years, a good marriage and faithfulness during the many trials. To my larger family, I owe thanks for the enrichment of knowing my heritage, familial love, caring, physical help, inspiration, and cooperation. To the family of mankind around me who are not blood relation, I owe as much—for all are a part of this accomplishment. This book could not have been done without the aid of many friends.

I realize it's a dangerous thing to try to thank everyone who has helped so much for there are so many that one cannot remember them all. But special thanks are due a few (especially those outside our family) who gave a labor of love and inspiration for so long.

Perhaps the most help came from the Bob Wells family—Elnora, Bob, Kim, Lynn and Kay. (He's a retired minister but doesn't like the title of the Reverend.) From the beginning Elnora has sat at the typewriter and computer (hers and mine) until her bottom was nearly square. She has pored over files, documents, traveled to out-of-state libraries, given up meetings, parties, and even trips to help me.

Kim helped me get a computer and printer I could afford and he and his brother, Lynn, taught me and Jack to use it. They have always been available to help us out of a jam when we loused things up, they spent hours helping us correct things that we novices thought were o.k. and though they all have demanding jobs and Kim is in Chicago, they always made the time to help.

Lynn also was the courier between us and the printing firm and both young men (and their friends) wrote the program for this computer to make this history better. Bob and Kay filled in wherever possible for the others. I even stole some ideas from a couple of Bob's sermons. If they hit a snag as they did occasionally, they sought out others who knew what they didn't or couldn't do. There is no way we could have completed this book without their help.

I owe thanks to my Dad and Mom who spent hours reminiscing while I taped their memories, who spent days sending forms, helping me interpret families, writing letters, and contacting people they knew who knew things I couldn't find elsewhere. Mom had been in the family so long, (63 years) she knew about as much as Dad about the family and had lived with and among the Hawkins families so long she had become one of them.

Elsie and Paul Spurgeon, Tom Hawkins, Julia Snyder Gray and her mother, Violetta Hawkins Snyder (now deceased), Marjorie McCombs, Beatrice Meeks Sumney, Jim Hawkins, Fred and Sadie Hawkins, Harriett Martin, Nancy Lowe

Lonsinger, Ann Bucklew Goelz, Lyle McConaughy, Gerald Sherard, Edgar Preston, Elaine Hutson and Marilyn Bucklew all made many voluntary contributions to this book.

Helen Carter McVey did a lot of traveling and research for me and paid for documents, photos, etc. to aid in this book. She dug up (pardon the phrase) information from cemeteries, and provided information from various courthouses, libraries, Civil War battlefields, etc. Janie Parsons, from Washington, Pa., who searched out so much information for me there without charge. Genealogical researchers usually start with a deposit and $20 an hour, plus parking fees, tolls, meals and mileage.

And last, to my husband of 39 years, Jack, . . . what can I say but thanks for helping me achieve this goal and staying sane (almost). (He didn't even make me promise to not start another family history!)

To those who always wanted to know more of our family but couldn't do the research themselves, please feel the book is your work too—for when you answered my letters, filled out data forms for me, and sent photos and precious documents, you too were helping me gather data on over 800 families who are descendants of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins.

You gave something valuable for generations who follow us. The book's quality should make it a lasting memento of our family. It is not what I wanted it to be, but is the best I can do now due to very serious health problems. It will be placed in several county libraries for use by family members in those areas if they can't buy one.

Thank you all for every kind word of encouragement, aid, and, especially for feeling a part of the project. In our family we have doctors, nurses, clerks, loggers, salesmen, babysitters, teachers, unemployed, engineers, disabled, farmers, factory workers (from top management to assembly line workers), mentally ill, big and small families, conservative and liberal religious and political families, crusaders and those who live on dole, and probably even a horse thief or two! But we are all kin so God Bless You All.

As someone wrote, "If we don't know where we came from, we don't know where we are. If we lose where we've been, we lose where we are headed."

The value of a family history is said best by my good friend, the Rev. Bob Wells, "We need a sense of history, a sense of place, and a sense of destiny. To be fully human, we need to know 'where we have been' to appreciate what others did to bring us to this place. We need to know 'where we are' to have a sense of belonging and pride in our special place in the full realm of things. And we need to know 'where we are going' in order to go forward and realize our potential to build a responsible future for all."

How To Use This Book

If the personal data of some families in the Genealogy Section of this book seems disconnected, it's because we've tried to include only the facts people wanted in our book (if they returned our forms) or what we knew if they didn't. Some omitted current and ex-spouses, some didn't; addresses weren't always complete; some included stillborn or children of unwed parents and stepchildren, and some didn't; some divorced mothers took their maiden names back and some didn't; some identified adopted children, others didn't; dates often were ignored, some information came too late to change if there were marriages, divorces, births, or deaths, etc. Many official documents differed in dates and spellings as did people's memories, so not all data is complete or correct.

Also, we couldn't always read the handwriting (sorry) on the forms and we made typographical errors (our proofreading made us humble). At least we hope we have the offspring connected to the proper parent and sometimes that took a couple letters and phone calls to do! In some cases, it was very difficult to keep the family line in order as each filled out forms in their own manner and so many had the same names. If we made errors here, please forgive us and write in your corrections at least in your copy so that whoever the book is passed down to will have it correct.

We used a code to connect each person to his family line and no two people have the same code. Your code will be like your parents' and grandparents' codes except for the last letter. Also each direct descendant of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins has a code in capital letters while the indirect descendants, the inlaws, are the same letters but are small letters.

For example: the first Elder is "A" as that's the first letter of the alphabet and his wife, Elisabeth is "a." That completes Generation 1. Generation 2 lists all the children of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, each starting with the code of their father, capital A, (the direct line) with another letter added for each of them. Their first child, George, is "AA" while his wife is "aa." Their second child, Harrison, is "AB" (the second letter of the alphabet), and his wife is "ab;" Elder's third child, John, is "AC" (the third letter of the alphabet) while his wife is "ac," and so on down the line until Generation 2 is completed.

George's first child, John Elsworth, begins the third generation and is listed as "AAA" while his mate is "aaa." George's second child, Margaret Jane, is "AAB" and her mate is "aab" and so on down through eight generations and eight letters. By changing the last letter, each person is identified by his own particular code. If your code starts with "AB," you are in Harrison's line, Elder and Elisabeth's second child. If your code starts with "AC," you are in their third child, John's line. It continues that way through each of their eight children.

Your code also indicates the generation you are in. Your children have one more letter than you and your parents have one less letter than you do, etc. If your code in the alphabetical index shows four letters, you are in the fourth generation; if it has six letters, you are in the sixth generation. No code is longer than eight letters as we cover only eight generations.

The best way to find yourself and your line is to find your name and your code in the alphabetical index or the maiden name index. Adopted children are considered direct line and are identified by capital letters. Stepchildren are not. Since we were so cramped for space and time was a factor, we didn't include the stepchildren as we had originally planned.

Note how many letters you have in your code and turn to that generation in the genealogy section of the book. (All 2500 people are in the same section at the back of the book while the written history, photos and documents are in chapters 1 through 9 in the first part of the book.) Also, all the persons in one generation are either brothers and sisters or first cousins.

To trace yourself back to the first settlers, find your parents code in the generation before you. It will be exactly like yours minus the last letter. Your grandparents are in the generation preceding your parents and will be minus your code letter and your parents' code letter. Go on back until you come to the single letter A, the first generation and that is your line back to the first settlers.

Example: My code is AHMD (all capital letters as I am a direct descendant). Because I have four letters, I am in generation four. This is the way I would trace my family line.

Gen. 4 - AHMD

D is my code. I am the 4th child in the family. I am in the 4th generation as I have four letters.

Gen. 2

AH is my grandfather. He is the 8th child in his family. He has two letters in his code so he is in Gen. 2.

Gen. 3 - AHM

M is my father. He is the 13th child in his family so uses the 13th letter. He has three letters denoting the third generation.

Gen. 1

A is my great-grandfather, Elder Hawkins, the first.

You may have to do some searching to trace your line but everyone can do it from the eighth generation back. We had to use a code as so many had the same names and some even had wives with the same names. (Both John Elsworth Hawkins in IL and John Elsworth Hawkins in Ohio married women named Maggie. There's a John Elsworth in the third generation of three lines and Elder Harrison in several.)

Also we have included a geographical index for those who might want to know who lives in their area (several had no idea they had close relatives in the same town) or are traveling and wish to visit an "unknown" relative.

One chapter is devoted to each family line by birth order plus the first chapter is devoted to the history of Elder and Elisabeth as we know it now. Photos of descendants, and appropriate other items such as schools, churches, homes, etc. are in the chapter of that line. Example: if you are a descendant of Elder J. Hawkins (code AH) the information about you, your ancestors, and descendants, plus the photos and Miscellaneous Notes will be in the chapter on Elder J. Hawkins (code AH). There are nine chapters in the book.

I'm sorry we couldn't use all the photos sent and am sorry we had so few from some lines. Also some were impossible to reproduce well, but we included all we thought we could use and hope they will be of much interest to you. We really have a fine selection of photos dating from about 1850 to the present.

In the genealogy section of the book, we have a capsule of information about each person with various symbols and some are very complete while others are not. We used only the information we could get or had already. The symbols are as follows: B. - born and the place; M. - marriage date; D. - death date; Cem. - burial site; Occ. - occupation; Ch. - church; Ed. - education; and Mil. - military.

Originally we intended to insert history under each person's name of those who wrote what they wished to be remembered for, but we've had to forego much of this due to the health problems, and lack of time and energy. For this I am so sorry for there is so much that is extremely interesting about many descendants. We have tried to include some special items about some of our family members. It's the best we can do now.

We tried to be accurate but accepted certain public and private documents as more reliable than others. Even court and census records differ; i.e. Hawkins was often Hockins, Hockings, Hawkings, Hankins, Haukins, sometimes in the same paragraph, as in John Ellsworth (Hockings) Hawkins marriage record to Sarah Ann Reed. Dates differed on tomb stones, court records, in family Bibles, and in descendants' memories.

The farther back we went, the more inconsistent records were as people were more illiterate. Even census takers, army clerks and court recorders simply wrote what they heard (or thought they heard). We know this book can never be perfectly accurate. We checked several sources even on small matters, used every resource available to us, asked interpretations on questionable items, and made the best judgments we could. So please accept our apologies for our errors.

Despite errors, you'll find a rich history of a family which blazed a trail across our nation with lofty dreams and sundry results for over 175 years. I hope you'll sense the familiar thread of Hawkins humor, the common pathos, tragedy, heroism, pioneer spirit, ingenuity, achievements, pride, and perseverance in the warp and woof of this historic saga of the family of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, 1809 - 1987.

Keep in mind this is my interpretation of interviews with elderly relatives (and others), of hundreds of official documents I bought from county courthouses, libraries, museums, state and national archives, newspapers, state and local historical societies, professional researchers, phone conversations, etc. from "sea to shining sea." My interpretation may not always be correct. It is merely the way I see the family's history now after nearly ten years of research.

Since this copyrighted book is mine and made at my expense, I'll bear the brunt of criticism for even those I hired. A writer stands alone on anything he puts in print. As a former news reporter for our daily county newspaper, and a correspondent for THE CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, a published freelance writer as well as Public Relations Director for a restored Ohio-Erie Canal town near my home (Roscoe Village), I learned what it was to choose what to say, how to say it, and to take the bouquets and brickbats on what I wrote. If you don't agree with my view of the information given me, remember — I've gone beyond everyone's memories by trying to back up facts with documents or sources closest to the question.

But even documents don't agree and we all tend to embroider our memories. In listening to hours of taped tales of the family, I found some people embroidering the same stories differently each time they told them. (We all repeat ourselves too!) Because of my health problems, this book falls short of my own expectations despite great care in proofreading, in trying to decipher handwriting, researching, traveling, pure weariness, and the extended length of time needed to get it done.

We hope perusing this history will be an interesting and heart warming venture for you and something of value for all who follow you.

When Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins (our earliest documented ancestors) came to Coshocton County, OH from Washington County, PA in the 1840's, our nation was about 65 years old, there were few roads and no trains, skunk musk was a common remedy for asthma, and the new Ohio-Erie Canal had just been built through the county. Why and how they came is not truly clear despite our years of research, but twice in those years, our country's prosperity was depressed as much as 20% below what is considered normal and it was at this time that they were establishing a family. Since they were not land owners as far as we know, no doubt this was a very hard time to make a living as a day laborer. According to various family members and official records, Elder was a brickmaker, coal miner, huckster routeman, and farmer.

Since Ohio was the first state carved out of the Northwest Territory in 1803, and was the first state organized west of the Allegheny Mts., it became the Gateway to the West. Land speculators bought huge tracts of land, divided them into townships, sections, and quarters, and sold them to people flooding into the area from the crowded eastern colonies.

Sometime during the 1840's, Elder and Elisabeth packed at least four children aged two to 11 years, a bit of household goods, and some survival gear into a covered wagon and joined the tide of pioneers. (Edgar Hawkins, great-grandson of Elder and Elisabeth through their first child, George (code AA), remembers seeing long staves about ½" by 3" by 12 or 15 feet long for putting over a wagon to cover it.) No doubt it was the wagon they used for their huckster route and could either have been the reliable Conestoga wagon used by many settlers or more likely one they built themselves as it appears they made everything they needed.

With heady dreams of finally owning a farm in the fertile, well-watered soils of Ohio after living in the hilly, mountainous coal region of Chartiers Twp., Washington Co. PA, the Hawkins family, some relatives, and neighbors, struggled across the ore-laden ridges and deep ravines of the eastern edge of the Appalachian foothills, to their new land of opportunity. Since it was probably Spring, they no doubt forded many swollen waterways including the Ohio River. There were just three ways to enter Ohio by road, (former Indian trails), and since they lived north of Pittsburgh, we assume they came the northern route through Pittsburgh to the Youngstown area, then south through Tuscarawas County into the northeastern townships of Coshocton County which saw its biggest influx of settlers between 1840 and 1850. Most settlers in the area where they settled were Pennsylvania Germans whose names appear on old plat maps as landowners surrounding Elder and Elisabeth and as witnesses on his legal papers. There had been Hawkins families in this area since the early 1800's but we find no direct connection.

Elder, on his own from a very young age, (some say five years, others seven and another, 15) had to settle for less than the best land. On an earlier trip west during the Spring of 1845, he'd paid $500 cash (in addition to assuming a $200 mortgage) for an 80-acre plot of stony, hilly land where several centuries before, a great continental glacier had come to a halt in this part of Ohio, leaving its debris of huge boulders scattered among the crevices and ridges it had gouged out and "river biscuits" in the meandering streams it had created. (See deed elsewhere in this chapter.) Since he gave his address as Washington County, PA, we assume he came first and bought the land as the custom was, fixed a place to live, and then returned to Pennsylvania to move his family and stock later.

There the family, which in 13 years added five more children, laboriously turned the rough acreage into a workable farm. Huge oak, maple, and walnut trees became lumber for good frame buildings. Rocks, hauled from what became fields and pastures, made fences and a barn corral, traces of which can still be seen. (See photos of this Crawford Twp. farm in this chapter). Huge, hand-chiseled, sand stone blocks fit together without mortar like those used in the well-preserved, 150-year old Ohio-Erie Canal locks in the area, still show that Elder's bank barn measured about 30' by 50'. Clumps of yellow Jonquils still announce every spring that the family who made a home where Delaware Indians once freely roamed, loved flowers.

Wild game abounded for the larder, but so did packs of wolves preying on sheep. Wild bears preferred fresh pork. An occasional panther was seen. Raising stock must have been a challenge but Elder and his sons became excellent marksmen and outdoorsmen. In fact, his oldest child, George, (code AA), at age 75 and blind in one eye, shot a grouse through the head at 22 steps with a pistol having a six-inch barrel.

Official records and family memories differ on Elder and Elisabeth (Caton-Gardner) Hawkins' birthplaces, names and birthdates. According to Elder's obituary published on the front page of THE COSHOCTON DEMOCRATIC STANDARD of March 15, 1889, Elder was born April 9, 1809 in Tuscarawas County, OH, later went to Pennsylvania, met and married Elisabeth Caton, and moved to Coshocton County in 1840. (Some spell her maiden name Katon and say it was her Indian name as she was reportedly one-quarter blood Delaware Indian.)

Spring Mountain 'Ssorted Mentions

"Elder Hawkins, Sr., nearly 80 years of age, departed this life, February 28, and his remains were placed at rest in the Richland Baptist cemetery in Holmes county. Rev. L. G. Walker officiated in the funeral obsequies from Romanus (sic) IX: 7:9. Of his biography I learn that he was born 1809 (April 9th), in Tuscarawas county, Ohio; while yet young he went to Pennsylvania where he met and married Miss Elizabeth Caton. In 1840 they came to Coshocton county and settled in Crawford township where they resided 21 years. 1845 he joined the Baptist church and was a staunch member ever since. From Crawford township he moved to Holmes county, near Stillwell, and purchasing a farm attended to its duties up to a short time before his death. Six boys and three daughters were the children to cheer his life, and forty grandchildren could call him grandfather. All things good can be said of Mr. Hawkins, and few were his faults indeed, and a life like his was not lived in vain."

The obituary reports that Elder stayed 21 years in Crawford Twp., Coshocton County, before buying land in Tiverton Twp., Coshocton County, and Richland Twp., Holmes County, in March 1868. Their home was ½ mile south of Stillwell on CR 27 near the Holmes-Coshocton County line where they lived until they died. Their grandson, Fred, (son of Elder's youngest son, Andrew Jackson Hawkins (code AI) and wife, Sadie, live in the remodeled home now, but part of the original house still stands. He and other descendants own most of the land.

According to a Coshocton County deed dated March 25, 1845, Elder Hawkins of Washington County, PA, bought 80 acres of land in Crawford Twp. March 18, 1845 for $500. He bought the land (the W ½ of the SW Qtr., Sec. 20, Twp. 7 of Range 5 of the unappropriated lands in the Military District offered for sale at Zanesville, from James and Lydia Little. (See map "The Building of Ohio" elsewhere in this chapter for location of land allotted to military and/or government servants in lieu of pay. That land not allocated to those in government service was sold to settlers, Elder being one of them). The Littles evidently were land speculators who bought large land tracts and then sold in smaller parcels as deed records show several transactions by them. A plat map of land owners dated between 1850 and 1860 lists Elder Hawkins owning that piece of land. This is the oldest plat map in the Coshocton County Courthouse.

Family oral history claims they came to White Eyes, a former Delaware Indian settlement where Chief White Eyes, a Christian Delaware Indian, ruled over his tribe. Chief White Eyes, so named because he had an unusual proportion of white in his eyes compared to the average Indian, died of smallpox over 30 years before Elder was born and settlers after 1801, established a town called White Eyes Plains where the chief had his settlement. It was a postal station as early as 1831 and was listed officially as White Eyes Plains until 1854 when the town was formally called Oxford. (This is in Oxford Twp. a couple townships south of Crawford Twp.) Since there is a White Eyes Twp. bordering on Crawford Twp., it is likely Elder and Elisabeth came there where many people named Caton lived.

Other records show some of Elder and Elisabeth's children born in Washington Co., PA and some in Coshocton Co., OH. Their son, Harrison's Civil War record states he was born in Washington, PA. Death certificates of two daughters, Jane Hawkins Hunt (code AD) and Samantha Hawkins Meeks, (code AE) show they were born in Washington Co., PA. Census records differ, however. Elder J. (code AH), Andrew, (code AI), and another daughter, Sarah Evaline (code AG) (who died at age 23 months in 1854 and is buried in Caton Cemetery in White Eyes Twp.) were all born in Ohio.

Helen Carter McVey, daughter of Alma Hawkins Carter, and great-granddaughter of Elder and Elisabeth, went to Washington, PA and found Elder listed in the 1840 census as a resident of Chartiers Twp. of Washington Co., PA. Chartiers is a coal mining area. Only heads of households were listed in this census so there is no record of the names of his wife or children. But it does prove he lived there in 1840.

So far, we have no clues to the birthplace of Elder and Elisabeth except in obituary and census records and they differ. The family Bible, now in the possession Fred and Sadie Hawkins, mentions only dates of birth of Elder and Elisabeth as well as their children but fails to give the birthplaces. When all the official data is combined with family oral history, we can conclude they both were probably born in Pennsylvania.

Family lore from several sources, including my 91-year old father, a family history by Edgar Hawkins (only son of Elder's grandson, Andrew Miller Hawkins as told to him by Elder's daughter, Samantha Hawkins Meeks) and Violetta Hawkins Snyder, claim Elder was born East of the Allegheny Mountains and at a very young age, was "bound out" to a family, either to learn a trade or on the death of his parents. He did not like the family he was "bound" to and when a group of cattle drovers asked if he wanted to go along, he simply said, "Wait 'til I get my hat," and he left. We assume he came over the Allegheny Mts. to western Pennsylvania or possibly Ohio with them. According to the Edgar Hawkins history, Elder's daughter, Samantha Hawkins Meeks, said the man who asked him to go with them raised him.

A lady in Oregon, researching a grandfather named George Washington Hawkins through the Mormon Church, had documents from Salt Lake City Genealogy Records, that tied her George in with our family and showed he was a coal miner in Chartiers Twp., Washington County, PA. I compared pictures of the two Georges and they were not the same. However this is where we got the clue that our first Elder Hawkins (code A) lived there.

The Edgar Hawkins History, recalls Elder's daughter, Samantha Hawkins Meeks (code AE) saying our first Elder Hawkins was a brick maker while family lore tells of the huckster route and farming. So he may have done several different things including making shoes as Edgar remembered seeing iron shoe lasts and boot forms where he saw the covered wagon staves in the barn.

I believe the family lore (since it is fairly consistent), that Elder was born East of the Alleghenies, probably in Lancaster County as it was the parent county of what eventually became Washington County. I wrote to Lancaster County, PA for will records of a George Hawkins and a Thomas Hawkins, but there was no heir named Elder. Pennsylvania has what is called an Orphans' Court for settlement of estates where there was no will and children were involved. I failed to find an Elder.

Also in the two Pennsylvania histories I read of the Hawkins families who settled throughout Pennsylvania. I found none named Elder. One thing in those histories strikes me as unusual. In the same county where Elder and Elisabeth lived there was a town called Eldersville and one named Elsworth. Both Elder and Elsworth were prominent names in our family from Elder and Elisabeth's children and for several generations. But I found no connection to these towns. A lady in Washington County, PA wrote me that a James Elsworth of Tuscarawas Co., OH came to Washington Co, PA in the early 1800's and established a coal mine operation there. And she said there was a place called Hawkins' Corners near her home. But I could make no connection. If able, I shall still pursue any avenue that opens as there were numerous Hawkins families in Washington County and in Virginia.

Elder may have been born in Virginia, as stated on son Harrison's (code AB) death certificate, as Virginia claimed part of Pennsylvania as its territory for many years after the end of the Revolutionary War. Washington County records were kept in Virginia for many years and some are still there. Unfortunately, only a few churches and ministers kept birth and baptismal records before 1893, and I found neither Elder or Elisabeth in any I researched. Marriage records weren't kept until 1885 so I find no marriage record for Elder and Elisabeth but assume it was about 1835.

In the process of research, I received four Hawkins family histories. They are from California, Arizona, Illinois, and Ohio. The Illinois history is of descendants of an Abraham Hawkins who settled in Massachusetts who had a brother in Pennsylvania. It came from a young man, Mike Walker, whose mother was a Hawkins and had seen my letter to the editor of his local newspaper seeking descendants of Elder and Elisabeth's son, John Elsworth (code AC), who had been killed in the Civil War. We had lost complete track of John's wife and descendants though we knew he had at least one child. While Mr. Walker lived in the same area where John's descendants lived, he didn't know them nor they him. He took photos of cemetery gravestones of our John Elsworth and wife, Maggie McCall Hawkins, and sent them. (See them in the chapter of descendants of John Elsworth Hawkins (code AC - chapter 4).

A humorous sidelight on this original settler ancestor, Abraham Hawkins mentioned above is as follows: Abraham had been farmed out to a German shoemaker to learn the shoemaker's trade and the man was so mean to him that he ran away and joined the Revolutionary War. In 1780, he got married at age 20 and had 10 children before his wife died at age 36. The next year he remarried and had nine children. This wife died at age 71 bringing his total progeny to 19 children. By this time, Abraham was aged 80 but he married again and four years later his 79 year-old wife died. Obviously age put an end to the childbearing. But not one to give up on marriage, he took the fourth wife two months after the death of his third wife. They separated early on but she managed to outlive him when at age 89, he was thrown from a stallion, fell against a stump, and died from the injury! He was such a tough, old guy it makes me think he must be a shirt-tailed cousin or something! This Hawkins family has a National Hawkins Reunion every two years and there should be one in 1987.

The history from a man in Arizona whose Hawkins roots are in Ohio and New York was secured for me by Doris Bergoon Franks, Redlands, CA, great-granddaughter of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins through their son Elder J. (code AH). I fail to find any connection to our family. I do think Elder and his children must have had New York or definitely Eastern accents as many of our older family members pronounce "Hawkins" like "Hockins". Since Elder came from east of the Allegheny Mts., he may well have had an eastern accent. I also note many documents with "Hawkins" spelled "Hockins" (sometimes in the same paragraph both spellings were included) and know that people who weren't well schooled wrote words as they sounded. No doubt this included army clerks, court officials, and census takers. But so far I've made no direct connection to the numerous Hawkins families in western Pennsylvania or further east.

Also, a man from Bannock County, ID sent a map showing a Hawkins Basin and Hawkins Reservoir and Elder and Elisabeth's great-grandson, Boyd Hawkins, Pocatello, ID said he had fished there many times. At one time there was a town named Hawkins there too.

I doubt the Coshocton newspaper's obituary of Elder is totally accurate. We know some facts are incorrect and we don't know who gave the information to the Spring Mt. correspondent. On the other hand, we can't throw out any lore till proven untrue. Violetta Hawkins Snyder said her grandfather, George, (code AA, Elder and Elisabeth's first child) told that his parents met when young on a street in a Pennsylvania town somewhere. She also said (as did others) that Elisabeth was 1/4th blood Delaware Indian and that she was raised by her grandmother Caton. She remembers being told that every night an older Indian gentleman would check on Elisabeth by peering in her window after she had gone to bed. They surmise this was her father.

But Andrew (code AI), Elder and Elisabeth's youngest child, told my father that Elisabeth's maiden name was Gardner. Thomas, Andrew's youngest son, confirms his father saying they were related to the Gardners. Also I find a Gardner with land bordering on Elder's first farm in Crawford Twp., Coshocton County, OH. Court-house will records of George Gardner, Crawford Twp., Coshocton Co., OH, show he left land to a niece, Mary Caton, who was to care for him in old age. So there could well be a connection which we haven't unraveled yet.

Elder and Elisabeth's first farm was located just off St. Rt. 93 about one mile north of Pearl, OH between Crawford TR 236 and SR 93 on the west side of the railroad. It lies west of TR 89. Since the original road of approach to the farm has trees growing up in the middle of it, it can now be approached by following Crawford TR 89 to TR 88, turning in at the first oil well road on property owned by George Lorenz. Then one must walk north down steep, grass-covered banks to the wooded gully where there is a small spring, traces of rock foundations of a house and outbuildings, and traces of a stone fence of about 200 yards connecting the bank barn corral, also fenced of stone, to the spring.

If one goes in the early spring, brush and weeds are not so lush. Jonquils outline where the cabin or house stood and line the tree-filled former lane into the barn from TR 89. The farm is now used mainly for a pasture for cattle. It would be advisable to obtain permission to visit the farm from the current landowner, Dent Thomas.

Several small pasture fields remain cleared of trees and I followed fresh deer tracks, listened to the frogs croak out their mating calls, and observed the land of our forefathers. It was quite an emotional experience for me the day I finally found it. And I sat down on a rock, observed our hilly, heritage lands, ate nitroglycerin, and cried. Mixed with the joy of being there was the pain of finding it too late for my blind, angina-ridden father to see even photos of it. (see photos of the farm elsewhere in this chapter.)

According to tax duplicates in the Coshocton County Treasurer's office and the staff there, you can date the value of the real estate as we do now. Taxes are paid on 35% of the market value and those years where there were large tax increases, there were probably significant improvements to the farm.

The previous owner of Elder's first farm, James and Lydia Little, paid taxes on real estate valued at $485 from 1845 through 1846. In 1847, Elder paid taxes on land valued at $1770 and it remained at this value until 1856 when the market value jumped to $3522, where it remained more or less until sold to Charles Lenz in 1868—deed dated Mar. 24, 1868. So the Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins family carved a good farm out of the rocky hillsides before selling at a considerable profit and moving on.

April 4, 1868, Elder bought 82 acres in Holmes County bordering the Coshocton County line, (the E 1/2 of the SW Qtr. of Sec. 2) of Twp. 8 of Range 9 of the Military Land District formerly for sale at Zanesville, and 160 acres in Coshocton County (the NE Qtr., Sec. 1, Twp. 7, Range 9, in the Military District) paying $3000 for all of it. The deed was revised April 13, 1870 as "at the time of making the deed to Elder Hocking (sic) this piece of land (SW Qtr. of the SE Qtr. of Sec. 2 of Twp. 8, Range 9" of Holmes Co.) was left out of 1868 deed and 40 acres included which never belonged to the sellers, Joseph and Catherine Smith. They were land speculators too and had moved on to Iowa but Elder brought them back to clear his land title.

While still in Pennsylvania, Elder had rheumatoid arthritis so severely that he could not even drive a horse and wagon, and though he couldn't read or write, he was a very shrewd, intelligent, and thrifty business man. (I found no signature of Elder's on any document but do find Elisabeth's signature even in old age. See deed to son Andrew J. Hawkins (code AI) and other documents bearing signatures elsewhere in this chapter.

They started a huckster route. Some think they did this in Tuscarawas Co., OH but I think it was in Pennsylvania as I find no evidence they ever lived in Tuscarawas County, OH after searching all kinds of records in that county's genealogical library. She drove the horse and wagon and up and down the countryside they went buying anything they could and reselling it. They also sold eggs, butter, and other things they made and obviously made a living at it.

When they decided to come west to Ohio, they had a public sale of personal property, took promissory notes for payment, and went back six months later to collect on them. With interest they had enough money to make the move to land ownership and prosperity. By the time Elder died in 1889, they had loaned money to people in the area totaling over $2400 and their cash and personal assets at his death were valued at over $3200 not including the land.

It is told by family members that on his way back to his home in Pennsylvania, Elder accidentally met his brother Phillip Hawkins in Dover, OH (Tuscarawas Co.) and they stayed all night together there. I tried tracing Elder's heritage through Phillip Hawkins as there was just one by that name in the 1800 and 1810 Pennsylvania census. Also there was just one listed in the Ohio censuses of 1820, 1830, 1840, 1850, and 1860 censuses. Since family members names, occupations etc. were listed first in 1850, I traced the Phillip Hawkins families from that date. One was an aged black man with a wife, Elizabeth, and born in Canada and the other was from near Cincinnati. When I found a descendant of the latter family in Cincinnati, we could make no connection with our Elder.

There is a Phillip Hawkins in Ship Passenger Arrival Lists of 1764 in Philadelphia but I bought no records for him. Another Phillip was listed in the 1810 Virginia census with several family members and I did view the micro-film of that census. He had several children about the ages of Elder's family but there was no other information - no names, occupations, etc. Also a Phillip Hawkins is listed as a Revolutionary War veteran. I didn't get his records and they are hard now to obtain and very expensive.

A Mrs. Frank Harris in Loudonville, OH answered a letter I wrote to her local newspaper saying her husband's mother was a daughter of a Phillip Hawkins born in Ohio. This Philip's father was Obediah Hawkins of Virginia. Her husband is the spitting image of my dad and one of Madison's grandsons. So far we have made no connections but are still searching that route. We can almost assume that both Elder and Elisabeth never knew or talked of their parents as there is no name or birthplace of their parents on any death certificates.

Education was important to Elder and Elisabeth as the 1850 census shows sons George, Harrison, and John as enrolled in school. According to a Coshocton County history, the schools were "subscription" schools where parents paid for entering their children in school. The 1850 census shows that daughter Nancy Jane Hawkins Hunt (code AD), age nine, was not enrolled at that time. Samantha Hawkins Meeks (code AE) wasn't listed in the census but she was seven years old at this time and evidently wasn't enrolled in school either.

There was a school in Crawford Township, Coshocton County, Oh in the woods where the town of Chili now stands. It was only three months in duration and taught in irregular periods. Sometimes one term was the only education many people had. The teacher was usually little in advance of his students in knowledge so progress was slow. The first "efficient" teacher in this township came about 1835.

From Hill's Coshocton County History:

The following description of one of the school houses, or places for public meetings, was clipped from THE COSHOCTON AGE, of February, 1881, and as it is a faithful picture, is worthy of preservation.

"The one I can more particularly describe was situated in the southwest quarter of White Eyes Township. The house was built of round logs and not hewed on either side. The openings between the logs were filled with chunks and daubed with mud. The floor was made of puncheons, split out of a tree and partially hewed. The roof was made of clapboards, laid on poles, and poles laid on the boards to keep them on. The loft was made of the same kind of material as the floor, and daubed along the joints with mud to keep the cold out. The door was made of rough boards, with a wooden latch for a fastening with a buck-skin latch string, the end of which hung through a hole in the door, to raise the latch. There was no stove in it, but it had a fireplace in one end of the building; a back-wall was built from the ground to the loft, about eight feet long, without jambs; the flue was started at the loft, built of mud and sticks, and run up through the roof, to let the smoke escape. In this fire-place the teacher would build a large wood fire around which the boys and girls would stand to warm themselves before the school hours in the morning. A substitute for windows was made by cutting out a log on each side, with paper pasted over the openings and greased with lard or tallow, to admit the light. The paper used was THE COSHOCTON SPY (now the Age). Around the walls were rough boards fixed on pins in the walls for desks; along these desks were long benches with four or five legs in each one, made by boring holes in a slab and inserting the legs in these holes. The desks and benches were occupied by those learning to write and those studying arithmetic. There were three other benches, shorter in the legs, placed in front of the fire, for smaller children to occupy. The benches were all without backs. The teacher made all the pens for his scholars of goose quills, with a small knife. The paper used to write on then was not ruled like the paper now; the scholars had rulers, to rule their paper with, and pencils made of lead, hammered out in the shape of a horse-shoe nail, and would rule their paper with this. The text books used at that time, were the United States Spelling-Book, English Reader, New Testament and Western Calculator. No English Grammar or Geography were taught. Those reading in the English Reader would all stand up in a class, in some unoccupied place in the house; the whole class would bow to the teacher. The one standing at the head of the class would read a paragraph, the one next to him the same, and so on till all had read. Those reading in the Testament the same. All the teacher done during the reading was, when the scholars came to a word they could not pronounce, the teacher would pronounce it for him or her. After the class had read two paragraphs each, they would return to their seats, without any further instructions on the subject of reading. Then the teacher would call up the smaller scholars, one or two at a time, and point to the letter or word to be spelled, with his penknife; in a general way the scholar repeating the lesson after the teacher. Those who had studied arithmetic solved the examples at their seats, except when they come to one they could not in any way solve; they would then go to the teacher, he would solve it on the slate, and pass it back to the scholar. There was no blackboard, consequently there was very little instruction in the matter. These were the days of corporal punishment, and in a convenient place to the teacher stood one or two hickory gads, large enough to drive a yoke of oxen. School continued from between eight and nine o'clock in the morning to four o'clock P.M., except one hour at noon; no recess. Young folks, compare your advantages and comforts with those of forty-five years ago."

Elder's obituary states he joined the Baptist Church and was a "staunch member" ever since. Though I don't know for certain, they were probably members of the White Eyes Regular Baptist Church organized in 1839 with 14 members. The church prospered for a time and by 1854 had a membership of 60. Their house of worship was a small frame one and quite old in 1881 when this was written in Hill's History. But interest waned and population decreased in that area after 1870 so the church closed about 1875, just a few years after Elder and Elisabeth moved to Holmes County, OH.

A few anecdotes of Elder and Elisabeth are still told by family members. I've often wondered where we all got the perseverance (some call it stubbornness), humor, ability to argue loudly over religion, politics, mandatory seatbelts, and what this world is coming to these days. I've also wondered where we all got the ingenuity to make do with whatever we had available to us. Some of it can be found in the following family tales.

My dad remembers his grandmother though he was about six years old when she died. Blinded by glaucoma, she walked with a four-foot hickory stick. I asked if it was a cane and Dad declares it was a "club." No doubt it had numerous uses and he may have been on the receiving end of it a few times. He can remember Elisabeth coming out of the house with her walking stick, tapping her way down the stone path to the picket fence gate, banging it open to go through to measure a cord of wood someone had cut for her. She measured it with her "club" and though blind, measured it accurately.

When I asked who had the sense of humor in the family, he thought it must have been Elder as she seemed pretty stern. But then he told me a tale about Elder's temper that made me think we get our short fuses from Elder as he obviously had one that was either short or well worn! Some neighbor boys were teasing Elder's pigs through a line fence by begging them to come close and when they were within reach, the boys reached through the fence and slashed them with a knife. One day Elder caught them at this misdemeanor, slipped up on the the boys, and "tied into them" with his bare fists. One boy had a bag of "shot" which he swung at Elder breaking his jaw. No doubt this added vigor to Elder's fighting adrenalin, and he whipped the three boys all.

The father of the boys, had Elder arrested for assault and battery which, when added to the slashed pigs, the broken jaw, and humiliation over the arrest, caused him considerable dismay. Under questioning on the witness stand, Elder lost his temper, and said he could "whip the whole damn family." Whereupon the judge fined him $10 for misconduct in court or for threatening (no one remembers) and dismissed the case. I suspect Elder was angered at the fine but probably was more satisfied than if he had been a mealymouthed witness. To this day, most of us know where ANY Hawkins stands on ANY issue.

Elisabeth must have been a good cook and excellent housekeeper as her daughters Jane Hawkins Hunt and Samantha Hawkins Meeks are still remembered for being most meticulous and good cooks. And this they handed on to their descendants as full tables and pot bellies attest to this yet today. Of course some of the women inlaws may have contributed slightly to these talents, the pride of women's achievements in that day. Jane's daughter, Flora, had a beautiful white, handmade, beaded wedding gown (see photo of it in Chapter 5 - Jane's chapter) that attests to their skills in needlework. But "Uncle Andry" (nickname of son Andrew Jackson Hawkins, code AI) never remembered eating rice cooked with salt until he was a young man helping Lee Conner thresh wheat and oats. Salt was a precious commodity and my mother's great-grandfather used to ride from Tiverton to Zanesville where there were salt springs and paid the price of a cow and a calf for a bushel of salt.

When Elder was 80 years old, just a year before he died, he sold 80 acres of his Coshocton County property to each of his sons George and Andrew. (See part of Andrew's deed elsewhere in this chapter). On Feb. 28, 1889, Elder died of "lung fever" (probably pneumonia) and was buried in the Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery (also known as Wolf Creek Baptist Church Cemetery) where he and his family were members. Most of the membership of that church now are descendants of Elder and Elisabeth.

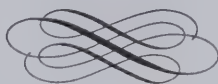

Since Elder had no will, an appraisal of the family possessions and public sale had to be held with certain items specified to go to the widow. Even the family Bible and photographs were valued at $1.00 each. She was allowed to have certain items such as five beds and bedsteads, one 24-hour clock valued at $2.00 and one sidesaddle valued at $1.00 plus $500.00 in money. She also kept several other items including her cider barrel, churn, copper "kittle", wheelbarrow, and manure fork. She was also allowed to keep 40 bushels of wheat, 50 bushels of corn, 100 lbs. of dried pork, and six bushels of potatoes, the latter valued at $1.00 (See sale bill and appraisal forms elsewhere in this chapter.)

Two years after Elder's death, Elisabeth made a will in which she divided her personal household items between her lawful children including her

"burrow" (bureau), "beadclose" (bedclothes), set of German silver teaspoons, and her glass framed picture with hair flowers in it. (See complete will elsewhere in this chapter.)

Elisabeth died at age 90 years on Oct. 10, 1902 and was buried in the Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery. I don't know the cause of her death as no death certificate was ever filed in Coshocton or Holmes Counties nor with the Ohio Division of Vital Statistics. Nor was there an obituary in Holmes or Coshocton county newspaper records in county libraries. People often had to pay for obituaries in those days and she may not have been considered as prominent as Elder. But we can be as proud of her as him as the two of them together built the heritage this large family has today.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

News of the Day - March 15, 1889

Other items in THE COSHOCTON DEMOCRATIC STANDARD newspaper on the day Elder's obituary appeared, reveal how differently news was written then. At the end of Elder's obituary, with not a line separating the next news item from the obituary, the following was written: William Weatherwax, son of John A. Weatherwax, is slowly yielding to that dread disease consumption and the end is but a question of time. I wondered if Mr. Weatherwax read the predictions of his own demise!

Also, it was reported in the Tiverton Tidings column, that a lot of people went to the Stillinger sale, and that John Stillinger sold everything and the family went to Nebraska. Also in that column, William and Basil Robinson sold 100 acres to William Smith and Isaac Hall for $2,000.00 and were going to Nebraska too. Everyone knew everyone else's financial business in those days.

Plymouth Rock eggs were for sale (no price given), Macon Hunter, a fireman on the Pan Handle Railroad was sandbagged and robbed in Columbus. The robbers "dealt him a fearful blow across the left eye" and "took a valuable watch and $7.00 in money and his hat was carried away by the miscreants." The county commissioners had 20 bids for a bridge building project with bids running from $41.00 to $50.00.

In the Spring Mt. News along with Elder's obituary was a report that Mr. Cease, aspirant to the ministry, had preached a "good sermon at the EA church." The most unusual item of national news was that there was A BUSTLE WAR between the wife of president-elect Benjamin Harrison, and Mrs. Grover Cleveland, wife of the loser in the fall election of 1888.

In a long story, it was reported Mrs. Carrie S. Harrison would "lead the Pro Bustle Party" and the question was "Will Mrs. Cleveland's No Bustle Adherents Be Put To Rout?" I don't know who won the Bustle War as my encyclopedias didn't record that momentous war, but I did see the ladies were liberated from bustles in 1900 and Grover Cleveland had won the election. So Mrs. Cleveland, who couldn't vote in the election since women's right to vote came much later, must have had a victory too. Compared to the projects of First Ladies today, (drugs, mental health, beautification of the United States, etc.), this doesn't seem like a comparable compelling issue of the day. However, if I was wrestling with a bustle while I type this, I might think otherwise and put the issue somewhere besides behind me!

Elder and Elisabeth (Caton-Gardner) Hawkins, the earliest ancestors we can trace. They came to Ohio in the 1840's. We assume the picture was made about 1850 or 1860. The picture is owned now by Mrs. Harvey Hawkins, daughter-in-law of Andrew Jackson Hawkins (code A1), youngest son of Elder and Elisabeth.

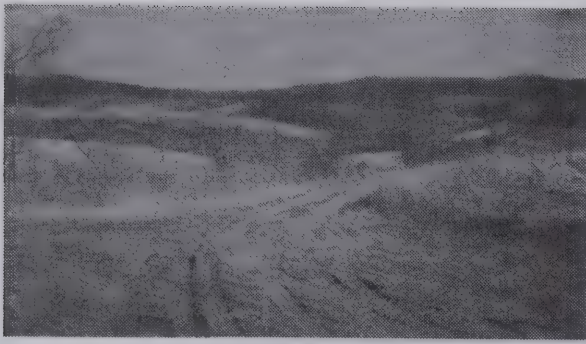

Elisabeth (Caton-Gardner) Hawkins in old age. She had glaucoma and was blind during her last years. She was said to be 1/4th Delaware Indian.

Elder Hawkins (the first). He died at age 80 in Holmes County, OH. He was the earliest pioneer relative we can trace at this time though there were Hawkins families here as early 1820. He came to Coshocton County from Washington County, PA about 1845.

This lady is thought to be the grandmother Caton who raised Elisabeth Hawkins. It appears she is blind also and she appears to be Indian. If anyone has seen this picture in a family album and knows for certain who it is, please let us know.

The landscape around the first farm of 80 acres Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins bought in Crawford Twp., Coshocton County, OH. The farm was stony, hilly and small.

A branch of White Eyes Creek which ran through Elder's first farm. It was named for a Christian Delaware Indian chief so named because he had an unusual amount of white in his eyes for an Indian.

The path from Elder's barn corral down a steep hill to the spring. The fence was made of stone, remains of which can still be seen. The corral was fenced of stone also. This could be an eastern Pennsylvania influence on Elder's lifestyle since he was born east of the Allegheny Mts.

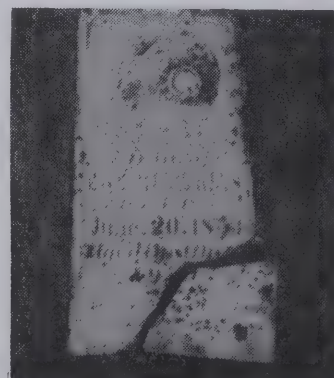

Huge rocks like this cover the area. This is an example of what Elder and his family worked around on both farms they owned in this county.

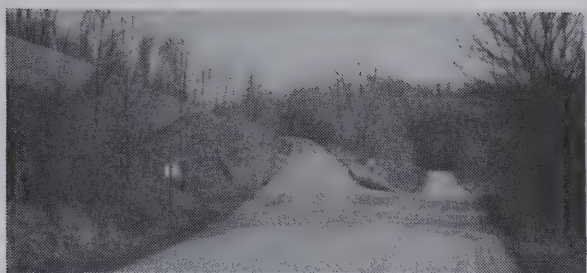

The handchiseled, sandstone block foundation of Elder's barn in Crawford Twp., Coshocton County, OH. Stones are fit together with no mortar and are exactly like those used in the locks of the famed Ohio-Erie Canal which were built in this county before 1830.

Caton Cemetery, located in White Eyes Township, Coshocton County, OH. The only child Elder and Elisabeth lost, Sarah Evaline Hawkins, was buried here at age 23 months. Cause of death is not known.

Gravestone of Sarah Evaline Hawkins, daughter of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, in Caton Cemetery. She was born in Ohio on July 11, 1852.

The famous Hawkins Hill Road built in Coshocton County just at the border of Homes County. The hill, about ¼th mile long, was a favorite for sled riding as one could coast past the Hawkins Homestead in Holmes County for about ½ mile.

Gravesite of Elder Hawkins (the first) in the Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery, Richland Twp., Holmes Co., Oh. Many of Elder's descendants are leaders in that church today.

Gravesite of Elisabeth Hawkins in the Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery, Richland Twp., Holmes Co., OH.

Fred Hawkins, son of Andrew Jackson Hawkins, youngest son of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins. Fred and his wife, Sadie, own much of the land and live in this remodeled home of Elder and Elisabeth. Part of the old house remains. It is located in Richland Twp., Holmes County, OH about one mile south of Stillwell bordering the Coshocton County line.

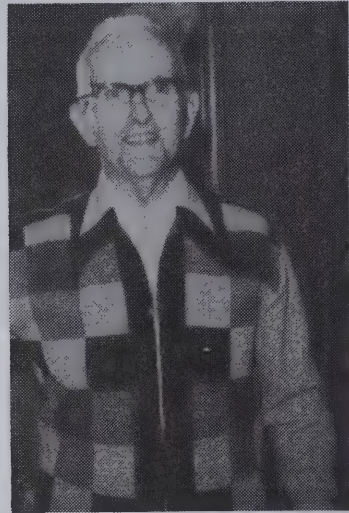

A Sunday morning in 1908 in the original home of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins in Holmes County, OH. From left to right are: Andrew Miller Hawkins (with book), Wilda and Bessie Hawkins (tall teenagers in white dresses on either side of seated persons); Edgar Hawkins (with gun); and seated are Sam and Elizabeth McKee holding an unidentified baby (probably daughter Sara who was born in 1908) with Violetta Hawkins standing between the seated parents. The other boy is unidentified.

When George Washington Hawkins (code AA), the oldest child of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, came to Coshocton County, OH, he was probably about 10 or 11 years old. According to the family Bible and his obituary printed on the front page of THE HOLMES COUNTY FARMER, Thursday, Aug. 8, 1918, he was born Jan. 25, 1836 in Pennsylvania (no specific location given). (See obituary in the Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter). Other sources give his birthdate as 1835. The 1850 Coshocton County census lists him as 15 years old in November, 1850, born in Ohio, and in school that year. His obituary states he moved with his parents from near White Eyes in Coshocton County, Oh to Tiverton Twp., Coshocton County in 1868.

No doubt, as the oldest child in the family and a young man, he carried heavy responsibility in the moving as well as the farm work. It is said by family members that he could do about anything and did it exactly correct. Ten years later in 1860, he is not listed in the Coshocton County census as living at home or even in Ohio. It was suggested by some that he may have struck out for California during the gold rush as a group did go from Coshocton. It is documented by Salt Lake City Mormon Genealogical records that George married Amanda Booth in the late 1850s in California, had two daughters, (one in 1859 and one in 1861) naming one of them Montry Mona after the "mother lode" of gold in the area of California where he was supposed to have lived; Santa Rosa, Sonoma County. A Mormon lady from Oregon searching for information about a George Washington Hawkins who married her grandmother, told me that after he had two daughters, he then disappeared. She also told me by phone, that the genealogy records sent her from Salt Lake City, Utah, had shown that her grandfather was a part of our family, naming Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins as his parents, and all their children as his siblings. Copies of the Salt Lake City documents were sent to me and indeed he was connected to our Hawkins family by what is reputed to be the best genealogical record center in the nation. But I secured a reprint of the photo she found in her grandmother's papers and compared it with the picture I had of our George given me by Julia Snyder Gray, George's great-granddaughter. The pictures were not of the same person. Ironically, the lady in Oregon was never able to secure a death certificate for her ancestor George Washington Hawkins and I was never able to get one for our George Washington Hawkins. This would have given both Georges' parents' names and birthplaces but evidently a death certificate was never filed for either of them.

The other question is where did our George Hawkins (code AA) live in 1860 since he wasn't listed in the Ohio Census. According to the Edgar Hawkins history (Edgar is his grandson), George was a cabinet maker in Columbus when he was a young man. The fact that he's not in the 1860 census in Franklin County, OH, is not unusual since census takers missed many people, spelled their names wrong, etc. Our George was not in the Civil War though my father thought he was told that he, and his brothers John (code AC) and Harrison (code AB) all walked to Millersburg to enlist. I don't know who is correct but there are no war records on George, Harrison was married in Indiana in 1861 and enlisted in Terra Haute, IN in 1864, and John enrolled in Crawford Twp., Coshocton Co., OH. Also, the family didn't move to Holmes County until 1868, well after the Civil War was over. Perhaps George was rejected as he was blind in one eye.

Edgar Hawkins also wrote that he heard that his grandfather, George, helped build one of the first threshing machines. If he was as mechanically inclined as his oldest child, John Elsworth Hawkins (code AAA) or grandson Edgar Hawkins, who wrote the Edgar Hawkins History, he surely could have been an inventor. Elsewhere in this chapter I will write of their mechanical genius for it is well worth your knowing.

Some members of the family thought George had no middle name and we have no documented evidence, but one of George's granddaughters said both her grandfathers were named for the nation's first president. Since Elder and Elisabeth named three of their other sons after presidents, as was a common practice then, no doubt George's middle name was Washington though there's no official record.

George was described differently by those who knew him. His granddaughter, Sara Henderson, said he had auburn hair which is the way my father remembers him but Edgar Hawkins, in his history, said George looked and acted like an Indian. He said his skin was of reddish color and that he also "had a small, grizzly beard and jet black hair bobbed off just so the lobes of his ears could be seen." We have a picture of him in his 70s where he certainly appears that way.

No doubt he was out in the sun a lot and was of ruddy complexion but several people said he had blue eyes, was close to six feet tall with wide shoulders and a slim waist and hips. My father said George loved guns and indeed he's holding a gun in all but one of the few pictures we have of him. Edgar Hawkins writes of his grandfather that he was "tall, dignified and didn't resort to foul language. He conducted himself strictly as a gentleman, to that end he was unyielding and unbending. He didn't go to church, but about 1913 there was a Revival Meeting at Stillwell Baptist Church. The minister and my dad (Andrew Miller Hawkins) went up and talked to him. He came down and was baptized and went back home. I don't remember him being in the church. I saw him baptized (at age 77) right down there on Harve Hawkins' place. The creek at that time made a bend close to the road."

George's son, Andrew Miller Hawkins (code AAC) and the minister must have surely been committed persons or worried about George's soul and eternity, to climb that terribly steep hill on top of which George lived. The writer was baptized in the same cold, spring-fed water of Wolf Creek in the same place about 1942 and so were most of the other people who joined that church. I suppose they still immerse them there unless they go to a church with a baptistry inside as many small churches do these days. It must not have hurt George any as he lived four more years.

In 1867, George married Mary Elizabeth Graham, a native of Coshocton County, Oh. She was a beautiful, young lady (see photos elsewhere in this chapter) and every reference to her by family members who knew her is that she had a gentle, kind nature. Her nickname was "Mare-Liz" and she is still referred to by that name. My father said she was fair complected, had black hair and eyes and was a "nice looking woman."

After the young couple was wed they started housekeeping in an old frame house by the spring on part of the Coshocton County land his father owned. The house doesn't stand now but was located on the part of the farm bordering the Holmes County line where George's new house is now located. The writer was born on this part of the farm in George's new house as my father, Clifford C. Hawkins and his brother, Elder Harrison "Harry" Hawkins (code AHJ) moved the house from on top of the hill to it's present location on Coshocton County CR 452 about one mile south of Stillwell, OH. George's great granddaughter, Mary Alice Hawkins McCombs, now lives in it with her family.

In a deed dated Feb. 13, 1888 (one year before Elder the 1st died), George and Mary Elizabeth Hawkins bought 80 acres of the Coshocton County portion of his parent's land for $850.00. They bought the NE Qtr. of Sec. 1 of Twp. 7 Range 9 described as laying in "the west part of the above section where John Cooper's land corners with the above lot then running east to a stake then south to a stone corner where Irwin Bowers land corners with the above lot then west to a stone corner where Mathenys land corners with the above lot then north to the place of beginning containing 80 acres more or less." This way of writing deeds was common then but surely was conducive to line fence arguments also common then. (At the same time, George's brother, Andrew Jackson Hawkins, also bought 80 acres of land from their father bordering on George's land, part of which he later sold to George's oldest son, John Elsworth Hawkins (code AAA). John and Andrew came to blows several times over the deal as John wasn't ever quite sure he got the full 32½ acres he thought he bought). Fred and Sadie Hawkins now own George's land (except for the 32½ acres John bought) purchasing it from my father who bought it in 1924 from the heirs to the estate of Dad's father, Elder J. Hawkins (code AH). You'd hardly recognize the deed for the same land.

George and Mary Elizabeth set about building a new house on the very top of the hill. They had 10 children (all born in the old house by the spring on the lower 40 acres bordering the Holmes County line) but two had died. One, Samantha, died at six weeks of age of whooping cough (it is said George built her casket for burial) and the other, Ida, died a mysterious death. At age 21, she was a receptionist for a physician in Akron and was found dead and thought to have been murdered. However, no investigation was ever made and the mystery exists as big as ever today. But even the new house was small for a big family although the oldest children were no doubt married, working away from home, etc. It had three rooms downstairs and two big rooms upstairs.

George also drilled a deep well and, according to Edgar Hawkins in his history, it was very good water. George had an orchard from which my mother was still preserving peaches in the early 1940s. The family was quite self-sufficient up on that pinnacle and probably was never bothered by traveling salesmen, tramps, nuisance neighbors, etc. He also had a hops vine growing near the house which was used to pep up the home-made yeast for baking bread. All housewives kept a "starter" of yeast for the next batch of home-made bread and after using it so long, it needed a boost. My mother remembers "Mag" (code aaa), wife of George's oldest son, John, tying three or four hops in a bag and putting it in the yeast can containing the leftover "starter" to give it some "oomph." Women were never without a yeast "starter" and I suppose when someone married, part of the dowry was a "starter" of yeast. That was very valuable as you couldn't just run to the corner grocery for bread when you needed it.

A favorite staple for foods in George's home was cornmeal. My dad said every day they made something to eat from cornmeal; corn pancakes, cornbread, mush and milk, corn fritters, etc. No doubt these quick breads saved on the muscle needed to bake homemade bread for a big family.

George's wife, "Mare-Liz", was an immaculate housekeeper and though she was in bed most of the last seven years that she lived, she couldn't stand an untidy house. (After Ida died, Mare-Liz must have suffered from depression as she was in bed most of the time after that until she died.) After the whole family left the house, she'd get up out of bed, put things in order, and then go back to bed. Her daughters were all fine cooks and very particular about housekeeping. Milton McFarland, grandson of George's youngest daughter, Sara Malinda Hawkins McFarland, said he had to sit on a chair when he went to his grandma's house and not scoot it around when he got tired as he might mar the floor. He also said she did everything very slowly. She talked slow and he said he bet it took her five minutes to get across the kitchen she moved so slow. Her husband, Charlie, used to say he had to tell her two days ahead of time if they were going somewhere so she'd be ready. But all report she and her family always looked like they "stepped out of a band box" when they went anywhere. My mother said Sara and her sister, Lola Hyatt, always wore pretty dresses and were "foxy" ladies. Milton said he never knew his grandma Sara Malinda to go out anywhere until her granddaughter, Betty Lucille McFarland, drowned and was buried. He said she always wore long dresses and "that hat thing" (I suspect it was a dust cap to keep her hair clean) and that she never ate ice cream until she was in a rest home in old age.

Milton says his grandpa, Charlie McFarland, was very talkative telling him everytime he went there how to grow sweet potatoes and the difference between sweet potatoes and yams. Charlie raised chickens and made cider and let even the kids drink all the cider they wanted. He always sent cider and eggs home with their visitors.

In a deed dated April 1, 1890, George and Mare-Liz sold 40 acres of their land bordering Holmes County, to his brother, Elder J. Hawkins (code AH), for $1,000. It was the north half of the NE Qtr. of Sec. one, Twp. 7, Range 9, the same land bought by my father that I mentioned before. The same year George and his family moved into the new house they built on the top of the hill. The view they had of the valley between the lushly timbered hills of Holmes and Coshocton counties was spectacular and still is. (See photos elsewhere in this chapter of the view.) My mother used to say she could see nine lights down the valley from our house which was a comforting thing to her, but George and his family could probably see halfway to Killbuck. No doubt they spent many an hour enjoying their scenic view as we did when I was a kid there. We'd climb the hill, day or night, just to enjoy the view. I guess in those "depression days" it didn't take much to entertain us or else we'd already learned how to savor the roses along the road of life.

George and Mare-Liz grew old there and both died in that home, she going first. He suffered a stroke and died in a few hours. The undertaker "laid George out" in his home but there was no way the home was accessible enough for the funeral. So his body was brought down off the hill on a sled, loaded in the undertaker's hearse and hauled off to the church at "Stillwell Corners" for the funeral. It was 1918 so I suppose the undertaker had a horse-drawn hearse.

This reminds me of the story sent me by Jim Hawkins, grandson of one of George's sons, Andrew Miller Hawkins, (code AAC). Andrew Miller had a special love for horses and was expert in their handling. He used "road" horses rather than "draft" horses on the farm because they were faster. He also, usually, had his plowing and planting done well before those nearby. Upon seeing one of the first automobiles pass by, he said to his son, Edgar (Jim's father), "They will never replace the horse." And ironically, for him, this prophecy was correct. Andrew Miller died soon after and was carried to his final resting place by a horse-drawn hearse.

I mentioned before that George's grandson, Edgar Hawkins, son of Andrew Miller Hawkins (code AAC) whom I just mentioned, wrote a history. In fact, he kept a diary through his years which involved some 90 volumes, and in it, you can see from where and how his mechanical genius evolved. Edgar played a significant part in the development of the piston engine, jet engine, and rocket engine machine techniques and wind tunnel development. He worked 25 years for NACA, later changed to NASA beginning as an instrument maker at Langley Field, VA and transferring to Lewis Aircraft Engine Research Laboratory, Cleveland, in 1941.

Eventually he became chief of technical services overseeing the finish work on the test section of the 8' by 6' supersonic tunnel. Much of what he did was classified so the family never knew what he was working on but the very existence of our nation depended on these men and their laboratory. The engineers would get ideas of what they wanted to test in these war years, and it was up to the department he headed to make the equipment to be tested. When you are privileged to listen to men like famous pilot Jimmy Doolittle and statesman Neville Chamberlain discuss how many such laboratories like this that Hitler had, you realize the urgency of the work. This is what he impressed on his co-workers. This short piece doesn't do justice to this man's work and how personally he was involved with trying to develop techniques and machinery for jet and rocket engines for the war effort but I hope it suffices.

Edgar and his parents lived for a while around 1902 in the homestead of Elder and Elisabeth in Holmes County, OH. At this time, a piece of land next to them had been sold first by Elder and Elisabeth to Andrew Jackson Hawkins (code AI) and later bought by John Elsworth and Maggie Hawkins after they were married in 1898. Though most would credit Edgar's mechanical genius to his own efforts, he really got his start by working with and listening to his Uncle John

Elsworth Hawkins (code AAA). John had a Russell, 10-horse traction steam engine, a big water tank, a big threshing machine and a sawmill. In June or July of every year, John would drive his steam engine and water tank down to the creek and begin preparing it for the long summer of work in threshing wheat and oats for all the neighbors. Edgar was just a little boy (little enough to crawl in the steam engine's firebox to help John tighten stay bolts) but was most interested in all John did. And of course John, who was very kind to Edgar, explained everything he did to this inquisitive little boy. (He also built a cart with shafts so Edgar's dog could bring him back and forth to John's house.)

John would go over everything on the steam engine, cleaning, tightening, and repairing what needed fixed. Then he would clean the water tank which held about three ton of water. Then he would go over the threshing machine fixing belts, rivets, bearings, etc. He usually had to rebabbitt the cylinder bearings. (Babbitt was an alloy used in bearings to lessen friction). One day he gave Edgar some old babbitt and told him he could cast some babbitt "dollars" to play with. Edgar had watched John mold babbitt and knew what to do. But he didn't quite know all he needed to know. Edgar went to the house, heated the babbitt in an old spoon in the stove, and poured it in the casting. It was fine but the casting was hot, so Edgar cooled it by dipping it in a pan of water. Then he tried to pour another one, and when it hit that moist casting, the babbitt flew everywhere like shot. It missed Edgar's face and eyes but, he writes, "I quit right there. I had enough experience."

When John got everything prepared, he fired his steam engine up to about 50 pounds of steam, hooked onto the water tank, and then the thrasher, and took his long train up the Hawkins Hill to start threshing for farmers on the ridge. Wheat seemed to ripen earlier there than in the valleys. (John also had a set of tools to pull water well pipe, disassemble it and repair cylinder parts and Edgar helped in this too.) Edgar wrote, "Of course all of the things John done, I knew how to do it too, for he always showed me and told me as he went along." It truly was an apprenticeship which prepared a boy to be a man of vital importance in the survival of our country during World War II.

Edgar started getting more formal education when he went to work as a janitor at C. & G. Cooper Company, Engine Builders, in Mt. Vernon, OH. The first two months he swept the floors knowing nothing about shop work. But as he swept, he occasionally helped machinists set up jobs on their machines, so he learned some each day. One day the foreman took him into his tool room and handed him five big text books from a correspondence course the foreman had taken in machine shop practice. He wanted $20.00 for them. Edgar was making 17½ cents an hour so he paid the foreman a little at a time and studied as he worked. He learned to make all kinds of tools and helped repair machinery all over the plant. That was the beginning of a broader education and an illustrious career for Edgar, but his uncle John was probably the motivator of it all.

Many of George's descendants have distinguished themselves but I can't include them all. (Two of Elder J's (code AH) descendants worked for NASA too - my brother, Clifford E. Hawkins, who was a space science lecturer for NASA during the early moon landings, and Robert Sheldon, who has now retired from the Lewis Research Center where he worked many years.)

Edgar Hawkins' history includes much of the lifestyles of that time and I want to tell you of his mother's belly tap! As Edgar relates it, his mother, the former Sarah Belle Preston, got "dropsy" during the summer of 1920 and by October couldn't get around. Old Doc Hilton Buker came to see her at John and Mag's house (now owned by Terry, a great-grandson of John and Mag, and Arlene Logsdon) where she was staying, to see what he could do. He gave her medicine, then he tapped her protruding belly which was full of water. He took a tool known as a trocar, a triangular, pointed knife with a tube slipped over it. He wanted to cut a hole near her navel to let the water out as it was high in her abdomen. He had her on a chair and he sat on a chair in front of her. As Edgar writes, "he numbed the place he wanted to cut with something maybe novocaine. Then he worked and sweat and she hollered but he got through to the abdominal cavity. Then for days we had to keep cloths on her to soak up the water. She soon got around again and lived until 1932." Such was the medical practice of that day.

My memories of George's oldest son, John, were when he was elderly. He had suffered a nervous breakdown when they dynamited the boulders near his house to build the new road up the Hawkins Hill. For two months, he was on the go night and day in what his wife, Mag, called a "tear" rarely sleeping. Then for two months he was what she called "dauncy" and would sit up by the stove day and night dozing and napping. On one occasion, his son-in-law, Charlie Chaney, thought he would scare him into going to bed by peeking in the window after dark and making strange faces. Charlie was a clown. The next day, Charlie and John were talking to my dad and John said, "I saw God last night and he had the ugliest face you ever saw." All nearly died trying to restrain their laughter as John was serious. I don't know if it got him into bed or not.

John and Mag both were meticulous in house-keeping. Even John's shed floor shone and Mag scrubbed their porch until it had a patina that wouldn't mar. My brothers and I used to take corn we had shelled to John to be cracked for chicken feed. John never let us run his "hand-cranked machine" but preferred to do it himself. Often he'd get sleepy and would nod and bob until he bumped his chin on the large wheel. This was quite a rude awakening for him. Like all kids, we laughed at him. Poor John. He was meticulous even when it didn't pay to be. My dad remembers him husking corn for his pigs and he'd strip the husks and carefully pick every bit of cornsilk from the ears, laying them just so in a bucket. It took him forever but when he had enough, he'd carry the bucket to the hog lot and toss it to the pigs who smeared the corn prepared so meticulously around in their muddy hog wallows. As you know, hogs aren't very particular! I doubt that the corn silk or a few husks on their feed would have even been noticed.

John and Mag had a player piano and a battery radio and my brothers and I used to walk over almost everyday to listen to Mag play the piano or listen to the hillbilly music of Joe Barker and the Chuck-Wagon gang. I remember a radio advertisement declaring the wonder of the world's first home permanents (Charm Curl) and when I was given one, I thought I'd found something great for my naturally straight hair. If I remember my hair turned out all frizzy and nearly matted, almost like kids wear theirs today. But I was terribly embarrassed until we either cut it off or it grew out. Mag also helped guard me from what I thought was a huge snake stretched clear across the road when I was walking to the store at Stillwell. The "snake" was a sapling stretched across the road and I didn't get close enough by myself to see what it was. Such were the neighbors around Wolf Creek - kind and generous and most of them were relatives.

One of George's grandsons, Benjamin "Bennie" Lee Hawkins, son of Elder H. Hawkins (code AAE) got into trouble during prohibition by running homemade corn liquor around the area. Many of his peers were never caught, but Bennie was and was hauled off to the Knox County jail in Mt. Vernon, OH. While he was in jail, the effects of his drink wore off and he went a little crazy. Whereupon, according to his daughters, a sheriff's deputy hit him on the head with a blackjack (it was legal to use them then) and he died of a bloodclot in his brain. No charges of murder were ever made and no aid given to his widow and four little children, one of whom (Betty Hawkins Laughrey) remembers visiting him in jail before he died. She was just three years old. All the children remember the struggle to live after his death, and the rejection they felt from their relatives.

Bennie and his two brothers, Donald and Harold "Abe", were reared by their father after his wife died young of "milk leg". His father, Elder H. (code AAE) worked night and day. He slept in an old barber chair for years and got up and down all night to bake bread and cook. He had it done by morning and then went to the fields to work. But he didn't keep much contact with his grandchildren as they very pointedly spoke of feeling rejected and they were his only grandchildren. Of course his night and day work schedule and the difficulty of traveling to see them probably entered into the situation too.

The widow did many things to keep her family together. She had come from a large family herself and received no help from them either. Welfare paid the family $20.00 a month. So she kept two cows outside of town in Danville, OH and walked to milk them twice a day. Then she made butter and cottage cheese which she sold to Mickley's Store in Danville, and she took in washings. The kids peddled milk for a nickel a quart. And it was rumored she was an immoral woman.

But as her daughters so poignantly said, "Our mother may have had her faults but she kept us together and raised us all. She could have put us in a home or with relatives but she raised us herself and we turned out pretty good." That's the reason I include this story as they want the family to know they are still a part of us and they all are doing as well as most of us. Mary Lou Huff, one the daughters, brought us some of the best pictures we have of the family. She had no idea who they were so Fred and Sadie Hawkins identified all of them one afternoon in a visit to my home. And indeed they have turned out as well as any other family in our book.

Another person in this line who deserves mention is William Owen Levengood, great-grandson of George (code AA). He lives in a San Antonio suburb and has had a varied life with many responsibilities. He remembers attending the Hawkins reunions held at the grove on the old Hyatt Place near Stillwell, OH. He holds a master's degree in clinical psychology, writes Weighted Airmen Promotion System tests for the US air force, was a meteorologist for the air force for about 21 years working on atomic bomb tests in Nevada and other places, and was trained to give polygraph (lie detector) tests. His mother, Maude Barnes Levengood, lives with him in Texas having left her home near Killbuck, OH. He and his wife have adopted a daughter, Heidi, who is a quadriplegic from an accident. He finds the time to help care for her and has a van equipped to take her to the doctor and other places she has to go.

There is much more that could be said of this large family as they indeed are still leaving their mark in our world. Perhaps you can share information with each and enrich your lives by getting to know your complete family.

OBITUARIES

HOLMES COUNTY FARMER

August 8, 1918

GEORGE HAWKINS, son of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, was born in Pennsylvania January 25, 1836. He moved with his parents near White Eyes in Coshocton County. Fifty years ago he moved to his present location. He passed away Friday morning, July 26th, after an illness of only a few hours. He was united in marriage to Elizabeth Graham who preceded him in death about a year and a half ago. To this union, 10 children were born, three of whom have passed to that great beyond. He is also survived by three brothers, one sister, 21 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. He became a member of the Wolf Creek Baptist Church a few years ago of which he has been a faithful member. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Joshua Crawford in the church at Stillwell Corners and he was buried in the nearby cemetery.

VIOLETTA SNYDER

Mrs. Violetta Snyder, 82, of RD 1, Killbuck, died April 22 at Morning View Care Center in Danville following a long illness. Services were held April 26 at Alexander Funeral Home in Millersburg, with Brent Snyder officiating. Burial was at Killbuck Cemetery. Born in 1903 in Tliveron Township in Coshocton County she was married to John S. Snyder, Sr. Mr. Snyder died April 22, 1984. She was a member of Stillwell Baptist Church.

Surviving are four sons, John Jr., Darwin and Victor Ray, all of Millersburg, and Harold of Killbuck; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Jane Bunting of Waynesburg and Mrs. Richard (Julia Elizabeth) Gray of Millersburg; 15 grandchildren; 31 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Harry McKee of Coolidge, Ariz., and Guy McKee of Shreve and two sisters, Mrs. Sara Henderson of Millersburg and Mrs. Iva McBride of Canton.

A son, Winston; a grandson and a sister died previously.

HARRISON R. HAWKINS (code AB)

ELDER HARRISON HAWKINS (code ABA)
JOHN ELSWORTH HAWKINS (code ABB)
EMERY JACKSON HAWKINS (code ABC)
ELGRIN CURTIS HAWKINS (code ABD)

MORTON TRENT HAWKINS (code ABE)
ELIZABETH MAY HAWKINS GUY (code ABF)
GEORGE GARFIELD HAWKINS (code ABG)
WALKER LEMONS HAWKINS (code ABH)

Harrison R. Hawkins, (code AB) who fathered seven sons and one daughter, lived to age 83 or thereabouts (birth and death dates differ on several records) but suffered from wounds received in the Civil War for most of his life. However, for many years, he maintained a job as a blacksmith in Marion Twp., Owen Co., Indiana. He had evidently emigrated to Indiana before the Civil War, as he was married in 1861 in Owen Co., Indiana and was drafted into the Civil War in Terra Haute, Indiana, Sept. 20, 1864, just two months before his first child, Elder Harrison Hawkins, (code ABA), was born. His obituary, printed in the Owen County Leader, May 26, 1920, (see Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter), indicates he came to Indiana after the war and was married to Sarah E. Lemons. But the court records I purchased from Owen Co., Indiana included a marriage certificate dated May 16, 1861 so I took that as official documentation, which means Harrison went to Indiana before the Civil War. Also, that is the date he used in his own account of events in his handwritten war pension applications.

According to Civil War papers I purchased from the National Archives, Harrison was five feet, six inches tall, dark complected, and had black eyes and dark hair. According to those same records, he was born in Washington, PA so he must have come to Ohio when he was very young. He is listed in the 1850 Ohio census as being 13, living at home, and in school. I know he was literate as I have a copy of a receipt he sent to his brother, George (code AA), upon settlement of their father's estate which came to me from the Holmes Co., OH court, plus I have copies of applications for pension in his own handwriting. Though we don't know exactly when or why he went to Owen County, IN we know this man is our Harrison. One of his granddaughters, Edna Dayhuff, who lives in Indianapolis has talked with us several times. When my brother, Clifford, who also lives near Indianapolis, talked with her, she knew some of the family, and remembered Harrison's brother, Madison, (code AF) without any prompting from my brother. But she had glaucoma so she couldn't identify any photos of Harrison for us. Glaucoma runs in the family too as do other eye diseases. Harrison's mother, Elisabeth, was blind, Harrison's son, Walker, was blind in old age and my father has glaucoma and is completely blind as was one of his brothers.

The War records indicate Harrison R. Hawkins (code AB), was a farmer upon entering the service and a blacksmith after he came out. He lived in a sparsely settled region of Indiana, which was rich in minerals, alluvial soil (soil formed from silt and sand of flooding water similar to the Mississippi Delta), and had a good water supply. According to a history of Owen County, sent me by Judy Bain, Genealogy Dept., Spencer Owen Public Library, Spencer, IN, a man named Patrick Sullivan bought a tract of land the year Harrison R. was born, and in a few years secured a post office which he named for himself, Patricksburg. The settlement at that time was remote from any market place, the nearest being in Clay County (Harrison also owned a farm in that county which his son, Walker Lemons Hawkins farmed). So Patrick Sullivan, in June 1851, laid out a village on the northwest quarter of Sec. 15, Twp. 10 north, Range 5 west and named it Lancaster. However, prior to the platting of the town, a number of homes had been built on its site and the place became the nucleus around which a flourishing settlement sprang up. Business men and mechanics were attracted and in an early day it had the reputation of a prominent trading point, being the chief source of supplies for a large scope of fertile country. Eventually Patricksburg became the center of industry as the towns grew together.

Perhaps the most notable remembrance of Harrison R. Hawkins (code AB), was his military service. As a young man about age 25, he went off to war a healthy young farmer in 1864. He was drafted and enrolled at Terra Haute, IN to serve one year as a private in Co. I, 57th Regt., of the Indiana Infantry. Though detailed military history on him is scanty, we do know that Harrison was in the severe battle of Franklin, Tennessee on Nov. 30, 1864, just ten days after he joined the infantry at Terra Haute, IN. At Franklin, the South was trying to maneuver Gen. Sherman out of Georgia as Sherman was preparing to drive the Confederates to the Atlantic Coast to trap them. On this day Harrison was wounded and never saw military action again.

According to family lore, Harrison was shot in his side or hip, and saved himself in enemy territory by crawling into a stack of wooden rails which were spraddled out at the bottom with the tops intertwined. The stack was long enough to allow him room to lay down. There he was fed by an old negro lady who nursed him until he could get back to his unit. Some say he was nursed back to health in her cabin in the woods. Civil War records in which he gives his own account of what happened when he applied for a pension, recount that he received a flesh wound by a piece of shell which struck his cartridge box and belt, cutting it in two and wounding him in the right side. Pension records show he was never able to lay on that side again. He had difficulty getting his pension as there was no official record that he was an official Prisoner of War (POW). In reality he was an unofficial POW as he hid 44 days in enemy territory in that stack of rails. But there is a record that he was treated at several hospitals beginning in Franklin, TN in 1864 and was mustered out of the service at Nashville, TN June 16, 1865. I found no reference that he was issued a medical discharge, but it probably was a medical discharge due to the long hospitalization after his return to his unit.

Harrison and his wife, Sarah Elizabeth, had eight children two of whom died young. One was less than a year old and the other died when he was aged 12 of causes unknown to me or anyone I talked with in the family. These two children (Emery Jackson and Morton Trent), Harrison R., Sarah, sons Walker Lemons Hawkins, (code ABH), and Elder Harrison (code ABA), the oldest child of the family, are all buried in the Christian Church cemetery at Patricksburg. So we assume he lived his entire life after the war on the farm in Owen County, IN. It was about one mile south of Patricksburg and was farmed by Harrison R. and later, by his son, Elder Harrison Hawkins (code ABA).

In 1899, at about age 61, Harrison R. Hawkins, (code AB) received a Civil War veteran's pension of $16.00 per month and by the time he died in 1920 he was receiving $30.00 per month. He evidently was sick many years and from some of the physicians' reports in his pension applications, he must have gotten lung disease from his blacksmithing too. But he did travel by railroad back to Ohio when my father was a little boy about 1904 or 1905, walking five or six miles from the railroad station at Glenmont, OH to Stillwell, the territory of the Hawkins clans.

My dad remembered seeing Harrison at the foot of the Hawkins Hill as he and other boys were walking to Stillwell Baptist Church one evening. He said Harrison dug out a 38 caliber pistol from his pocket as he talked and of course the boys stood in awe and were all eyes. Harrison said you never knew what you would run into when you traveled so he carried a gun. Maybe the good old days weren't so safe either. But of course he came from a very primitive territory at that time which I assume made Stillwell look civilized. Of course some people didn't think the Stillwell-Wolf Creek area was too civilized in the mid-1860s. I remember researching a story on Ft. Fizzle (a fort set up in 1863 in Richland Twp., Holmes County not far from Stillwell) of sympathizers with the Confederacy called Copperheads and a news reporter from Columbus had been sent to cover the uprising and ultimate fizzle of the fort. He wrote to his newspaper, THE OHIO STATE JOURNAL, that Wolf Creek of Holmes County (the Stillwell territory) was "a most miserable country - and although the God of nature most evidently designed it as a habitation for wild beasts, yet with a few honorable exceptions, it is inhabited by men more wild and fierce than they." Speaking of the southern sympathizers, he said, "They are ignorant and superstitious, and are led by an unprincipled set of politicians, who reside in this and adjoining counties who freely confess they belong to a secret oath-bound association and are pledged to carry out certain objects, prominent among which is resistance to the federal Government, even to death." As far as I know no one from our Hawkins family were southern sympathizers though I may be wrong.

One cousin said of the Hawkins family, "They are not all saints but tended to be aloof, bull-headed, stern, undemonstrative, and reasonably intelligent. They tended to be civil to strangers, but not especially warm. . . there was little show of affection even with those they loved most. A handshake was about as far as it would go!" I guess Wolf Creek settlers had to be hardy, unemotional pioneers and are seen by some as having that same personality yet.

The daughter of Elder Harrison Hawkins (code ABA), (granddaughter of Harrison R. and Sarah Hawkins), is Edna Hawkins Dayhuff, whom I mentioned earlier. She was widowed young and was left with nine children to raise in the depression days of the 1930s. When my brother found her in Indianapolis, she had been a widow 49 years! It was believed Harrison and Sarah's second child, John Elsworth Hawkins, never married but went further west. I wrote the court in Lincoln, Nebraska and bought documents that show he went to Nebraska after his father died in 1920, and married a widow, Mrs. Hester Morgan Rhea, formerly of Ohio. His marriage certificate lists him as a farmer in Springfield, Illinois, age 66 when he married, and gives the birthplace of his father, Harrison R. Hawkins (code AB) as being PA. John Elsworth Hawkins (code ABB) must not have kept in contact with his family as none knew he ever married.

I was unable to secure much information on several of Harrison R. and Sarah's children but some of what I did learn was very interesting. A retired school teacher, who lived close to Harrison and Sarah's son Walker, told me by phone, that his wife grew up in Patricksburg and knew about our Harrison R. Hawkins family. She said her uncle, Harry Wilson (and others), said Walker was a dude, a real neat dresser, and had pretty horses! She said Harrison's boys had the fastest, grandest horses and fanciest buggies in town. She also said they dated the prettiest girls but never married. (Walker was the only bachelor but none of Harrison R.'s four living sons married hometown girls I guess!)

This retired teacher said Walker Lemons Hawkins (code ABH), came to Lewis Twp., Clay Co., IN, in the 1920s or 1930s. Walker's father, Harrison R. Hawkins (code AB), had bought a farm there and Walker came from Patricksburg to farm it. He lived in a two-room house but drove Cadillacs or Packards, and was very gracious to the teacher and his brother, who was executive manager of all Indiana banks for 30 years. The two brothers used to go hunting on Walker's farm as it was open country and the dogs ran for miles. He wrote, "We would sit around a fire, eat cheese and crackers and drink coffee until the dogs would 'tree' a coon and come back to the fire. We loved going up there and he always seemed to enjoy our coming. But you know, we never did meet any of his family. He was just always 'Walker Hawkins who lived alone up in the bottom.' Then when he moved to Jasonville, I used to loaf with him down at Bill Rhoderick's feed store. We ran all those races over and over. He had good dogs."

It seemed to be a mystery as to why Walker's father, Harrison R. bought that farm, the teacher said, and someone thought perhaps Walker was of the family who had a contact with Jesse James. Jesse had a hideout west of Patricksburg and had a family contact in town and it was rumored it might have been our Hawkins family. So I read all I could about Jesse James, known there as "The Banditti of the Prairie" and wrote the library in Owen County for information on this rumor.

Jesse James, about 10 years younger than Harrison R. Hawkins (code AB), was a bandit who robbed trains and banks in Missouri. But in 1866, after joining Confederate guerrilla bands during the Civil War, Jesse, his brother, and others formed a robber band which robbed banks in small towns carrying off the money in a grain sack. They covered several states near Missouri, and were very active during the time Harrison R. Hawkins (code AB) lived in Patricksburg. Three of the robbers were killed and three captured in a hold-up in 1876 (about 16 years after Harrison went to Indiana), and only Jesse and his brother Frank escaped. They laid low for three years and in 1881 went back to robbing trains. Late that year Jesse changed his name to Tom Howard, and moved to St. Joseph, MO, posing as a cattle buyer. Five months later he was shot by Robert Ford, a young man who joined his robber band and turned traitor.

I don't know how the rumor started or why it continues today that Harrison R. or his oldest son, Elder Harrison Hawkins (code ABA) might have been the contact in Patricksburg Jesse was supposed to have had. But bear in mind, the man telling me this, was the man who had the brother who was head of all Indiana banks for over 30 years who coon hunted with Walker Hawkins in the 1920s and 30s. Also, these two men told of Walker's brothers in Chicago furnishing unusual cars for Walker. One wrote that Walker's brother in Chicago brought Walker "nice, big, relatively new Cadillacs and Packards. One of them had a rear view mirror all the way across because Walker held his head to one side, which I remember, and this mirror made it convenient for him to see what was in the rear." This adds to the mystery, but makes Walker the contact and he was too young to have known Jesse. It may have been a case of putting "two and two together" and coming up with a pretty good tale instead of what really was true. Jesse James was born in Clay Co., MO and Harrison's farm was in Clay Co., Indiana. Also, he and his oldest son, Elder Harrison Hawkins, who some hint was in some kind of jam during his lifetime, were the right ages although young Elder Harrison was only 17 when Jesse James died. Also, when you read the obituary of Elder Harrison Hawkins (code ABA), depending on how you read it, you could draw the conclusion that his obituary was not placed on the front page from his being prominent in the community, for belonging to community organizations, doing great deeds, or being among the aristocratic families of the area. See Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter for full obituary dated March 19, 1936.)

In the obituary, after his virtues of hard work and service to his friends comes the line, "Whatever may have been his shortcomings and human frailties, they largely affected himself without touching others...It is not for us to judge him in those things which we may have found unanswered to our satisfaction; for who among us, his friends, may deem ourselves perfect? We can only leave them in the hands of the Father of all." Also, his front page obituary lists no organizations that he belonged to, and does not point out any reason for the prominent display.

So I wrote the Owen County library, and Dixie Kline wrote me that there was a band of horse thieves operating in Missouri and across southern Indiana with the Long family of Owen County being involved. That is the county where Harrison R. and Sarah lived. But, these thieves preyed on Jesse James (and our Hawkins family) and Dixie felt it was a case of mistaking the two gangs. However, I didn't pursue it further and will leave the "mystery" to those who wish to pursue it. One can't simply assume fact based on someone's suspicion.

Harrison R. and Sarah's seventh child, George Hawkins (code ABG), and fourth child, Elgrin Curtis "Curt" Hawkins (code ABD), both went to Chicago and made a good living. George married a concert pianist, had no children, and worked as a contractor. Edgar Hawkins, in his history of our family, wrote that George once visited them when they ran the store in Stillwell, OH about 1912. So Harrison R. and Sarah must have kept some contact with "home" in Holmes and Coshocton counties in Ohio.

"Curt" also found good work in Chicago, married a woman from England, Emily Pugh, and lived to be almost 103 years old before dying of cancer in Tampa, Florida. He had a most colorful life. He was the subject of a feature story in his hometown newspaper (the same Dixie Kline I wrote about in the Jesse James rumor wrote a feature on Curt when he reached 100 years of age in 1970. (See Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter.) Also, he was the subject of a story for THE NATIONAL ENQUIRER when he turned 102. (See copy in the Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter).

These feature stories, plus letters from friends and a woman Curt and his wife, Emily, raised throughout most of her childhood, tell much about Curt. He was a cement contractor and business agent, an avid labor union organizer in the 1930s, a veteran of the Spanish-American War and the Boer War in Africa, and father of one son, Thomas Bill Hawkins. Curt had red hair and a mustache when young which was snow white when he died.

Margaret Ford Breece, of Tampa, FL, wrote that she first met Curt and his wife, Emily, after her father answered an ad Curt ran in the newspaper asking for a child to take care of. After her parents' divorce, Margaret lived with her mother in Detroit. Her mother ran a candy store and one day when she was age five, a lady she knew met her and took her to a car where her father waited. She never saw her mother again as her father kidnapped her, changed her name, and took her to Chicago. He put her "to board all over" until he answered Curt and Emily's newspaper ad for a child to care for.

She writes of Curt and Emily Hawkins as being extremely kind to her and she "loved them very much...I still miss them!" (She's age 75 now.) When she was age nine, her dad remarried to a 19-year old girl, and they took her with them. She didn't get along with the stepmother, so she came back to Curt and Emily's home. She must have moved in and out but when she was age 18, she ran away from her father, came back to "Auntie and Uncle" (her names for Curt and Emily) and stayed with them until she married in 1933 at age 22.

But before Curt moved to Chicago, one news article relates he was a soldier in the army of occupation after the Spanish-American War in 1898. Whether he saw combat or not, I don't know as the two feature stories in newspapers conflict on that subject. However, he said of the Spanish-American war that he enlisted when he was 27 in this battle with Spain over the Philippines, Cuba, Guam and Puerto Rico. He said, "If their bullets didn't get you, malaria or food poisoning would." He obviously hadn't had enough of fighting, so he hopped a tramp steamer to Africa and fought with the Dutch farmers called "Boers" who had been fighting the British in South Africa off and on several years.

After gold was discovered in the South African Republic in 1884, the British rushed in and the Boers tried to deny them political rights and power. Great Britain joined the protest against this move and in 1896, attacked the Boers (Dutch farmers) in an unsuccessful uprising. Peaceful attempts to solve the problem failed and finally the Dutch farmers (Boers) of the Orange Free State joined the South African Republic and declared war on the British foreigners in October, 1899. Many people in Europe and Great Britain opposed the British policy in South Africa before and during the war, but no one knows what inspired Curt Hawkins to join the cause.

Curt said the Dutch farmers were good fighters but had inferior numbers of troops, so had to surrender to the British in three years. He escaped from the British by "high-tailing it away from the front line on a horse." He followed the jungle until he got to the coast and "escaped to America by boat."

After his war ventures, he went to Chicago where he first worked as a concrete mixer for 15 cents an hour and 10 hours a day. He noted he had no fancy concrete mixer in those days and had to do it all with a shovel. He soon became a supervisor and oversaw the work of six labor gangs building post offices, apartment buildings and hotels. He was also business agent for a labor union which took a spunky person in those days. But he evidently had what it took as he succeeded.

I don't know just when Curt retired and moved to Florida but I know he was there in 1942 according to documents I have. He filled out an affidavit of citizenship for his son, Bill in 1942, when Bill was trying to get a job for the FBI in the Florida Naval shipyards. In his characteristic style, he wrote on the affidavit in answer to the question why he believed Bill was born at a certain place and the date, he wrote, "a father is supposed to know those things and I am his father." Also, he bought cemetery lots in Florida in 1943, 30 years before he died. He must have been retired longer than he worked.

When he was aged, Curt got cancer of the prostate and the woman he and Emily befriended took care of him until two months before he died when she was unable to handle the job. Up to the end, he was "very, very alert," talkative, and full of history, one friend, Mrs. Helen Ruskin, said. She said also that he was an avid reader and was especially interested in botany, and was a remarkable man. His actual death was from pneumonia and dehydration and he was buried in Florida.

Both Mrs. Breece and Mrs. Ruskin spoke of Curt and Emily's son, Bill Hawkins, and his wife, the former Grace Watterson. Bill had been a pianist but had to give it up after injury to one of his fingers necessitated amputation at the first joint. Then he went into vaudeville where he met Grace, a former dancer who had given up dancing due to age. She had gotten her start at the old Hippodrome theater in New York, the theater of that day! It was the theater where John Phillip Sousa gave concerts. She danced in the same hall where the stirring martial music of Sousa was heard. (By the way, Sousa played all kinds of music besides marches and could be compared to the Boston Pops of his day.)

She continued her career in vaudeville and after meeting and marrying Bill, they traveled extensively on the Pantages Circuit throughout the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. Of course "talkies" came in, and vaudeville as the leading theater attraction began to crumble. Also, Bill and Grace Watterson Hawkins were advancing in years. Eventually, Bill and Grace gave up vaudeville.

During the great depression, Bill had directed a theater group in New York.

When World War II broke out, Bill went to work in the Tampa navy shipyards as an undercover FBI agent. To do the required work, he had to learn a trade, so he became a welder, circulating among the men for security reasons. After the war, he became a welder in construction.

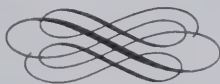

Bill was about 5 feet 10 inches tall, had a sturdy build, and had blue eyes. He was bald in later years but as a young man had dark hair. He was well read, had an extensive library and was especially interested in metaphysics and the occult. He had been a Catholic but he didn't practice his religion. His wife, Grace, was a devout Catholic. He was "the most generous person I ever met," Mrs. Ruskin writes. "He was always helping someone and very often deprived himself." Mrs. Breece said the same of his generosity, "that he would always be broke helping others."

He was an artistic man who was not close to his father. I suspect his father, Curt, like many in those days and now, didn't think of being an actor as a REAL job unless you were one of the few who made it to the top of the profession. Too, it doesn't go with the frontiersmen-he-man image as much as Curt's work and war escapades did. Bill also made fancy dressing screens and the manager of the branch of the post office in Tampa, who helped me find people who knew Curt and Bill, said Bill gave him one of those screens. I don't know exactly how they were made but it was all handmade and very artistic.

Grace was small and fair and very big hearted according to Mrs. Breece. Mrs. Ruskin wrote that Grace had a sweet disposition, merry blue eyes, and gray hair when she knew her. She was a wonderful cook, meticulous housekeeper and baker, and had many, many friends. She died before Bill did and he just fell apart. Mrs. Ruskin took care of him, nursed him in her home many times, and took care of the house for him. Since he had no children, when Bill died, he left the home to Mrs. Ruskin, who sold it as she had her own home. Bill also died of cancer.

Since Curt and Emily Hawkins had no other children and since their son, Bill had no children, the genealogical line ends there for Harrison and Sarah Hawkins' son Curt. But Mrs. Breece, the girl they befriended in childhood and who remained faithful to their needs in old age, who called them "Uncle and Auntie," honors their name and character to this day and will as long as she lives. And in our history, his line will still be alive as long as there is a Hawkins or a friend of the Hawkins families to read it.

Feature Story from

SPENCER EVENING WORLD, Spencer, Indiana

Elgrin C. Hawkins was born in Patricksburg September 22, 1870 and lives in his own cottage in Tampa, Florida. And if reaching the age of 100 and being able to take care of himself isn't enough of an accomplishment, Mr. Hawkins has also had adventures that would make a good TV script.

Mr. Hawkins enlisted in the Spanish-American War when he was 27; he says "If their bullets didn't get you, malaria or food poisoning would." After that, he took a tramp steamer and arrived in South Africa and fought for the Dutch Boers for two years.

Mr. Hawkins said in an interview, "The Boers might have been farmers but they fought gallantly against the British. They were the best marksmen in the world. But the British had too many soldiers and a war industry behind them. The Boers had to surrender after three years of fighting."

He escaped from the British by "high-tailing away from the front line on a horse." "I followed the jungle until I got to the coast and escaped to America by boat."

Mr. Hawkins enjoys gardening and working with wood.

I am indebted to Mr. Hawkins' son Thomas, who also lives in Tampa, for passing on this information about one of our former Owen Countians, and I have learned through another source that Mr. Hawkins has great love for his native home.

And here is a centenarian - still alert, useful and interesting! With all the accent on youth these days, it would be well for us to shift a little appreciation and respect toward the older generation. (They know "what it's all about" too!)

—By Dixie Kline

From THE NATIONAL ENQUIRER

In 1905 Elgrin C. Hawkins' doctor told him, "You'd better cut out smoking. You have a bad heart and won't last long if you don't quit." "That doctor died 50 years ago and I've been smokin' three or four cigars a day ever since." Hawkins told The ENQUIRER shortly after he turned a spunky 102 last September.

"How'd I live so long? Well, this is the only way I can account for it," he said and pointed to a tiny plaque on the dining room wall of his Tampa, Fla. home. The plaque read: "Oh Lord, Help Me This Day to Keep My Big Mouth Shut."

"I don't gossip about other people's affairs," Hawkins said.

As a man who's craved the action-packed life, it's surprising that the Indiana-born Hawkins lived to see 52, much less 102. He was a soldier in the army of occupation after the Spanish-American War in 1898, fought with the Dutch in Africa's Boer War in 1900 and was a labor organizer in Chicago during the '30's.

After his African adventure, Hawkins moved to Chicago where he worked as a concrete mixer for 15 cents an hour and 10 hours each day. "We had to mix the concrete with shovels," said Hawkins. "There were no fancy mixers back then."

Soon he became a supervisor and oversaw the work of six labor gangs. They built post offices, apartment buildings and hotels.

"I had a great life. All I did was ride around and see if the jobs were ready," Hawkins also served as business agent for a union.

"Then the Depression came on and I got sick—I had arthritis. But I got cured before I left Chicago. My brother came out and put me in his machine (car) and took me to a doctor.

"That doctor massaged me from my chin to my toes and put me on a diet—no white flour, no starches, no meat, no refined sugar. And the arthritis never came back."

Other than indulging in cigars and wars, Hawkins has always paid close attention to his health.

"I got the reputation of being the only business agent in Chicago who drank milk."

OBITUARIES

THE OWEN LEADER

Pioneer Citizen Dead

Harrison R. Hawkins, 81 years old, for many years a resident of Marion township, died Thursday at his home in Patricksburg. He was a veteran of the Civil War and for years was an active member of the Christian Church. He was born October 14, 1838. After the war he was married to Sara E. Lemons and to this union were born seven sons and one daughter. The wife, two sons and the daughter preceded him in death. He is survived by five sons, three grandchildren and one great-grand child. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at Patricksburg and were conducted by Rev. Price Roberts and Rev. E. E. Pedicord, both of Spencer.

THE OWEN LEADER, March 19, 1936.

Elder H. Hawkins, eldest child and son of Harrison R. and Sarah E. (Criss) Hawkins, was born Nov. 20, 1864 and departed this life, March 14, 1936, having attained the age of 71 years, 3 months, and 24 days. He was married to Myrtle V. Turley on May 15, 1896. To this union were born two children, Francis E. and Edna Dayhuff, who, with their mother and eleven grandchildren survive him.

In addition to these of his immediate family, there are also yet living, four brothers, Curtis and George of Chicago, Ill., John of Lincoln, Nebr. and Walker of Jasonville, Ind. One brother, Jackson, and one sister, Elizabeth, together with his parents have long ago passed into the great beyond.

Harry, as we all have called him, throughout the many years of the past, was a child of the Civil War, born as has been stated in 1864, very shortly after his father, Uncle Harrison, answering his country's call to arms was patriotically serving in the Union Army of the United States.

In early youth Harry Hawkins learned to know the meaning of toil and throughout his long life he continued to labor hard and with his own hands until failing health compelled him to desist. He lived much in the open, was a lover of nature and showed much interest in her many and varied manifestations. He always responded to calls of service among his friends and neighbors. Whatever may have been his shortcomings and human frailties, they largely affected himself without touching others.

It is not for us to judge him in those things which we may have found unanswered to our satisfaction; for who among us, his friends, may deem ourselves perfect? We can only leave them in the hands of the Father of all.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish in this way to express our sincere thanks for all that was done and said during our recent sorrow.

F. E. Hawkins DIES AT VETERANS HOSPITAL

Francis Elsworth Hawkins, 60 years old, former resident of Patricksburg, died Tuesday at the Veterans Hospital in Indianapolis where he had been a patient for only one day. Mr. Hawkins made his home at 3125 N. Illinois St., Indianapolis.

The deceased man was born January 22, 1897, in Lewis Township, the son of Harry Hawkins and Myrtle Turley Hawkins. He was a retired employee of the Monon and New York Central Railroad. He was a member of the Nazarene Church of Patricksburg, and served with the U.S. Navy overseas during World War I.

Survivors are: four daughters, Mrs. Shirley Harris, Miss Lylas Hawkins and Mrs. Frances Harmon, all of Indianapolis; Mrs. Virginia Bunce, Banning, California; two sons, Edwin C. and Donald R. of Indianapolis; the mother, Mrs. Myrtle Hawkins, Patricksburg; and four grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Schoppenhorst Funeral Home at Clay City. Funeral services were conducted at the Patricksburg Nazarene Church with the Rev. C. M. Howe officiating Friday at 1:30 p.m. Burial was made in the Fairview Cemetery at Bowling Green.

W. Paul Bauerle, 66, of 1110 W. Beardsley Ave. C, died at 8:22 p.m. Thursday (Aug. 15, 1985) at Mercy Hospital, Urbana.

Funeral services will be 10 a.m. Saturday at Heath and Sons Chapel, Champaign, the Rev. Steven W. Hoilley officiating. Graveside services will be 3 p.m. Saturday in Valhalla Memory Gardens, Bloomington, Ind., the Rev. Ron Justice officiating.

Visitation will be from 7 to 9 p.m. today at the funeral home.

Mr. Bauerle was born Feb. 26, 1919 at Webster City, Iowa, a son of the Rev. Charles and Belle Reavis Bauerle. He married Lorraine Dayhuff on July 4, 1947, at Mansfield. She survives.

Also surviving are a son, Thomas Alan Bauerle at home; a daughter, Linda Kay Bauerle at home, and a brother, John F. Bauerle of Mansfield.

He was preceded in death by his parents and an infant sister. Mr. Bauerle was an electronics technician for the past 27 years at the University of Illinois Noyes Laboratory. He worked for RCA Co, at Bloomington, Ind. for 13 years before moving to Champaign. He was a board member and church treasurer for 25 years at the Westside Church of the Nazarene, Champaign. He served in India with the U.S. Army during World War II and attended Olivet Nazarene College at Kankakee.

Memorials may be made to the Westside Church of the Nazarene.

MISS HARMON SERVICES THURSDAY

Her doctors said she could go home Friday and spend the Christmas weekend with her family, but 15 year-old Cheryl L. Harmon, an honor student at Manual High School, didn't go home and the gaily wrapped Christmas packages for her are still under the tree.

Miss Harmon, 4150 Asbury, died Sunday in Riley Hospital. A sophomore at Manual, she was described as a popular and sports-minded girl. She was a victim of leukemia.

Services will be Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in G.H. Herrmann Madison Avenue Funeral Home.

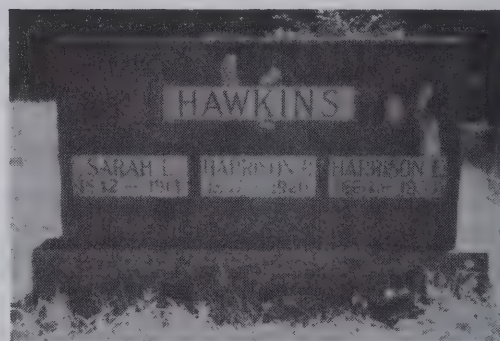

Survivors - parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harmon; sister Karel; grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Byron Harmon, Mrs. Helen Hawkins.

TO BE EXECUTED BEFORE A COURT OF RECORD OR SOME OFFICER THEREOF HAVING CUSTODY OF ITS SEAL.

State of Indiana

On this 13 day of Dec A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy Seven personally appeared before me, Clerk of the Circuit Court, a court of record within and for the County and State aforesaid, Harrison R. Hawkins aged 38 years, a resident of the town of Patricksburg county of Owen, State of Indiana, who, being duly sworn according to law, declares that he is the identical Harrison R. Hawkins who was ENROLLED on the 20th day of September, 1864, in Company "D" of the 5th Regiment of Ind. Infy, 106th commanded by Capt. John S. Summers and was honorably DISCHARGED at Nashville Tenn on the 16th day of June, 1865; that his personal description is as follows: Age 38 years; height 5 feet 6 1/2 inches; complexion dark; hair dark; eyes black.

That while a member of the organization aforesaid, in the service and in the line of his duty at Battle of Franklin in the State of Tennessee on or about the 30th day of November, 1864, he received a flesh wound in his right side by a piece of shell which struck his cartridge box & belt cutting it in two & wounding him in side. He is still unable to lie or rest on right side - also contracted rheumatism while a prisoner of war from the 3rd day of November 1864 to the 14th day of December 1864. His disability has existed all the time since discharge, and is constantly growing worse.

That he was treated in hospitals as follows: First at Franklin Tenn from Dec. 3rd 1864 to Dec. 18th 1864. Then in hospital at Nashville Tenn. from Dec. 18th 1864 to January 8th 1865. Entered Joe Holt Hospital at Jeffersonville Indiana January 12th 1865 and remained until March 20th 1865 - treated then by Dr. Scott of Louisville Ky.

That he has not been employed in the military or naval service otherwise than as stated above.

Not before Sept 20th 1864 or since June 16th 1865

That since leaving the service this applicant has resided in the County of Owen in the State of Indiana and his occupation has been that of a Smith.

That prior to his entry into the service above named he was a man of good, sound physical health, being when enrolled a farmer. That he is now greatly disabled from obtaining his subsistence by manual labor by reason of his injuries, above described, received in the service of the United States, and he therefore makes this declaration for the purpose of being placed on the invalid pension roll of the United States.

He hereby appoints, with full power of substitution and revocation, H. M. CARR, of the city of Louisville, State of Kentucky, his true and lawful attorney to prosecute his claim. That he has not received or applied for a Pension. That his POST OFFICE ADDRESS is Patricksburg county of Owen State of Indiana.

CHAPTER 4

JOHN ELSWORTH HAWKINS, SR. (code AC)

SARAH ANN REED HAWKINS (code ac)

CHILDREN

JOHN ELSWORTH HAWKINS, JR. (code ACA)

John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr., (code AC) was the first of three sons of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins to answer the call of a troubled President Lincoln for more troops to end a Civil War that was, according to Northerner's predictions, to have been over in a mere three months. When those first shots were fired Apr. 12, 1861, at Ft. Sumter, N.C., John was a young man of 21 living with his parents in Crawford Twp., Coshocton Co., OH. But by the time he enrolled to serve the Union Army on Aug. 19, 1862, (for which he received a bounty of $25), he had a bride of 10 months. And when he mustered into active service at Camp Zanesville (Muskingum County, OH) on Oct. 5, 1862, he had a young son just 14 days old. That son, John Elsworth Jr., (code ACA) was never to see his father as he was killed in action just over a year later at the Battle of Mine Run, Locust Grove, Va., near Winchester, Orange Co., Va. (Ed. note: All towns named in this piece about John's military service are considered as in Virginia though some now are in West Virginia. When Virginia voted to secede from the Union April 17, 1861, the 50 western counties refused to join the easterners but they didn't become the state of West Virginia until 1863.)

According to John's Civil War records and Hill's History of Coshocton County, OH, printed in 1881, John was assigned as a Private in Co. G., 122nd Regt., of the Ohio Volunteer Infantry (OVI) and left Camp Zanesville (Muskingum Co., OH) Oct. 23, 1862 with 927 men on steamboats Powell and Patton. Descending the Muskingum River to Parkersburg, Va., during the peak season of Ohio's brilliant fall foliage display, must have added to the excitement of these strong, loyal youth, confident of their ability to end this ridiculous war in no time. But for many, including John Elsworth Hawkins, (code AC), this majestic natural beauty became a fitting color-guard and silent sentinel for those who would never return.

The group moved by rail to Clarksburg joining two other brigades of Gen. Milroy's division plus some Virginia Cavalry companies commanded by Col. Washburne and by Dec. 5 was ordered on an expedition up the valley of the South Branch of the Potomac. John, a farm boy, was assigned as a teamster for the brigade and on this assignment was as open to the severe winter weather of the rugged Appalachian Mountains as the onslaught of enemy bullets. And from the beginning he faced fierce fighting as well as fierce elements.

The regiment began its first march in a blinding snowstorm and was involved in several skirmishes with great loss on both sides. In January 1863, 11 wagons and teams of a company guarding the accompanying train were captured by the Confederates but John was not among them. He was reported sick at Camp Muskingum, OH, after just a few days on the march. (As many soldiers died of "camp fever" as were killed by the enemy.) He was reported absent from muster for many months for various reasons; illness, with other detachments, missing, etc.

On June 15, 1863, he was reported Missing in Action at Winchester, VA, after severe fighting lasting an entire day and night. About 100 men and officers were separated from their regiment, John being among them. A letter from First Lt. Chad Barger of John's company was printed as follows in THE COSHOCTON AGE newspaper:

"Wheeling, Va. June 19, 1863. In regard to the Winchester battle, having been four months previous thereto detailed from my regiment as judge advocate of our general court martial in the Second Division of the Eighth Army Corps, I was ordered to report for field duty on General Milroy's staff, in which position I acted during the engagement, on Saturday at 10 o'clock A.M. The One Hundred and Twenty-second was not engaged outside the forts until Monday, and up to that time had lost but few men and had only twelve wounded; but on Monday the loss was heavy, as the regiment was ordered to assault a rebel battery in the woods, having a severe fight and making a gallant charge. The sensation produced on one after being under fire for awhile is very different from what I expected. I felt, after the first hour or so, all right. Monday morning I was sent to some place on the field with an order, and getting cut off from the main body, had a hard ride to keep from going to Richmond. (Ed. Note: John was also cut off and Richmond was the capital of the Confederacy). The force attacking us was Jackson's old corps under Ewell, about 30,000 strong; our force was about 8,000 effective men. At two o'clock on Monday we spiked all our guns, leaving wagons, baggage, etc. I lost everything I had except what I had on."

G. H. Barger lived through the war and returned to practice law in Coshocton, OH). In July and August, John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr., was reported present at muster at Martinsburg, Va.

In September, after quelling New York riots, John's unit rejoined the brigade, marching to Culpepper Courthouse, Orange Co., Va. The Union Army had defeated the Confederates at Gettysburg, PA, and Gen. George C. Meade's Army of the Potomac (70,000 effective troops) faced Gen. Robert E. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia (45,000) across the Rapidan River between Culpepper and Orange. In October, the regiment moved to Centerville, held an election for Ohio's Governor and state officers while in line of battle, and were returning toward the Rappahannock River when they were, on Nov. 8, 1863, forced into a skirmish at Brandy Station. Of this battle THE COSHOCTON AGE made the following report:

"The One Hundred and Twenty-second Ohio was near the front during the advance of the Army of the Potomac. Colonel Ball telegraphed from Brandy Station that all officers were safe, but the regiment had lost six killed and thirty-two wounded, of whom twenty-two are seriously hurt. The killed are John Morling and William A. Phillips, of Company C; Solomon Thompson, Company E; William R. Tudor, Company I; John Hawkins, Company G."

John's death must have been reported in error here as in all other reports he is listed among the unknown dead at the battle of Mine Run, Locust Grove, Va. dying on a different date from this battle. He evidently answered roll call with his unit until this battle.

Gen. Meade and Gen. Lee, well aware of impending severe weather, moved swiftly before winter weather forced the troops into winter's quarters. Meade, on Nov. 26, ordered his Union troops to swiftly cross the Rapidan River down river from Lee and then swing south and west in an attempt to turn Lee's right flank.

On the Nov. 26, 1863, John began his last march after crossing the Rapidan River. After delays slowed Meade's columns, Lee, with just over half as many soldiers as Meade, countered on Nov. 27 by moving his two corps eastward by four roads thus surrounding the Union Troops. At a tiny place called Locust Grove, located about 10 miles from Culpepper Courthouse, Orange Co., VA, John, and most of those who fought there, was killed Nov. 27, 1862. Of the 15,243 soldiers buried at Fredericksburg National Cemetery, Fredericksburg, Va., John is buried among the 12,770 unknown dead.

Gen. Meade conceded the campaign was a failure for the Union and Dec. 1, 1863, his army began to slip back across the river. But the move came too late to save our John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr. On Dec. 2, Lee massed his troops for an attack on the Union troops left, only to find the Union breastworks abandoned.

Helen Carter McVey (grand-niece of John) and husband, Kenneth, visited the cemetery, the museum and library, and the battlefield at Locust Grove, VA. (see photos they provided of the battlefields and cemetery elsewhere in this chapter. They also provided detailed history and maps of the area for this book).

John's wife, the former Sarah Ann Reed (code ac) of Coshocton County, OH, was given a settlement and widow's pension and later took her young son, John Elsworth Hawkins, Jr. (code ACA) and her mother, Mary Reed, and went to Illinois. When Sarah remarried on Jan. 1, 1866 to Greenberry Vickery, her widow's pension stopped. Vickery was a Civil War veteran (also a teamster with Co. I, 64th Regt., IL. Volunteer Infantry-IVI) who was born in Ohio and had obviously moved to Illinois as he enrolled there. From Civil War records of John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr. (code AC) we find his widow, Sarah Reed Hawkins Vickrey, applying to reinstate her original widow's pension in 1906 and later find her death records under John's service record. She and Mr. Vickrey were divorced after a 42-year marriage though they must have been separated for many years before. Their last child, Mrs. William S. (Cora) Ward, Moscow, ID, was born in 1875, 13 years after John Elsworth Hawkins, Jr. (code ACA) was born. Sarah thought Mr. Vickrey had been killed in a fire somewhere in a western state on June 5, 1903, but the war department showed him as a pensioner at the time she applied. So she had to get the divorce before she could get a widow's pension under John Hawkins' service eligibility.

However, Vickery (also spelled Vickrey) had become John Jr.'s guardian in 1872 in Princeton, IL when young John was 10 years old. From Vickrey's Civil War records we find the family kept moving west state by state. Whether they moved west together is not clear and why John Elsworth, Jr. (code ACA) either remained in Illinois or returned isn't spelled out. He may have been old enough to learn a trade and became an apprentice or simply struck out on his own. But John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr.'s Civil War records and Greenberry Vickrey's Civil War records show Sarah ended up with her youngest daughter, Mrs. William (Cora) Ward, in Moscow, ID. Vickrey's obituary indicates he had lived around Moscow, ID for 20 years so they must have moved there about 1899 or 1900. If so, John Jr., would have been 37 and he was married in 1888 at age 26 in Illinois.

War records show that though she applied for a widow's pension in 1906, and was divorced May 18, 1908 at the War Dept.'s request, she was still seeking a pension at age 75 in 1910. Though she stated on her pension application that she thought Greenberry Vickrey had died in 1903, other records show he ended up back in Moscow, ID after living in Oregon and Washington before he died in 1919. His Civil War records show that his divorced wife, Sarah, and their daughter, Cora Vickrey Ward, helped care for him when he was bedfast for over a year and died of throat and facial cancer May 30, 1919. She and the daughter and others put in a request for payment of nursing services. By then she was 84 years old. His obituary states he had two children surviving him. Her obituary, printed in Moscow, ID, states she was the mother of 11 children, two of whom survived her but John Elsworth Hawkins, Jr. (code ACA) was not named as one of them. The two children mentioned in her obituary had the same names as the two in Greenberry Vickrey's obituary so the newspaper probably meant his living survivors in the area.

When Sarah Hawkins Vickrey finally got her pension, she must have been in dire need of it. She probably lived with her daughter, Cora Vickrey Ward, in Moscow, ID but one application for pension in 1910 reports she had no property except "one bed and bedding for the same and a few cooking utensils and a little clothing worth probably $5.00." She received relief from the county in 1910 of $3.33 per month and had received about $40.00 the year before. She also reported that she was able to earn $12.00 the year before and part of the time, worked for no wages, only her board and room and, at age 75, "no person was legally bound to provide her support" she said. She was designated a May widow on the pension record and received $30 a month as pension of a veteran.

She died Nov. 21, 1923, at age 88, and was buried in Moscow, ID but her obituary gives no indication she was ever married to John Hawkins or that she had a son named John Elsworth Hawkins. However, war records of both husbands do prove that she was his widow. (see copy of their war records in Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter.) Though it does mention she had 11 children in all, several must have died in infancy as one of Mr. Vickrey's Civil War records indicates several dead children.

John Elsworth Hawkins, Jr. (code ACA) must not have kept in contact with his mother or stepfather or half sisters and brothers as the descendants I found, two great-granddaughters, had no recall of their fathers or grandfather ever mentioning any Hawkins relatives. However, he must have kept in contact with his grandparents Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins in Ohio as well as his uncle George Hawkins (code AA) as he received part of the settlement of our first Elder's estate at Elder's death in 1899. Also, George's granddaughter, Violetta Hawkins Snyder had photos of John Jr.'s children, Homer and Neva Hawkins, which descendants didn't have but identified for me.

Frances Hawkins Isenberg Vickrey said her father, Homer Hawkins, used to say she was to have been a boy as there was no one left to carry on the Hawkins name. So she was quite surprised to learn she had many, many Hawkins relatives all over the United States.

The description of John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr.'s looks were not recorded in his Civil War Records so we don't know if he was dark or fair. But his son, John Elsworth, was a big-boned man with light hair and fair complexion. (See his photo elsewhere in this chapter as well as other family photos). He very much resembles some members of the Hawkins families in Ohio, such as Fred Hawkins, son of Andrew Hawkins (code AI) and Newton Hawkins, son of Elder J. Hawkins (code AH).

From the Bureau County Courthouse in Princeton, IL, I secured a copy of John Jr.'s marriage license. He married Miss Maggie McCall, age 23, on Feb. 16, 1888. The Illinois State Board of Health listed his occupation as a carpenter, his age as 25, and gave his father as John Hawkins and his mother as Sarah Ann Reed Hawkins of Ohio with his birthplace as Ohio. Maggie's mother was listed as Mary Alice Vickery McCall but she is supposedly no relation to the Vickerys mentioned here before.

Besides being a carpenter, John, Jr., was also a man who could "witch" (locate) water for well drillers and was considered one of the best in the area. I don't know whether he used a twig or metal to "divine" the water. He also was a well driller so his talent came in handy. He was a farmer as well as a carpenter and built several commercial buildings such as churches and other important buildings in Bureau County, IL. He also, in later years built a fine retirement home for himself and his wife, Maggie, in Wyand, IL. Though very hard of hearing, he was active in church, the Commercial Club, the Odd Fellows lodge and was considered a thoughtful, kind and good man. His granddaughter, Regina Russman, (daughter of Neva Hawkins Hamilton), who first answered my notice to her home newspaper looking for descendants of John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr., remembers him as "such a good and kind man." She was about 10 years old when he died and remembers her mother, Neva, was "devastated" at his death.

John Elsworth and Maggie McCall Hawkins, (code ACA and aca) had three children. (Incidentally, the oldest child of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, George (code AA) fathered a John Elsworth Hawkins who married a Maggie Preston so our code is necessary to keep them and others with the same names in the correct family line). The three children of the Illinois John and Maggie Hawkins were Mary Hazel, who died in infancy, Homer, and Neva. When I sent copies of a photo of Homer and Neva as little children to Mrs. Russman in Illinois she wrote, "When I opened your package and found the picture of my mother (Neva) and Homer, I was overjoyed as I remembered the picture. Many times I've wondered where all the Hawkins pictures were. . . . As a child I remember spending many hours looking at pictures and albums but after Grandma Hawkins died, I never had contacts with family. . . ." Perhaps they will renew enriching family connections through this history.

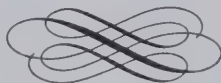

The obituaries of John Elsworth Hawkins (code ACA) and Maggie McCall Hawkins (code aca) are included in the Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter to show the peculiar style in which obituaries were written in those days; i.e., his obituary reports he ate a hearty supper, was in his usual health and spirits and that "his passing was discovered Sunday morning by Mrs. Hawkins, whose foot accidentally came in contact with his cold body when she awakened from a sound sleep about 3:45 a.m."

We shall continue to try to find a photo of John Elsworth Hawkins, Sr., (code AC) as we have tin types found with other family members photos and may have his. Until then we are putting one in the book which we feel is most likely to be him. It's the best we can do now.

There are fewer than a dozen direct descendants of this young man cut off so early in life by war. One of the two great-granddaughters of John (AC), Frances Hawkins Isenberg Vickrey, visited our home on a trip from Florida to New England. I have included photos of her and her husband as well as photos she provided. As she talked and reminisced, I heard the Hawkins humor, perseverance, and strong opinions that I find in myself and other Hawkins members. She lives in Lakeland, FL, with her husband, Gale "Tom" Vickrey (a real humorist), both of whom have retired after over 20 years in the bowling and restaurant business in Illinois. I deeply regret my health was such that I was unable to take them to see the Hawkins' homestead after they had driven so far out of their way to come, but perhaps there will be another time. Opportunities like that are rare but perhaps someone someday will show her and other descendants (should they come by) the lands of our common heritage. Until then, these descendants can revere an ancestry full of patriotic loyalty to the point of sacrifice of life.

OBITUARIES

John E. Hawkins November 30, 1924

John E. Hawkins, 61, prominent Wyandot farmer, was found dead in bed early Sunday morning, his death resulting presumably from heart disease.

The discovery of his passing was made about 3:45 Sunday morning by Mrs. Hawkins, whose foot accidentally came in contact with his cold body when she awakened from a sound sleep. She called Dr. Richard Herrick, who confirmed her fears that death had already taken place. When he retired about 9:30 Saturday evening Mr. Hawkins appeared to be in his usual health and spirits. It is said he ate a hearty supper and the doctor expressed the opinion that the fatal heart attack was probably brought on by acute indigestion.

Mr. Hawkins was born at Canton, O., September 2, 1863 and had been a resident of Bureau County for the last 35 years. In the early days of his residence here he was a well digger and later took up farming, which he followed successfully until his retirement about six years ago.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Maggie McCall Hawkins, a son, Homer Hawkins and a daughter, Mrs. Neva Hamilton, residing at Wyandot. Funeral services for John Hawkins were held at the residence Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Interment at Forrest Hill cemetery. Mr. Hawkins was found dead in bed early Sunday morning.

John Ellsworth Hawkins, who came to Wyandot township 39 years ago, a man respected, and associated with the development of our community, passed peacefully into the great beyond sometime between Saturday evening and Sunday morning Nov. 30, 1924.

He was born in Canton, Ohio, Sept. 22, 1863. His father was one of the heroes of the Civil War, having been killed in battle. He was married to Miss Maggie McCall Jan. 18, 1885. Three children were born to them; the first died in infancy, the widow and two children, Homer Charles Hawkins and Mrs. Neva Hamilton and three grandchildren survive him.

Mr. Hawkins was a farmer, but also a builder: churches, homes and other important buildings in several parts of Bureau county are the result of his handiwork.

In the years of his active life he worked faithfully and well, giving the best that was in him to every task. The beautiful farm on which he lived for so many years even today tells the story of his toil and enterprise. Before partial deafness afflicted him he took great pleasure in social and fraternity affairs, and as a faithful member of the Odd Fellows and in other orders he was greatly appreciated. His membership in our Commercial Club tells of his interest in the affairs of the community. His support of every good thing, and thoughtfulness for the feelings and good will of his neighbors, and wide circle of friends is a commentary on his life that speaks well of him. He lived the latter part of his life in semi-silence, but this could not mar nor destroy the kindly heart, friendly smile or real interest in the best that was to be found in neighbors and friends.

The news of his departure was a distinct shock to the whole community. The large gathering at his funeral is a testimony of the high esteem in which he was held. His life went out peacefully, without a struggle, and he is at rest.

A host of people deplore his death, and keenly sympathize with the bereaved family. The funeral service was held at two P.M. Tuesday, Dec. 2, from the Hawkins home on North Street.

Mrs. Margaret Hawkins

(died in 1941)

Wyanet—Funeral services were held this afternoon at the home and at the Methodist Church for Mrs. Margaret Hawkins, 77, who died Monday afternoon at the home of her son, Homer. Rev. George was in charge of the services and Robert Watson sang. Bearers were Nick Higman, Elmer Bickford, Earl Mount, John Calloway, Robert Hanna, and Ralph Prettyman.

The descendent had been bedfast since March 8 in her illness.

Margaret McColl, daughter of Alexander and Mary McColl, was born March 16, 1864, in Dover township, and was married to John Hawkins, who died Nov. 31, 1924.

Surviving are brother, Peter McColl, son Homer, and grandchildren Mrs. Regina Russman of Moline and Frances and Eunice Hawkins of Wyanet. A daughter, Hazel, died as a child, and another daughter, Mrs. Neva Hamilton, preceded her mother in death.

Mrs. Sarah A. Vickery

DAILY STAR-MIRROR, Moscow, Idaho

Feb. 21, 1923

Mrs. Sarah A. Vickery, 88, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Ward, at 265 Almon Street, Tuesday, February 20, 1923. Mrs. Vickery was born in Pittsburg, Penn. February 12, 1835, and was 88 years, eight days old at the time of her death. Mr. Vickery, the husband, was a Civil War veteran and passed away in Moscow some three years ago.

Mrs. Vickery was the mother of 11 children, two of whom survive her, Mrs. W.S. (Cora Vickery) Ward of Moscow and Bert C. Vickery of La Crosse, Wash. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the Short Chapel. Rev. Father N. F. Wertzenberger will conduct the services.

(Ed. note: This obituary did not mention first spouse, John Hawkins but War and Pension Papers do. See elsewhere in book.)

Thought to be John Elsworth Hawkins, the first, who died in the Civil War leaving one son, John Elsworth Hawkins, Jr. If anyone can verify identification of this photo, please contact the writer.

Home built by John Elsworth Hawkins, Jr., in Wyand, IL as his residence when he retired from the carpenter trade, probably in the later 1920s or early 1930s. It had eight rooms and a bath, two porches, and a garage and was considered a splendid home for that era. John built many commercial buildings in Bureau County also.

Homer Charles Hawkins in 1939. He disliked having his picture taken as you can see. Homer was a farmer all his life.

The Fredericksburg National Cemetery, Fredericksburg, VA where John is buried. Of the 15,243 buried there, 12,770 are listed as unknown dead. John is one of these. The taller gravestones in the picture give the soldiers' names. The small squares are unknown dead.

The Culpepper Courthouse, famous point of reference in the Civil War battles in Virginia. Locust Grove was about 10 miles from the courthouse.

Adjutant General's Office,

Washington, D. C., Apr 13, 1872.

Sir:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt from your Office of application for Pension No. 202.147, and to return it herewith, with such information as is furnished by the files of this Office.

It appears from the Rolls on file in this Office, that John Hawkins was enrolled on the 19 day of Aug, 1862, at Crawford in Co. "G", 122nd Regiment of Ohio Volunteers, to serve 3 years or during the war, and mustered into service as a Priv on the 5 day of Oct 1862, at Camp Gainesville, in Co. "G", 122nd Regiment of Ohio Volunteers, to serve 3 years, or during the war. On the Muster Roll of Co. "G" of that Regiment, for the months of May & June 1863, he is reported "Missing in action Near Winchester, June 15, 1863." "July & Aug 1863." "With Detachment Martinsburg, Va." "Sept & Oct 1863." "present for duty." "Nov & Dec 1863." "Killed in action Nov. 27, 1863." "MOR dated June 26 1865 reports him "Killed" same date in action at Locust Run, Va."

I am, Sir, very respectfully
Your obedient servant,

J. Martin
Assistant Adjutant General.

NANCY JANE HAWKINS HUNT (code AD)

JAMES T. HUNT (code ad)

CHILDREN

FLORA BELLE HUNT HAMER (code ADA)

MARY MATILDA "TILLIE" HUNT NEIDERHOUSE (code ADB)

SARAH ELIZABETH "LIZZIE" HUNT THATCHER (code ADC)

WILLIAM E. HUNT (code ADD)

MINNIE LEA HUNT (code ADE)

Nancy Jane Hawkins (code AD) lived her entire life in Coshocton County, OH after her parents, Elder (code A) and Elisabeth (Caton-Gardner) Hawkins (code a) brought her from Pennsylvania to Ohio as a toddler. She was born in PA in 1843 according to the family Bible and the tombstone record but according to the 1850 Coshocton County census, she was age 9, which would make 1841 her birth year. (Most of Nancy Jane's records differ on marriage and death dates as well.) However, she probably was about two or three years old when her folks set out in the covered wagon for the new land opening up for settlement in Ohio.

As far as I know, no one mentions hearing her say anything about the trip. In fact, she was mentioned very little during my research except by her granddaughter, Cecilia Nellie Hamer Stone, a bit in the Edgar Hawkins Family History, and by my father, Clifford C. Hawkins, son of Elder J. Hawkins (code AH). Nancy Jane was called Jane and no one in my family knew her first name. We found her name listed as Nancy Jane through the census records and the wedding record in the Holmes County courthouse.

Jane was tall and a big-boned woman with brown hair and gray eyes and very nice looking. She tended to have a stern disposition according to some. Maybe she inherited that Hawkins "determination" (some call it stubbornness) and, being the first girl in the family with so many boys, she may have had to learn to defend herself in the wilderness against more than the wild animals! Her only living grandchild, Cecilia Hamer Stone, said of her, "She was very nice to all of us and she was very particular about her house. She never had to correct any of us because my dad (Frank Hamer, husband of Jane's oldest daughter, Flora Hunt Hamer (code ADA) was very strict. And when he said not to do anything, we knew we were not to do it. All I remember was we all loved her very much." Cecilia Hamer Stone was about 10 years old when her grandmother, Nancy Jane Hawkins Hunt died.

Nancy Jane Hawkins Hunt (code AD) didn't marry early in life, and she died younger (age 68) than most of her brothers and sister. She was about 28 years old and still living at home in Richland Twp., Holmes County, OH, near Stillwell when she married James T. Hunt, of Beaver Run, near Spring Mountain, Monroe Twp., Coshocton OH. (It was named Beaver Run by the local people to distinguish one of the earliest settlers, John Severns, of Beaver, PA from another settler with the same name. He was called "Beaver John." James T. Hunt (code ad) was a farmer all of his life and he and his wife, Nancy Jane, lived on his homestead farm in Monroe Twp., Coshocton County, OH all their lives in a house near his parents. (For people who know Coshocton County and the Beaver Run area, Jane and Jim's home was near what is the Robert Young family home on Beaver Run now.) The house they lived in is gone now.

The Coshocton County History of 1881 reports that Monroe Township was "probably the last township of the county to yield its pristine wilderness to the subduing hand of civilization. Hemmed in on all sides by bold and rugged hills, the topography from a picturesque point of view approaches the attractive elements of grandeur and sublimity, but seen from an agricultural standpoint the view was not so entrancing, and doubtless deterred many settlers from taking possession of the soil." In other words, farmers had it rough but artists would do well! Outcroppings of sandstone rock, both massive and fragmentary, are still scattered over most of the hillsides. This township borders Tiverton Twp., Coshocton County, on the west, and Jim's home was no more than five miles from Jane's parents' home in Richland Twp., Holmes County.

Spring Mountain was one of the closest villages of any size although New Princeton, a small town which gives no evidence now that it was ever a town, had a grist mill and sawmill run by steam power when Jim and Jane were married. The water supply in this area is poor and the mill race was a half mile long and ran only in suitable weather. A tannery was idle, the postoffice and general stores were gone by the time they married in 1871, but there was a Dr. J. W. Robinson practicing medicine there then.

There are now fewer than 40 people living in Spring Mountain, and no churches, stores, grange, schools, or businesses. At the time of the Hunts marriage, it was already starting to decline. It was once a thriving town with two blacksmith and wagon shops, a cooper who made barrels and shipped them to Renfrew's big steam grist mill in Coshocton, taverns, general stores, an elementary school and an academy where teachers were trained, plus a Methodist and Catholic church. (The Harmony Baptist Church stood on the road toward Stillwell and that's where Jim and Jane Hunt are buried, so we assume that was their church. It was closer to Stillwell than Spring Mountain.)

There were only about 75 people living in Spring Mountain (formerly called Van Buren) when the Hunts were first married. In 1881, there were two blacksmith shops and one shoe shop, a general store, grade school, postoffice with mail coming in three times a week, and two physicians; Dr. J.W. Winslow, and his associate, Dr. T. W. Workman. The Warsaw Masonic Lodge met there for a while and later there was a Grange Hall. Most of the public buildings are now in utter ruin or torn down.

Five children were born to Jane Hawkins and James Hunt but their only son, William E. "Willie" Hunt, (code ADD) was killed at age 12 after being kicked by a horse. Another daughter, Minnie, never married, and another, Matilda, had no children. (Matilda, it was said, could drive a team of horses and a wagon as well as any man could.)

Jane's oldest child, Flora Belle Hunt, (code ADA) married Frank E. Hamer, in what must have been a beautiful Roman Catholic wedding ceremony. (See photo of their wedding picture elsewhere in this chapter.) Her dress was a white, hand-beaded dress with a short train. He is attired in formal dress so no doubt they were married in the Catholic Church as he was a Catholic and the entire family was for years after that. Many still are though no Catholic church exists in Spring Mountain now.

She was married in Mount Vernon, Knox Co. OH in January and returned to Spring Mountain by horse and sleigh where her mother had a wedding supper of rivel soup (a type of noodles) waiting for them.

Flora told Nancy Lowe Lonsinger, a local writer doing a story on Flora's longevity for the local newspaper when Flora was over 100 years old, "When we were married, we didn't have anything to go with except a team of horses and one of them was owed for. Then we had to buy utensils and we bought a binder to cut wheat for other people. Paid a little over $100 for it. We raised some chickens, ducks, geese, and guineas. We used the guinea eggs ourselves because they were so little to sell. We sold the hen eggs, got ten cents a dozen and sold butter for twelve cents a pound." Flora traded her butter and eggs at the store until she had her own butter customers, then she got 50 cents a pound for it.

Flora lived to be 101 and claimed hard work made for a long life. Her words had merit as she raised four little girls (complete with sashes, and ruffles and long curls; see photo of them elsewhere in this chapter), did farm work, crocheted rugs, and quilted until she was aged. Ulysses S. Grant was president when she was born and she came into this world before the automobile, the bicycle, and the telephone. She spent most of her life in the Spring Mountain-Tiverton area of Coshocton County, OH but once she went by train with her father to Cincinnati and crossed the Ohio river by boat. After she raised a family, she made two or three trips to Chicago to visit, but that was the extent of her traveling.

At the time of her 100th birthday, Flora had 127 living descendants; 24 grandchildren, 72 great-grandchildren, and 27 great-great-grandchildren. (See photo elsewhere in this chapter of two of her great-great-grandchildren with her on her 100th birthday. One became prom queen of the River View High School near Warsaw which has a student body of over 900). Eleven descendants were deceased at that time.

Another of Flora's descendants family, a grandson-in-law, was involved for nine weeks in 1975, in the building of the Alaskan pipeline. Troy Lee Stamper, husband of Katherine "Kay" Arlene Poorman Stamper, was a pipeline engineer and his particular skill was bending huge pipe for 12 to 14 hours a day. They often worked by floodlight as it wouldn't be daylight until 10 a.m. and would be dark by 2 p.m. during the time Troy was there. The worker's camp was at Delta Junction, about 90 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, and when he left the job on Dec. 8, 1975, it was 68 degrees below zero! Arctic gear of parkas and heavy mittens were furnished as it was so cold you could freeze your hands instantly. One boy stuck his hand in water, then took it out and it froze immediately. They rushed him by helicopter to a hospital after doctors at the site could do nothing for him.

The pipeline was both underground and atop the ground and some was built 20 feet in the air over known wild animal trail crossings. In all the pipeline was over 700 miles long and took two years to build, going through the famed Alaska tundra. Some equipment was left running 24 hours a day to prevent it from freezing up. If it froze and stopped, they would cover tractors (or whatever was frozen) with parachutes and put space heaters inside to warm them enough to start.

The camp was set up like a town with garages, stores, restaurants, etc. Grizzly bears were a common sight rummaging through garbage cans. He saw lots of large black wolves and some moose. Since the men traveled by bus about 30 miles a day to the work site, if they fed the animals they would just follow the bus, so they didn't feed them as they might have to work beside them! The pipeline must not have upset the animals too much.

In the camp site, living quarters were furnished like a home. Two men were assigned to each room, the mess hall was open 24 hours a day, there was a cafeteria, (all food was furnished for them) and places for recreation. One recreation that Troy enjoyed most was watching the Northern Lights every night for several hours. He said he never saw the same shape and colors twice. When asked if going to this cold, cold land in the winter and working such long hours in such severe weather was worth it, he gave a hearty affirmation. He said, "It was a good experience and the pay was excellent." He does have a few pictures of the project.

Another of Flora's descendants, Doug Larrison, is in body building and competes in Mr. America contests as well as others. He has won the Mr. Florida title in the Mr. American competition the last four years which makes him eligible to compete in the national contests each year. The Mr. America contests he competed in the last few years were held in different cities of the U.S. such as St. Louis, Pasadena, California, Toledo, OH, etc. The highest he has placed in the national Mr. America contest, is sixth. But his mother is certain he has enough of that family perseverance that someday he will be Mr. Universe. It's very difficult as he has to take off work to train for and travel to contests. This also makes holding a job a little rough and keeping up in his classes at the University of Florida where he was studying Business Administration. (See his photo elsewhere in this chapter.) Though he's not finished his schooling, he is taking college courses at the same time he's building his body so he can build his mind as well!

One of Flora and Frank Hamer's daughters, Irene, married Everett E. Kasner, and they had a son, Lawrence, whose entire family was in military service in 1984. Lawrence Gideon Kasner, the head of that family, was involved for 30 years in the 91st Strategic Air Wing. He served all over the world from the Azores to England to Viet Nam. Much of the time, his family was allowed to go with him.

His wife, Betty Lou Allsupp Kasner, also in the service, was a youth director in the Azores, worked in dental clinics as a dental assistant, and was a nurses' aide in air force hospitals. She said, "You have to marry the military when you marry a career military man. It was fun to travel so much but it was hard too. It takes a special person to do this and you have to do things parents don't normally do. A mother is much more involved with her kids as their father is away so much of the time and while the military provided lots of things for them do (baseball, skating, archery, school, scouts, etc.) there were 2000 kids to look after on this base." All three military departments, the Army, Navy, and the Air Force had bases in the Azores.

Betty Lou was born in a half dugout home on the Olustee, Oklahoma Indian reservation and had one grandmother who was full blood Comanche and another who was full blood Cherokee. The Cherokee married an Irishman and the other married an Englishman. As a result, Betty Lou, who is one quarter blood American Indian, has red hair and green eyes. But yet she carries the facial contours of the American Indian.

Their children, now grown, were in the air force in some position when I talked with Betty Lou. Connie Sue Kasner Buck was in charge of security at the Air Force Exchange on her base in Florida. Her husband, Robert Edward Buck, has been in the USAF 10 years and teaches computers at the Lowry Air Force Base, Denver, CO. (I could use some of that training right now as I'm a real novice on this computer on which I am writing the family history.) Son, Everett Lawrence Kasner, teaches chemical and biological warfare for the 82nd Airborne at Ft. Bragg, N.C. His wife, a six-foot tall, American Indian girl with black hair, is a file clerk and insurance agent at Ft. Walton, FL and is in the Air Force Reserves. The last child, Eric Mansell Kasner, served three years in the army at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Their first child was killed in an automobile accident on Big Run, near Spring Mountain, OH when a tubeless tire blew out, causing the truck to roll over. She's buried at Spring Mountain.

I'm certain there are many other interesting histories that could be told of these many families in this line of Jane Hawkins Hunt and James T. Hunt. But I hope this will suffice for now to whet your appetite to get together with each other and hear the history first hand.

SAMANTHA HAWKINS MEEKS (code AE)

SEDORIS A. MEEKS (code ae)

CHILDREN

EDMOND CREDORIS MEEKS (code AEA)
CLARA ELVIRA MEEKS (code AEB)

ANDREW JACKSON MEEKS (code AEC)
HARRISON MEEKS (code AED)

When Samantha Hawkins (code AE), the fifth child of the pioneers Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins (codes A and a), married Sedoris A. Meeks, (some documents say Credoris), she was 23 years old and living in Richland Twp., Holmes Co., OH. He was a two-year veteran of the Civil War, aged 27, and was born at Orange, Oxford Twp., OH. (According to his obituary he enlisted in 1864 and was assigned to Co. E, 142nd Regt., of the Ohio Volunteer Infantry. He served until the end of the Civil War in 1865.)

They married about a year after Samantha's family had moved to Holmes County from Coshocton County and probably knew each other before the move. Oxford Twp. is just a bit south of Crawford Twp., Coshocton Co., OH where Samantha was born. There are three dates given for her birth on official documents; 1843, 1844, and 1846. But the family Bible records it as 1846 and her death certificate and census records show that she was born in Ohio. She must have been born within the first year after Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins' arrival in Coshocton County, as we assume they came in the spring of 1845. (The deed to their first farm is dated March 25, 1845 and gives her father's address as Washington County, PA. Since her death certificate reports her birth in February of 1846 and also the family Bible verifies that date, we accept it as the best documentation. Too, it helps establish the time they came as on that 1845 deed, Elder gives his address as Washington County, PA.)

My father says Samantha Hawkins Meeks (code AE), was a nice looking woman with dark eyes and dark hair but her complexion was fair. Her son, Andrew Jackson "Jack" Meeks, looked a lot like her. She was slender of build and meticulous in her personal grooming as well as housework. Her husband was red haired, stocky built, and freckle-faced. If the reader knows Dean Meeks or Beatrice Meeks Sumney, both of the Tiverton, Coshocton County, OH area, you can get an idea of what Sedoris, nicknamed "Dorie" Meeks, looked like.

Samantha Hawkins Meeks and Dorie Meeks (codes AE and ae) had four children, Edmond, Andrew Jackson, Clara, and Harrison. They all lived on a farm near Brinkhaven, OH, a small town on the Coshocton County-Knox County, OH line, where they stayed until Samantha and Dorie were aged. They then moved into Brinkhaven and lived out their long lives there. They died almost exactly a year apart, he at age 87, five months, and 20 days old, and Samantha at age 85. Or if you take the date of 1843 which is on the death certificate, she was 88 years, four months, and 28 days old. Hard work and the high cholesterol diets of those days never hurt them I guess! We all should do so well!

The obituary of Sedoris A. Meeks (code ae) shows they joined the Baptist church in 1874 and were faithful members until their death, but I don't know which Baptist church. Others have told me they were Methodist. They aren't buried in a church cemetery so that gives no clue but are buried in Workman Cemetery, Danville, Knox County, OH. That town is close to Brinkhaven where they lived.

Samantha and Dorie's first child, Edmond Sedoris Meeks (code AEA), married Abbie Fietta Parsons. Because he is a first cousin to my father and she is a second cousin once removed to my mother, all their children are double-cousins to my parents, a fact I never knew until I started this history though I've known them all my life

Abbie was a rug-weaver and her daughter, Beatrice Samanatha Meeks Sumney, still weaves rugs on her mother's 75-year old loom; the loom was bought when red-haired, freckle-faced, and jolly "Bea" was two years old. (See photos of Bea at her antique pump organ over 100 years old and her loom elsewhere in this chapter. Paul and Elsie Spurgeon took these photos and gathered much information on this family.)

Beatrice has lived her entire life in the house in which she was born in 1910 in Tiverton Twp., Coshocton Co., OH. She lived neighbors to Elder Harrison "Harry" Hawkins (code AHJ), the son of Elder J. Hawkins, (code AH). During the war, Harry, who had no radio, used to walk up to Beatrice's house every night to listen to the war news on the radio as he had a son, Glen, who was in the Army from 1941 until the end of the war in 1945. He got so lonesome for his only son and Bea and her mother, Abbie, put a bright spot in his long days.

Harry was such a cut-up and could say and do the most humorous things. Bea said that every night when Harry would leave, he'd shut the door behind him, wait a moment, then open it up again and say "Bea, I hope the old devil gits you tonight." It became a ritual she missed after the war was over and Harry's son, Glenn, came home.

Harry also taught Bea to drive when she was just 17 years old in 1927. If one could drive on the roads he chose to train her on, one could drive up Mt. Everest! Bea's brother had been trying to teach her to drive but she said he was very crabby and she didn't learn very fast. Harry's nephew, who was Bea's cousin, had been killed and Bea wanted to drive to the funeral but didn't think she could drive well enough. So Harry volunteered to teach her to drive his Chevrolet touring car.

Bea thought she needed some new shoes to wear to the funeral, so they had to go to Brinkhaven to the general store to get them. This meant driving down a horribly steep, long, hill with hairpin curves here and there for several miles. He encouraged her all the way with, "You won't have any trouble gettin' to the funeral." and "Now, don't let that foot get too heavy," and "Just drive in any gait." Under his tutoring, she did so well that she drove safely down the "mountain" to town and drove back up to home again. After that she drove whenever she wanted to go. He had taught her to drive in one easy (or not so easy) lesson and she was just 17 years old.

Bea has been a lifelong member of the Tiverton Baptist Church (GARB - General Association of Regular Baptists) and has played the piano there for many years. A second cousin, the Rev. James Sedoris Hunter, grandson of Samantha's daughter, Clara Meeks Hunter (code AEB) has pastored that church for 37 years besides teaching school, doing evangelistic work, and contributing musically to many area events. (See photo of Rev. Hunter and the new church he and his congregation built after a fire destroyed the former church in 1955, elsewhere in this chapter.)

The church that burned had been built in 1852 and stood 103 years. The church was built on one acre of land purchased from Samuel and Elizabeth Conner for $25 and that land included the cemetery plot. The congregation is the second oldest in Coshocton County being established in 1818, with Chalfant United Methodist Church, started in 1815, being the first congregation. The Tiverton Baptist congregation, after formation in 1818, met for a while in a school, but the first Tiverton Baptist Church building was a log church.

Rev. Hunter was 30 years old when he assumed the pastorate, and though he is now retired from teaching school, he still heads the church. The church is located on Tiverton Twp. road 352, in Coshocton County, OH which is now called Baptist Rd. as the county commissioners renamed it. It was formerly called the Yankee Ridge Rd.

Rev. Hunter's grandparents were Clara Elvira Meeks Hunter (code AEB) and William Carey Hunter (named for the first Baptist missionary). Clara was the second child of Samantha Hawkins Meeks (code AE) and Sedoris A. Meeks, (code ae). "Bill", as he was called, started the Tiverton Bell Telephone Co. in Tiverton Twp., Coshocton County, OH and later bought the Killbuck Bell Telephone Co. in Holmes County.

He also carried the mail for eight years in a horse and buggy and two winters, carried it by sled. He carried out of the Brinkhaven, OH post-office and had a route of 30 miles. My husband, a rural carrier for 21 years before he became postmaster at Warsaw, OH, says that would be a long route to deliver by horse and buggy. The average route today would be at least twice that number of miles but today's carriers have automobiles and trucks to carry the mail. Bill was quite an entrepreneur as he also farmed, and once ran a store and restaurant in the town of Nellie, Jefferson Twp., Coshocton Co., OH.

William "Bill" Carey Hunter and his wife, Clara Elvira Meeks Hunter (code AEB), took on a big job when they started the Tiverton Bell Telephone system in the early 1900s. They built a switchboard in the farmhouse where they lived. Though Clara had lost part of one leg below the knee due to blood poisoning from a minor scratch, she tended to the house and family, did farm work, and ran the switchboard much of the time. They did hire phone operators part of the time, son Lloyd Hunter says.

Tiverton Bell had about 100 subscribers at a cost of $2.50 per month. Usually there were five or more families on each party line. This wonderful invention was convenient but wasn't always the best vehicle for real communication. Lines had been hung on fence posts, trees, a few poles, and wherever Bill could hang them the simplest way. (He was frugal too!) The lines were very noisy and everyone listened in on everyone else causing the vocal transmission to be weakened. So the caller had to yell to be heard.

My mother, who grew up on Yankee Ridge near Tiverton, remembers the wondrous, old crank, wall telephones very well. She said people had to yell so loud to be heard on the first lines, that when the phone system was improved, they were in the habit of "hollering" so loud that they still did it. She said you could bet on everyone listening in. Mom says that after women got the right to vote in 1920, a couple of them would start arguing politics over the phone and soon there would be a hot and heavy argument among several women as they could only listen so long before they had to give their opinion.

Bill Hunter later bought the Killbuck Bell Telephone Company but his son, Lloyd Hunter, says it was a bad buy as lines were down everywhere and the equipment was in bad shape. He sold out before too long. In the end, he traded his farm for Moore's store and restaurant in Nellie in 1924.

One of Bill and Clara Hunter's grandsons, Merle Wallace Hunter, was a school teacher and superintendent in several Ohio communities and his wife and four daughters, were all involved in education or service institutions in some way. His wife, Ida Weaver Hunter, was a school teacher, daughter Leora Hunter Tope was a private secretary to an executive in a Canton, Ohio Nursing Home, daughter; Maribelle Hunter Leavitt, Naples, FL, is a registered nurse; daughter Lois Hunter Kearns, Mansfield, OH, is a secretary; and daughter Carole Hunter Schmidt, is a sales manager.

Another of Clara and Bill's grandsons, Wilbur Allen Wilkinson, served in the U.S. Navy and was a member of the crew which picked up the first astronaut, Alan Shepherd. Wilbur was a hospital corpsman. He has an adopted son, William Joseph Wilkinson who qualified and ran in the National Jr. Olympics held in Ohio in 1982. William ran 3.1 miles and his best time was 19 minutes which I am told is a very good time. These Olympics cooperate with the U.S. Athletic Congress and when they were held in Cincinnati, Wilbur's hometown, the local group hosted over 2,000 athletes from all over the United States. Wilbur, his wife, Pat, and children, helped work this event.

Another of Samantha's descendants, Waldo Shaffer Meeks, was nicknamed "Shiner" and got that name in an unusual way. Everytime he rested his team of horses, he would shine the brass on their harness. He also is known for liking Mail Pouch chewing tobacco! Maybe they painted one of the huge advertisements on the side of his barn and he got a lifetime supply!

Andrew Jackson Meeks, (code AEC) ran an exceptionally good general store in Brinkhaven for many years which attracted customers from afar. He was known to be a very good businessman. He and his wife, Mary Janet Horton Meeks, lost their first son in a freak accident. He was playing ball when he was about 12 years old and the ball ran under a buggy. He ran to get it and the horse kicked him, killing him.

Carol Ann Meeks Brown, M.D., great-granddaughter of Samantha Hawkins Meeks, went to Hawaii in 1965 to pursue a doctorate in biochemistry at the University of Hawaii but ended up working in microbiology. She studied plant diseases at the Pineapple Research Institute and taught various courses in biology and chemistry at Chaminade College. She studied two years at the University of Hawaii Medical School and then returned to Dallas, Texas (her home state) to finish her physician's training. She graduated from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical school in 1972.

She did her internship and residency at Parkland Hospital (where John F. Kennedy was taken after he was shot) and Timberlawn Psychiatric Hospital. She was in private practice in Dallas for three years and then returned to Hawaii to set up a private practice there. She also works for the State of Hawaii as Chief of Children's Mental Health Services Branch of the Dept. of Health. For relaxation and fun, she sails her 25-foot Yankee Dolphin among the islands and makes three to four trips a year to the mainland to attend medical conferences or visit with parents, Harmon and Mary Meeks, Holly Lake Ranch, Big Sandy, TX.

Samantha's son, Harrison, (code AED) lived most of his life in Illinois and is buried there as far as I know. At one time he lived in Brinkhaven, OH and worked on the railroad as an inspector. I found Harrison's descendants by contacting a post office in Florida and fortunately, the postmaster gave me the address of Thelma I. Meek. Though the name wasn't spelled exactly the same, much to my surprise when I called that person by phone, I discovered I had found the right family. I never knew they existed and they didn't know I existed.

Through letters and phone calls and talks with other relatives I find that Harrison got into some kind of trouble with the railroad and fled to Illinois to escape prosecution. He didn't even return for his parents' funerals. His ex-wife, Ardoshia Smith Meek (she changed her name slightly), who was a native of Brinkhaven too, was not one to be whipped. She managed a grocery store and later went to Marinette Cosmetology School in Chicago. Then she opened her own beauty school in Dover, OH.

Daughter Thelma I. Meek, never married but trained to be a registered nurse in Washington D.C.. She held many supervisory positions in hospitals in several different states. At the last writing, she was very ill with cancer and lung disease. Harrison's oldest daughter, Mary Samantha Meek Lowry, was an avid pianist, organist, bowler, golfer, and bridge player. She was married to an insurance agent, Wilbur R. Lowry, in Massillon, Stark Co., OH. The last child, daughter, Treva F. Meek Prince married an active Mason and she's a past Matron of the Rose Chapter #22, Order of the Eastern Star, in Conneaut, OH. Her husband, Earl "Duke" Prince, was a bank vice president and at one time managed a theater corporation. So the family did well despite their struggles. Perhaps in the long run, we learn the most from our struggles as these earthen vessels are not stainless steel, but are usually stronger than we think. As Rev. Robert Schuller said, "A lost cause simply doesn't exist in God's mind."

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The Tiverton Regular Baptist Church was organized in 1841 and met for a few years in the old Chestnut Ridge School (not far from Spurgeon Bridge). In 1852, S. W. and Elizabeth Conner donated land to build a house of worship in that same year; the large white frame structure (33' by 45') stood for over 103 years.

The interior and exterior had undergone much improvement in recent years, and was considered by many folks to be one of the most beautiful frame church buildings through the tri-county area. Several pioneer members are interred in the church cemetery, including the donors of the land for the frame church; the cemetery is under the care of the Tiverton Township Trustees.

This was the only Christian group in this area of Coshocton County until the late 60's, when the Disciples movement, led by Alexander Campbell, began; their church is standing in Tiverton Center, near the cemetery.

On August 5, 1955, the frame church was completely destroyed by fire, of unknown origin. The congregation met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Morris, to consider plans for rebuilding. After prayer and consideration of another building site, the members voted to rebuild on the same site of the burned church.

Ground was broken March 15, and work was begun by our contractor after plans, drawn by John Q. Porter, had been approved by the State of Ohio Building Code. The cornerstone was laid May 5, 1956 and work was stopped temporarily for waiting upon the Lord. The work was again resumed July 23 and completed August 6.

We are humbly proud that this building, which is now God's House, is so simple, yet magnificently expressing God's approval.

This is the very first service held in this building. (Sunday, August 19, 1956 A.D. 2:30 O'Clock, The Rev. Ned P. Ellis, Guest Speaker, Calvary Bible Church, Newark, Ohio.)

Thanks are hereby expressed to John Q. Porter, for the plans; to Mark Chase, for the beautiful work in construction; to Deacon Emory Morris, for so very much work; Mrs. Cora Durbin for the very efficient handling of funds; Mr. Sylvester Durbin for his many helpful suggestions and the Communion Table; to the Rev. Ned Ellis and those from the Calvary Bible Church for help in laying the floor tile.

Thanks to the many business people in Danville and Killbuck who gave so graciously and the many others who privately gave. To the Coshocton Baptist Association, and the Clark Township Baptist Church.

May this church serve this community for many years in spreading the Gospel and not fail in its witness for Him.

"The Cross of Calvary" composed by Bea Sumney
June 19, 1973

When at times I feel discouraged
And life's striving seems in vain:
Then I think of our Dear Jesus
How He suffered there in shame—
Upon that Cruel Cross of Calvary
They left Him there to die—
How He suffered there in silence;
For all sinners such as I.
He died upon that Cruel Cross—
For the remission of our sins;
God gave His Son that we might live
In Eternal Glory with Him.

But, when Jesus died upon the Cross
And was buried in the Tomb—
He did not die in vain;
Behold, there was a great Earthquake—
For the Angel of the Lord descended from Heaven
Rolled back the stone from the door of the Tomb
And Jesus Arose Again!

So, my Dear friends, if Our Dear Saviour
Knocks on your heart's door today;
Don't reject Him, Let Him enter
He'll take all your sins away.
It's all because of Calvary
There's Peace within my Soul
My sins have been forgiven
Since Jesus made me whole;
So, Take heart Weary Christians—
When trials and troubles make you blue;
Take your burdens all to Jesus,
He Will Bless and Comfort you.

CHAPTER 7

MADISON "MATT" HAWKINS (code AF)

AMANDA C. CARRIKER HAWKINS (code af)

CHILDREN

FRANCIS ELDER HAWKINS (code AFA)

WILLIAM E. HAWKINS (code AFB)

When Madison Hawkins (code AF), the sixth child of Elder and Elisabeth (Caton-Gardner) Hawkins (codes A and a), was four months past his 16th birthday, he lied about his age, went to a town 50 miles from home, and answered President Abraham Lincoln's call for more troops to end the prolonged Civil War. Madison had lost one brother, John Elsworth Hawkins (code AC) in the war in 1863, and another brother, Harrison R. Hawkins, (code AB), was seriously wounded and missing in action in enemy territory for 44 days beginning Nov. 30, 1864.

Madison had turned 16 on Nov. 9, 1864. Lying that he was age 18 got him in trouble in later life when he applied for a veteran's pension. He had to admit that he lied and gave as a reason that he knew no-one under age 18 would be accepted for military service. He evidently looked older than his years or they were very desperate for soldiers.

Several major battles of the Civil War showed that the war was not winding down, and Madison, who was described as not afraid of anything, was not to be denied his patriotic duty. (He used to run snakes down, grab them by the tail, give them a quick flip, snapping their heads off!)

The Union was trying to blockade and seize southern seaports to strangle supply lines to the Confederates from the sea. Admiral David Farragut, commanding a squadron of Union naval vessels, had bellowed his famed statement, "Damn the torpedoes! Full steam ahead!" as he plowed successfully through the mines (called torpedoes then) in the harbor to blockade Mobile, Alabama. In January, Wilmington, N.C. fell to Northern ships but Charleston, S.C. held on.

The battle of Franklin, Tennessee, on Nov. 30, in which Madison's brother Harrison R. Hawkins was so seriously wounded, had resulted in significant losses to the South as more than 6,000 Confederate soldiers were lost including 11 generals. That battle, intended to draw Union Gen. Sherman out of Georgia and thereby split the Union forces, failed to do so. Gen. Sherman and his troops burned Atlanta, and set out on their famous march through Georgia to Savannah and the Atlantic Ocean.

Sherman's 60,000 men, on a 60-mile front, brought a new kind of war to the heart of the South as they burned, stripped houses, barns, and fields, and destroyed everything they couldn't use. They heated rails of the Southern railroads until they were red-hot and wound them around trees to make "Sherman hairpins" or "Sherman neckties". Gen. Sherman estimated his men had brought over $100 million worth of loss to the South and hoped it would break the South's will to continue this war. In December, 1864, Sherman's Union forces occupied Savannah and swung into South Carolina, burning and plundering, then into North Carolina and north to Virginia to try to link up with Gen. Grant.

On February 3, 1865, one month before Madison enlisted, representatives of the North and South met on board the ship, RIVER QUEEN, in Chesapeake Bay at Hampton Roads, VA in an attempt at a peace agreement. President Lincoln, present at the conference, refused to change any terms of the Emancipation Proclamation, or consider any peace proposal that didn't allow for immediately restoring the Union of all states into "one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all". And he called for the laying down of Confederate arms. The talks fell through and war continued.

President Lincoln put out a call for more troops. Madison enlisted for one year on Mar. 2, 1865 at Newark, Licking County, OH and was paid a $100 bounty for doing so. He was assigned to Co. H, 191st Regt., Ohio Volunteer Infantry. His regiment was sent to be part of the Army of the Potomac commanded by Gen. Meade. He was in the Eastern Army, the Army of the Shenandoah, by Mar. 20. On Mar. 21, they marched to Charleston and transferred to the 2nd (Ohio) Brigade, 2nd Provisional Div. on Mar. 27. Madison saw duty in Charleston, S.C., till April 4, 1865, and participated in operations in the Shenandoah Valley in the vicinity of Winchester, Stevenson's Depot, and Jordan's Springs, VA until August. When Richmond (the capitol of the Confederacy) fell in April, 1865, Gen. Lee realized the futility of continued fighting and wrote Gen. Grant to arrange surrender.

On Sunday, April 9, 1865, just over a month after Madison had enlisted, the two great generals met in a farmhouse in a little country settlement called Appomattox Court House, VA. Grant wore a mud-spattered private's coat, with only his shoulder straps revealing his rank. Gen. Lee put on a spotless uniform complete with sword. Grant offered generous terms and Lee accepted them gratefully.

The Confederate soldiers received a full day's pay and were released on parole. They were allowed to keep their horses and the officers their side arms. The news of the surrender spread slowly but by May 4, all Confederates on all fronts had surrendered to Union generals. The war to preserve the American Union was over.

Madison Hawkins mustered out of the army Aug. 25, 1865 at Winchester, VA with a Springfield rifle and equipment. He owed the U.S. $11.44 on his clothing account and the Army retained $6. (See account in Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter for the cost of a typical Union soldier's provisions).

The Civil War records of Madison Hawkins describe him when he entered the service, as five feet, five and ½ inches tall, dark brown eyes and hair, a florid complexion, and a farmer. The records show him living in Crawford Township, Coshocton County, OH when he enlisted. According to the family Bible, Madison was born in 1848, just three years after his family moved from Washington County, PA to Coshocton County, OH. He wasn't listed in the 1850 census of Crawford Twp., Coshocton as living at home with his parents, but none of their children under the age of 10 were listed either, so I presume children under 10 were not enumerated in any household in that census.

I suppose Madison, like his brothers and sisters, learned the lifestyle of the pioneer as he was always challenged by adventurous living. He was educated in a small school in Crawford Twp., as were his brothers and sisters. It was called a "subscription" school and is described in detail in Chapter 1. He had an education sufficient enough to do "bookwork" in a poultry market where he worked in later in life. Many of his pension and land records were written in his own handwriting instead of by a justice of the peace as most old documents were in the early days of our nation.

It is said when he was in his prime, he was a master at handling horses and he could easily control horses that many feared to be around. My father said when Madison was young, he "could jump clean over a horse!" From the lifestyle he lived after leaving home for army service, it is apparent that he could do many different kinds of work and hustled to survive, though some of his family felt he had an easy time. As his story unfolds, the reader can draw his own conclusion. This that I write is based on memories of a granddaughter and others living now who knew the family and wrote me, plus a couple historians from Nebraska, Civil War and Pension records, and Homestead Papers I purchased from the National Archives.

It's not clear if Madison returned home after the war, but if he did, he was only a visitor. Like many Civil War veterans, he turned his face to the call of the Western frontier. Exactly why he went west isn't clear to me but many veterans were attracted to the free land they could get if they homesteaded and "proved up" (built buildings and broke sod on the prairie in at least five years).

My father thought Madison had homesteaded land in Nebraska after the Civil War so I began my search for descendants there. From Civil War records, I learned he went first to Owen County, IN where his older brother, Civil War veteran, Harrison R. Hawkins, lived. By 1867, at age 19, he had moved on to Montgomery Co., IL. Why he went there, I don't know as there was no homesteading of land there at that late date. Only land in Nebraska, the Dakotas and Montana was being homesteaded then.

Madison must have stayed in Montgomery Co., IL for eight to 10 years as on May 6, 1873, he married Amanda C. Carriker (pronounced Carriker-ter), a daughter of Jacob W. Carriker, a Civil War Vet too, with roots in N.C. On April 23, 1874, their first child, Francis Elder Hawkins (code AFA) was born in IL. A second son, William E. Hawkins, (code AFB) was born May 29, 1875 but I never found the place of birth. This son was shot and killed by a friend when he was age 13 years and six months in a hunting accident. His grieving parents buried him in Greenwood Cemetery, Giltner, Nebraska, just a short distance from the farm.

It is not known exactly when Madison and his new, young family headed for homestead land in Nebraska, but several dates are given in various records. His obituary reports he moved to near Giltner, NE in 1875 and THE HISTORY OF HAMILTON AND CLAY COUNTIES by Dale P. Stough (1921) mentions Madison Hawkins as an "early settler" in Union Twp., Hamilton Co., NE in 1876. Another record reports him in Nebraska in 1873 which must be incorrect as his first child, Francis Elder, was born in IL in 1874.

But J. W. Carriker, his father-in-law, is shown in the same history in the same county in 1874, as a homesteader. It may be that Madison helped his father-in-law "prove up" on his land before the entire tribe of Carrikers and Madison finally relocated.

One 88-year old historian-former courthouse official, Lyle McConnaughey, of Aurora, NE, wrote me that men usually came west alone and built up a year or two and then went back for the family. He said his grandfather, a native of Guernsey Co., OH, and a Civil War veteran, homesteaded near Giltner, NE in 1871 but had moved to Iowa from Ohio in 1852.

Lyle said his grandfather would stay on his soldier's claim for six months and then spend three weeks driving back to Iowa where he worked on the railroad during the winter so he could drive out the next year for another six months of proving up. The family came out the third year when his uncle was just six weeks old. He said, "The three kids are all one year apart. . . just like a computer system works!"

It may be that Madison helped his father-in-law and that Madison's second son, born May 29, 1875 made the trip when quite small as we are certain Madison was in Nebraska in 1876. Madison and Amanda's two sons were just 14 months apart. And it is even possible, that Amanda made the trip during her pregnancy. It wasn't unusual for pioneers to do things like that!

Mr. McConnaughey, after seeing my letter to the editor in his local newspaper asking for information on the Hawkins family, wrote immediately. He sent Madison's obituary from an old newspaper, plus a photocopy from an 1888 atlas of the township where Madison's land was located. This atlas was the earliest he had in THE PLAINSMEN MUSEUM where he donates his services.

He said Madison had probably arrived in the area too late to get homestead land and had purchased land from a private source as he could tell from the numbering system of sections. Homestead land had even numbered and railroad land had odd numbered sections. Madison was located on the W. half of the SW Qtr. of Sec. 29, Twp. 9, Range 7, west of the 6th principal Meridian. Later I learned this aged good samaritan was correct as another Giltner, NE historian also wrote me.

Gerald Sherrard, an engineer for the Tennessee Valley Authority who writes "on the side", saw my letter in the newspaper and wrote that he was writing a history on Giltner for its centennial anniversary in 1986. Since he was making a trip to Nebraska from Tennessee on his summer vacation of 1983, he offered to do some research for me. He was a god-send as it was getting more and more difficult for me to even write letters to various sources because of my health. He visited Land Grant offices, Genealogical Society offices, museums, Nebraska State Historical Society, Greenwood Cemetery, courthouses, etc. I am much indebted to him and Mr. McConnaughey for so much information about our ancestor.

I wrote a piece on Madison and his family for Mr. Sherrard's 716-page book, HISTORICAL SKETCHES OF GILTNER, NE, and sent him a photo for the book of Madison and Amanda when they were young. Copies of his 6x9, hardcover book, with over 70 photos, with index, are still available by writing Mr. Sherrard, 224 Vanosdale Rd., Knoxville, TN 37919.

Mr. Sherrard told me in the early years of the western settlements, that many land development companies bought huge tracts of land from the government and resold them to individuals. Many of these development companies were railroads which platted new towns and built railroads through them to encourage settlement. He said that's how Giltner (formerly called Bromfield, Madison's postal address) was founded and developed. In 1880, four years after Madison and Amanda were in Union Twp., Hamilton Co. NE, the township where they lived had just 486 people living in it including the villages. So it was really a frontier.

The middle west meets the west in Nebraska. The name of this state means Flat River, the name the Indians gave to the famous Platte River. The eastern part of the state resembles Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa with its neat houses and red barns on fertile farms. They grow corn, hogs, wheat, sorghum, and wheat. Western Nebraska looks like the range country of Wyoming and Montana with its huge beef herds grazing on large ranches.

Madison was not quite to the West but the Platte River ran through the northwest corner of the county where he lived. Nebraska and the Platte River played a vital role in the settlement of the West as early pioneers followed the valley of the Platte River westward on the way to Oregon and other regions west. Most made their own route. Nebraska became the 37th state in 1857, established a one-house legislature in 1934 (the only one in the U.S.) and has no public debt as their state constitution prohibits debt!

On Dec. 5, 1887, Madison and Amanda Hawkins paid $800 down and assumed the $1125. mortgage of the 80-acre Eugene Hainer farm. (See deed elsewhere in this chapter.) The Hainers evidently couldn't make out on the farm because of too many natural disasters too many years in a row. There was the three-year scourge of grasshoppers 1874 through 1876, the three-day wind, sleet and snow storms of 1873, and the seven-month drought from Sept. 1, 1879 to June 8, 1880.

Also there was a huge prairie fire in the fall of 1880 which destroyed many crops. The winter of 1880 and 1881 was one of the most severe on record with severe storms and deep snows from Oct. 15, 1880 through the next April. People tied rope or clothesline to themselves even when they went out to the woodpile to be sure of getting back. Fuel was scarce and many settlers barely survived. Some ground corn with their coffee mills for food and burned wet hay, straw and cornstalks for fuel. (See a complete story of this pioneering life elsewhere in this chapter.) Though Madison and Amanda weren't land-owners then, they suffered through these terrible catastrophes of nature with the other early settlers.

Sometime around the turn of the century, Madison mortgaged his farm to enlarge his acreage and due to "severe economic times" (probably the Panic of 1893), the money lenders foreclosed on him. He had lost his land and his home, a small house with a loft heated with a wood stove.

But soon he began running a produce market and bought a home in Wheeler's Subdivision in Giltner. He also worked in a "Poultry House", selling butter and eggs and doing the book-keeping. By this time, his wife had become ill with Bright's disease and struggled through several long years of suffering before she finally died Aug. 24, 1911. She was buried in Greenwood Cemetery in Union Twp., Hamilton County near the site of the farm they once owned. She was laid to rest beside their son, William, and her mother, Mary Jane Carriker.

About 15 years before Amanda died, Madison's son, Francis Elder Hawkins (code AFA), met a beautiful, red-haired girl named Minerva Alstat sometimes spelled Alstot. They met in Holbrook, NE near her home. Her parents, Charles O. and Ellen Bain Alstat, had come from Creston, Iowa to Nebraska and had lived in a sod, dugout house for a year and a half while they built a cottage style house to live in. She was fair, with big, dark eyes, and wore a long, red braid down her back. She was tall and a striking person, so says her daughter, Vera Amanda Hawkins Borland, of Fruitland, ID. (Vera, born in 1900, lives four miles from town and still drives her Lincoln to town in about four minutes as she's "got to have some way to get around." More about spunky Vera and her brothers and sisters later!)

Francis Elder Hawkins (he was called Elder) married Minerva Atstat sometime in the late 1890s and lived for a year with Madison and Amanda in Giltner, NE. Eventually Elder and Minerva moved to Holbrook, NE and had five children, Clarence, Charles "Heavy", Tillford "Tiff," Vera, and Blanche "Bea." Vera stayed with her "Grandma Mandy" from age four until she was 11 as Amanda was ill and was alone while Madison worked. Vera recalls that once she and her brother were with Amanda and she became very ill while Madison was at a meeting of his lodge, The Modern Woodsmen. (It was similar to any other lodge except it sold life insurance. Madison had a "goat to ride" and probably participated in their drill teams.)

Vera said, in a telephone conversation with me, that she and her brother "had to climb the stairs" to where Madison was meeting with this "secret society", and they were so afraid. (Vera also told me she belonged to the Campfire Girls and went camping and "drilled like soldiers" as a young girl in Nebraska. They also all went to the Methodist Church.)

After Madison's wife died, one would think he would have given up. He had lost his son, his lifelong mate and his farm. His dreams for an abundant life in Giltner, Nebraska were about shattered.

But Madison "Matt" Hawkins, with his characteristic spirit of survival and adventure decided to try again. (Madison was called Matt in Nebraska, and his granddaughter never knew him by the name of Madison. However Madison is the name given in his obituary in the Nebraska newspaper. (See obituary in Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter. Matthew may have been his middle name but I could find no documented evidence anywhere.)

He heard of land to be homesteaded in Montana, and at age 66, made entry for 309.55 acres of land in Rosebud County, at Vananda, Montana. His son, Francis Elder, called Elder, made entry for 320 acres in the same county. (See homestead papers for land description and place in Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter.) At age 66, when most people are thinking of retirement or are retired, Madison was starting over.

In order to get the land "free", they would have to "prove up" (break so much sod and plant crops plus build a home, barn, and other necessary buildings.) They had to do this within five years to receive a Patent from the U.S. Government which was the Certificate of Ownership. Ever after that a deed was issued.

Upon arrival, Madison discovered he'd paid $50 six months before to be "located" on different property than now was marked by a furrow for him to occupy. This cut off 80 acres of good land and substituted 80 acres of hilly, untillable land with no minerals, timber or water on it. A county road had been built through the property also. So Madison applied and won an amended claim giving him his rightful land. (See Patents issued to both Elder and Madison giving land location in Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter.)

In April, 1914, Madison went to Vananda, Montana to begin building on his land. The first thing he did was build two miles of barbed wire fence and Elder must have built a house as his family couldn't be moved until he had a home for them.

According to his homestead applications, made after he had proved up, Elder built a frame house, 14'x 20', 8' high, with a gable roof and shingles. He also built a dug out barn 16'x 16' and a grain barn 32'x 16', three miles of fence, dug a well and cave, built a cow shed 20'x 20', about 9' high, and a dug out chicken house 14'x 14' with a dirt roof.

About Sept. 15, 1914, after first making several trips to build necessary buildings, Madison and his son, Elder, loaded their cattle, horses, mules, machinery, and household goods into a rented "immigrant railroad car" and with Madison and Elder's oldest son, Clarence, "riding herd" in the immigrant car, they moved all their possessions to Montana, the "Land of the Shining Mountains." Elder brought his family later by passenger railroad car.

Montana was also the land of treasure as there were gold, silver and copper mines. If one looked down, he saw a bonanza (Montana was first called the Bonanza State by early prospectors before becoming the Treasure State later.) If one looked up he saw glistening white peaks. Somewhere in between, was some farm land and settlers poured in just after the railroad era began. Between 1880 and 1910 (and later) the open range for cattle barons became fenced land of settlers and Vera says "the oldtimers didn't like the newcomers" as they took the free cattle range from them with fences.

Despite drought and erosion, farming grew. Dams were built to irrigate and make electricity. But Madison and Elder were too early for irrigation and electricity. And we all know there were no tractors with power take-off posthole diggers. And no steel fence posts to be bought.

Madison built his one-story, frame 14'x 18' house in July 1914. He later built a one-story frame barn 12'x 14', a 10'x 10' poultry house, a 12'x 16' granary, and fenced two miles of his quarter-section of land with two strands of barbed wire. The total value of this improvement was estimated at $1,000 to $1,200. Elder valued improvements to his land at the end of "prove up" time at $2,500.

Farming proved to be very difficult and the dream of what they could do with "free land" was shattered slowly as crops froze out and crop yields were low. Madison "broke" about 15 acres of sod the first year (1914) and planted oats, corn, and potatoes and had what he felt was "a good harvest." He seeded 11 acres in fall wheat that first year. The next year he broke 16 more acres, added six acres of corn to what he had the year before and had a good crop in his estimation. He seeded 37 acres in fall wheat.

Elder, whose farm was not as fertile as Madison's was, "broke" 30 of his 160 tillable acres in 1915, and planted it all in corn. His harvest was six bushel per acre. (I don't know if that was considered good or not for that day, but the average yield now in Coshocton County, OH, is about 125 bushel per acre with some getting over 150.)

But in 1916, Madison's winter wheat froze and he had to replant, getting 11 bushel per acre (average here is 40 to 50 bushel per acre) and he seeded 42 acres in fall wheat. He also planted a four-acre truck patch and perhaps this is where he ran a "produce market" instead of Nebraska.

Elder, in 1916, planted 30 acres of oats, 16 acres of corn, and 70 acres in wheat. His oats made five bushel per acre, his corn, three bushel, and his wheat, two bushel per acre. He could hardly make a living on this, so he went into Miles City, MN and ran machinery in the big engine rooms of establishments there. Several summers, he went as an engineer on threshing crews throughout the Northwest and into Canada.

His family tried to keep up the farming. His oldest son, Clarence was age 18, his son, Charles, was 13, and son, "Tiff," was 12. And in the beginning there had been no school for his children so they helped work for the school they eventually got.

In 1917, Madison's winter wheat froze out and he reseeded. He had six acres in corn and got about six bushel per acre again. With his team of horses, he broke 25 more acres of sod (at 69 years of age) and seeded 13 acres in fall wheat. Though farming was getting difficult and he was aging, he stuck with it.

Elder, after poor crops in 1918, gave up farming altogether and headed for Tower City, N.D. Taking his sons, and his horses and mules, they all rode into Tower City like cowboys. They made such an impression that one old timer, Edgar Preston, called me from his North Dakota home (after seeing my letter to the editor in the Valley City, N.D. newspaper) and talked a half an hour about their dramatic entry into Tower City, N.D.

Madison stayed on trying to farm. His grandson, Clarence, and his granddaughter, Vera, both returned to Montana. Clarence lived with his grandfather, Madison, and Vera worked on a ranch. She later went to a commercial school and learned cosmetology. Later, she married Earl Borland who was a carpenter. They traveled across Texas where he followed construction building theaters and she practiced as a beautician.

Eventually Vera and her husband ended up back in Payette, ID where Elder and Minerva had gone after farming in North Dakota for about 20 years. When I finally located Vera, she was at age 84, running an 11-room apartment house, taking care of a garden, and her sick husband, who had a stroke in his 90s. He died in 1985 and she moved into a small town in Oregon just across the border. But the last I talked with her in 1987, she had moved back to Fruitland, ID where she is closer to relatives.

Clarence eventually married Lena Wilson and they had one son, Boyd Hawkins, who lives now in Pocatello, ID. He married a girl from Youngstown, OH and one of their daughters, Lynda Hawkins Jones, lives near there now. Lynda came to visit us during one of our family reunions a couple summers ago. She has dark, red hair like her great-grandmother, Minerva Hawkins though her father has black hair and brown eyes. Lynda and her husband, David, lost a son at age five months to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome. This means they must monitor their little girl constantly which they appear to handle very well.

Clarence and his wife worked in a carnival and came to visit his parents. When Clarence's wife left, she didn't return, and later Clarence left. Boyd, their son, called "Buddy," was about 18 months old and was simply abandoned by his parents. Fortunately, his grandparents, Francis and Minerva Hawkins, took over the job of bringing up another child in their later years. It was told me by Mrs. Alberta Measor Hinrichs (who also answered my letter to the newspaper in Valley City, ID) that someone wanted to adopt Buddy, but Elder's son, Charlie, nicknamed "Heavy," didn't want to give him up. So they didn't adopt him out. Charlie tried hard to locate his errant brother, Clarence, by traveling to cities where there were carnivals but he never succeeded nor has anyone else. That's a sad, closed chapter in all their lives now.

Madison made a trip back to Ohio about 1915 and stayed one winter with his sister, Samantha Hawkins Meeks (code AE). But he returned to his farm for a while and then rented it out. But aging and poor health began to plague him and in 1928 he had to be declared incompetent and admitted to a hospital for arteriosclerosis and brain disease. He died of a stroke in a state hospital, the only hospital available for someone with brain disease. His adventurous life on earth was over.

Elder, who was still living in N.D., brought Madison back to Giltner, NE by rail and buried him next to his wife and son in Greenwood Cemetery, just one mile from his former Union Twp. farm. The total cost, including the undertaker (who also sold furniture), the hearse, cemetery, and transportation to site of burial, was $200.72.

Settlement of the estate was next and the Montana land was in poor shape. It had never become a profit making farm and now the "great depression" that hit in 1929 (the year Madison died) was another factor.

Elder, in his application to the Veteran's Administration for reimbursement of funeral expenses, wrote that its value could never be realized due to the depression. Its value, estimated in 1917 at $1,200, was estimated in 1929 at $650 for 320 acres of land and $75 for the improvements put on it. (Compare that to the value they placed on it when they filed an application for a Patent which I mentioned before.) Eventually it was sold for non-payment of taxes and the money went to the county coffers. There was no inheritance for Elder and his family despite a lifetime of hard work.

All of Elder and Minerva Hawkins' children

eventually married and left the state one by one. Charlie, who was nicknamed, "Heavy," married Margaret Henderson, nicknamed "Muggs." They stayed in Tower City, N.D. a while and then moved to Paoli, KS, where they ran Margaret's Cafe for several years. An 83-year old historian and former district court clerk knew the family and said Charlie's nickname was just a play on words. She expected to find a guy with a big "beer belly" but when she saw him for the first time, he was tall, lanky and lean. He had a dark complexion, and black eyes "like Mama" his sister, Vera said. She also said he was "Mama's favorite."

From his photos, he looks very much like my father at a younger age. (See photos of the whole family elsewhere in this chapter.) Vera said Charlie had a wonderful personality and could talk with anyone. A former friend of the family said he was a very kind-hearted, good-natured fellow.

When I learned that Charlie was named Charles Madison and that one of his sons was named Charles Elder, I knew I had the right family. Charlie died of cancer and was buried in Paoli, Kansas. Margaret tried to go it alone for a couple years, but due to illness, gave it up and went to live with her son, Perry Charles Hawkins, in Kountze, TX. I talked with Perry and understand he is tall, lean and lanky, and dark too.

"Tiff" became a career military man. For a time he was in the 7th Cavalry and saw action on the Mexican border in 1927. He saw action in WW II in both the Pacific and European theaters of war, the Korean conflict, and Viet Nam and never got a scratch. He eventually died of cancer as did his two wives. He had dark eyes and a ruddy complexion, and was a man who could "take charge," his sister, Vera Borland, said.

I found out about Bernice or "Bea," as she was called, as well as other members of the family, through Mrs. Alberta Measor Hinrichs, of Tower

City, N.D. who saw my letter in the newspaper too. Bernice, called "Bus" by her friends in school, was Alberta's best friend in high school. Alberta said that Bernice married and moved to California and there died of cancer of the spine. She was only ill for three weeks and was being doctored for what they thought was arthritis of the spine. Three of Elder's children had died of cancer within a few years of each other.

Elder, Minerva, Bernice, and Boyd, moved to Payette, ID in 1934, where Elder lived about 10 years before becoming ill of cardio-renal disease. He was sick for eight years before he died in a hospital in Blackfoot, ID in May, 1947. He was buried in Blackfoot.

Eventually, Vera and Earl Borland ended up back in Payette, ID. Minerva lived until 1964 when at 85 she succumbed to heart disease and high blood pressure. Vera still lives in ID, as does Boyd and his wife, his son and one daughter, and some grandchildren. Boyd worked in agribusiness and retired in 1986. Since there is good fishing in the Hawkins Reservoir and Hawkins Basin near Pocatello, we suggest he spend some of his time enjoying himself there. I know he's fished there many times.

Though there is much, much more that could be said about this family's achievements, this must suffice for now. The way I found each of them is about as interesting itself as the history but perhaps that is most interesting to just me. But it was a long road with many dead ends and a few lucky breakthroughs from kind strangers.

Madison's line, though small, continues on with the eighth generation of children through his great-grandson, Boyd. Though they are few in number, they seem to be as full of the spirit of adventure as their ancestor, Madison "Matt" Hawkins. Anyone living where they do in the winter has to be!

OBITUARY

AURORA REPUBLICAN,
Hamilton County, Nebraska,
February 22, 1929

M. Hawkins, among the early residents of this vicinity, passed away Sunday, February 10th, at his home in Montana, where he has resided since 1914. Relatives and friends here received word of his passing and the body was expected anytime from Monday afternoon on, but it did not arrive until Wednesday, Feb. 13th, when it was taken to the W. O. Herman home to remain until the hour of the funeral which is being held at the Methodist Church Thursday afternoon, Feb. 14 at two o'clock. Rev. Worley conducted the services and the church quartet sang. The following is the obituary:

Maddisan Hawkins was born on November 9, 1848, and died in Montana Sunday, February 10, 1929. Ohio was his native state, with whose volunteers he served for two years in the Civil War.

He was married to Amanda Carriker at Macomb, Ill., May 6, 1873, from whence he moved to Nebraska in 1875 and settled near Giltner, and lived near or in Giltner until 1914 when he moved to Montana, where his death occurred after a short illness; during which his natural ruggedness and vigor failed for two months until the end.

There were two sons born to Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, the younger of whom passed away at the age of 12 years, about 35 years ago. The elder son, E. Hawkins, who was present at the funeral, is the only remaining member of the family. His home is at Tower City, N.D.

The deceased was a member of the Modern Woodmen, which it seems was his only society membership.

The interment was in Greenwood cemetery, southeast of Giltner, beside his wife and younger son.

The United States of America

To all to whom these presents shall come,
Greeting:

Whereas, a certificate of the Register of the Land Office at Miles City, Montana, has been deposited in the General Land Office whereby it appears that, pursuant to the Act of Congress of May 20, 1862, "To Secure Homesteads to Actual Settlers on the Public Domain," and the acts supplemental thereto, the claim of Madison Hawkins has been established and duly consummated, in conformity to law for the Lots three, four, five, six, and seven, the east half of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of Section six in township eight north of Range thirty eight east of the Montana Meridian, Montana, containing three hundred nine and fifty five hundredths acres, according to the Official Plat of the Survey of the said Land, returned to the General Land Office by the surveyor General:

Now Know Ye, That there is, therefore, granted by the United States unto the said claimant the tract of land above described; To Have and to Hold the said tract of land, with the appurtenances thereof, unto the said claimant and to the heirs and assigns of the said claimant forever; subject to any vested and accrued water rights for mining, agricultural, manufacturing, or other purposes, and rights to ditches and reservoirs used in connection with such water rights, as may be recognized and acknowledged by the local customs, laws, and decisions of courts; and there is reserved from the lands hereby granted, a right of way thereon for ditches or canals constructed by the authority of the United States.

In Testimony Whereof, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, have caused these letters to be made Patent, and the seal of the General Land Office to be hereunto affixed.

Given under my hand, in the District of Columbia, the Twenty ninth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and forty third.

PRE-1890 HISTORICAL SKETCHES OF BUFFALO COUNTY
by Gerald E. Sherard

Reference: BIOGRAPHICAL SOUVENIR OF THE COUNTIES OF BUFFALO, KEARNEY, PHELPS, HARLAN AND FRANKLIN, NEBRASKA: Original printing by F. A. Battey & Co. (1890); Reprint 1983 by the Nebraska State Genealogical Society.

The first settlers who entered central Nebraska in the 1850s and 1860s saw the country in its almost primitive state, and gazed with their own eyes on the enchanting picture presented by the poet when he directed the eyes of the beholder on these lines:

"Behold the prairie, broad and grand and free;
'Tis God's own garden, unprofaned by man."

Central Nebraska was considered the heart of what was once considered as the "Great American Desert." The country presented a wild and forlorn appearance. The Union Pacific railroad had not then been projected, this part of the great public domain had not been surveyed, and the country at large was considered worthless except as a hunting-ground for the Indians. There were no regularly laid out roads in those days and every traveler selected his own route. These early settlers found the country sparsely settled and neighbors were few and far between. They always lived in sod houses or dugouts until they could manage to build a wood frame house.

The Cheyenne, Sioux and Pawnee Indians roamed over this part of the country then, and they not unfrequently left the evidences of their savagery in murdered men and women and in desolated homes. Occasionally as many as 500 to 2000 Indians were seen in one body going to and coming from their hunting expeditions. It is hard to convey an adequate idea of the terror which these prowling bands of savages spread through the country and the constant strain which the settlers labored under. The air was often full of rumors, and occasional outrages were committed in the settlement, but no organized forays were made against the whites as far east as Buffalo county. Indian scares occurred frequently, and even if they were not prompted by any real danger, the danger, never-the-less, seemed imminent to the settlers, and they were for the time being exceedingly serious affairs. The greatest of these scares occurred in August, 1864, during the Indian outbreak, which culminated in the Plum Creek massacre. That scare temporarily depopulated the country.

In 1870, Buffalo County was organized with the temporary county seat at Wood River Center (now Shelton). With the railroad completed, the land was undergoing its first major changes. An occasional buffalo was to be seen grazing on the plains. Deer and antelope roamed at will and furnished the principal meat for the few settlers at that time. Herds of deer and antelope could be seen in almost any direction. Some elk were still to be found. Jack-rabbits and prairie-chickens were also shot. There were hundreds of wild-cats and beaver along the creeks, and hunting and trapping constituted the chief occupation of several of the early settlers. Beaver and otter skins were tanned and found a ready market.

There were a few Pawnee Indians along the Platte and Wood Rivers. These Indians were engaged in trapping and hunting. The Indians were quite numerous, and were a constant annoyance to the settlers on account of their habit of begging and stealing. Indians often called and asked for food, flour and meal or feed for their ponies. Occasionally one would call in an exceedingly bad humor and would not be extended the hand of friendship. They were always armed to the teeth, and strenuously objected to the whites killing any wild game. Fortunately they never molested anyone.

Beginning April 15, 1873, occurred the worst wind, sleet and snow storm ever experienced. The storm began on Sunday and for three days the wind and sleet came with such terrific force as to render it unsafe for anyone to leave his door. People tied clothes line or rope to themselves when they went out to the wood-pile. A great many head of stock perished during the storm. In 1873, the crops, on account of excessive drought, were almost a total failure. 1873 was a year of major settlement in Buffalo County. Many of these early settlers were Civil War veterans who filed homestead claims.

In July, 1874, the grasshoppers made their first appearance and destroyed everything that was green. Crops were completely destroyed three years, 1874 thru 1876, in succession by the grasshoppers which subjected the settlers to great inconveniences and suffering.

(Editor's note: These are the earliest years of Madison "Matt" Hawkins settling in Nebraska and his in-laws were wiped out completely. They gave up their claims and went to California.) Many settlers came near starving to death. These were trying times, and the courage of men was put to the severest test.

In early August, 1876, the festive grasshoppers rose in numerous black clouds in the distant northwest horizon and descended wherever a green blade of anything was visible, and before night of the same day not a vestige of anything green could be seen. Fields of waving corn which gave every promise of an abundant crop in the morning, would be stripped of every vestige of life by nightfall. The grasshoppers flew in such droves that they fairly darkened the sun and made a roaring noise similar to a moving train of freight cars. When the grasshoppers arrived they would strike the house like descending hail. They fell like lava thrown from the crater of a volcano. The grasshoppers in those days were almost as thick as snow flakes in a blizzard. They were three inches thick, and they didn't seem to smother each other either. They even ate holes through the blankets which were spread over vegetables and ate the cabbage roots in the ground.

From 1874 to 1876, farmers survived by selling butter and eggs, eating wild game and practicing the most rigid economy. Many resorted to hunting and trapping to gain a livelihood. Many settlers also gathered buffalo bones from the prairie and marketed them to get money to supply themselves with the necessities of life. They lived on corn bread, a few potatoes, with an occasional jackrabbit sandwiched in, and boiled wheat. During the grasshopper times, provisions and clothing were sent from all over the East to the unfortunate settlers. Many, disheartened and on the very verge of starvation, returned back East to their former places of habitation. Fortunately this was the last year of the grasshoppers.

Another trying period for settlers occurred a few years later. There was no rain from September 1, 1879, to June 8, 1880. In the fall of 1880, prairie fires destroyed many crops. The winter of 1880-1881 was the longest and severest, and a great deal of suffering was experienced, principally among the new arrivals. The severe storms and deep snows began that season about the fifteenth of October and continued until the next April. The scarcity of fuel was cause for a great deal of inconvenience and suffering, and some were even without the actual necessities to sustain life during so long and disagreeable a winter and were in measure dependent upon their more fortunate neighbors. Many had to grind corn in their coffee-mills for food and burn wet hay, straw, and cornstalks for fuel.

In spite of these hardships, many settlers maintained faith in the land, and today have transformed central Nebraska into one of the major food producing centers of the world.

NEBRASKA Land Entry and Land Patents

Nebraska was one of the 29 states (and the Territory of Alaska) which was known as "public land States". All lands are now owned by either the Federal Government or persons receiving titles from that source.

The General Land Office was first established in 1812, and functioned under the Treasury Department. In 1849 it was transferred to the Dept. of Interior, then, in 1946, after the consolidation with the Grazing Service, the Bureau of Land Management resulted. The Bureau of Land Management supervises the public domain and executes the laws relating to public land.

A person wishing to make an "entry" (obtain a tract of land) went before the Register of the district land office and completed documents and made financial arrangements to indicate the desire to obtain a title to the type of "entry" he wished. After these formalities the papers were forwarded to the General Land Office for review. If all was proper a patent was issued, but often a delay of months and even years would occur before the patent was issued because the General Land Office was often far behind in its work.

To receive land entry and patent papers for Nebraska settles it is necessary to know: 1. Legal description of land (i.e. section, range, township, meridian), or 2. Date or approximate date, name of the land office through which the entry was made. The tract books are located in the National Archives. These books are organized by class of entry, district land office and by each category of entry at every land office. The Nebraska State Historical Society has the original federal land records for Nebraska. After the legal description or the date and the land office are known the researcher can write the Bureau of Land Management for copies of the land entry and patent papers. Information contained in the land records: 1. Name, residence (post office) of entryman, 2. Entryman's age, 3. Number of members in the household and relationship, 4. Date of settlement and purchase and number of acres, 5. Type of improvements (description of home, other buildings, type of crops, number of acres farmed), 6. Naturalization proceedings if naturalized citizen or if an alien, his intentions.

Land Patent of Francis E. Hawkins

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, a Certificate of the Register of the Land Office at Miles City, Montana, has been deposited in the General Land Office, whereby it appears that, pursuant to the Act of Congress of May 20, 1862, "To Secure Homesteads to Actual Settlers on the Public Domain," and the acts supplemental thereto, the claim of Francis E. Hawkins, has been established and duly consummated, in conformity to law, for the south half of Section twenty-four in Township nine north of Range thirty-seven east of the Montana Meridian, Montana, containing three hundred twenty acres, according to the Official Plat of the Survey of the said Land, returned to the General Land Office by the Surveyor-General:

Now Know Ye, That there is, therefore, granted by the United States unto the said claimant the tract of land above described: To Have And To Hold the said tract of Land, with the appurtenances thereof, unto the said claimant and to the heirs and assigns of the said claimant forever: subject to any vested land accrued water rights for mining, agricultural, manufacturing, or other purposes, and rights to ditches and reservoirs used in connection with such water rights, as may be recognized and acknowledged by the local customs, laws, and decisions of courts; and there is reserved from the lands hereby granted, a right of way thereon for ditches or canals constructed by the authority of the United States.

In Testimony Whereof, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, have caused these letters to be made Patent, and the seal of the General Land Office to be hereunto affixed. Given under my hand, in the District of Columbia, the Thirtieth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and Nineteen and of the

HOLMES COUNTY RESIDENT KEPT CIVIL WAR RECORDS

by Nancy Lowe Lonsinger,
Historian, Roscoe Village Restoration

COSHOCTON TRIBUNE,
Sunday, Nov. 11, 1979.

Jean Foster Reddick, a staff member of the Coshocton Public Library, has a strong interest in family histories. She is an authority on the history of many local families and is a great help in people searching their own "roots."

In her searching, Jean uncovered records kept by a volunteer in the Civil War, William Buchanan of Holmes County. A report of her discovery was printed in the Coshocton Public Library News-Calendar on Aug. 15, 1961. With permission, we reprint excerpts: the complete article may be read at the Coshocton Public Library.

"One hundred years ago—1861—began the most devastating war of our United States. The North was as unprepared for war as the Colonies had been at the Revolution. In the call for volunteers by President Lincoln, many early companies hastily recruited were forced to wear the actual clothes on their persons. Few personal provisions were made for the soldiers or their families."

William Buchanan, a volunteer for three years service, kept his Company records as well as his own personal records and reveals the day by day hardships and existence of the Union foot soldier.

"Even though his company was recruited in August 1861, he states they received their overcoats Dec. 5, 1861, and it is Dec. 14, 1861, when he comments they received their "arms" and distributed them; and by Dec. 23, 1861, he records they now have ammunition. For approximately 4 months this group had been in the service of their country, but could hardly fight a battle. Their so-called basic training consisted of drilling and the contagious diseases which swept like wildfire through the campsites killing many who never fired a gun at the enemy.

"Weather observations were dutifully recorded on the march for this meant attempting to keep dry to avoid the fevers. One entry says briefly: Rain nearly all day, tents flooded, and men had to turn out and ditch around the tents, some left and slept in a stable. Frozen ground was welcome. Another notation: Cold, and ground hard, frozen, fine for marching.

"As clothing became available, he also lists the clothing he has drawn for his first year of enlistment and the prices: 1 overcoat, $7.50; 2 pairs of pants, $8.50; 1 dress shirt, $6.71, 2 shirts $2.50, 2 caps $1.70; 1 pair drawers $.55, 1 pair stockings, $.26; 1 pair shoes, $1.30, 1 blanket, $3.34, 1 blouse $2.24. Monthly ration records were also kept, but in the ensuing months they were listed as Back Rations Due Company: pork, fresh beef, salt beef, bacon, hard bread, flour, soft bread, beans, rice, coffee, sugar, vinegar, candles, soap, salt, potatoes.

"As the war went on month after month and the men got further away from supply bases, items such as fresh beef and salt beef disappeared; by April 25, 1862, it was noted that 'from this date, only three fourths rations of sugar and coffee are to be issued per man.' Cornmeal or hominy was listed as substitutes for flour, and the hard and soft bread. By August 16, 1862, the potatoes were no longer listed. The 'back rations' had reached a greater quantity than the food received. Candles were almost unavailable.

"Although hospitalized himself in Mississippi, he later completed a report of his company after the siege of Vicksburg; one corporal killed, two sergeants, two corporals wounded; one lieutenant, one sergeant, two corporals and 19 privates missing in action. After each man's rank and name is a description and location of wounds. In his personal notes, he says, '100 rounds to the gun fired in shelling Vicksburg. Corn is in tassel here—one of our teamsters shot at but the ball took effect in the shoulder of the mule.'

I, Madison Hawkings, born in Bookerston Co in the State of Ohio, aged Eighteen years, and by occupation a Farmer, Do HEREBY ACKNOWLEDGE to have volunteered this Seance day of March, 1865, to serve as a Soldier in the Army of the United States of America, for the period of THREE YEARS, unless sooner discharged by proper authority:
Do also agree to accept such bounty, pay, rations, and clothing, as are, or may be, established by law for volunteers. And I, Madison Hawkings, do solemnly swear, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America, and that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies or opposers whomsoever; and that I will observe and obey the orders of the President of the United States, and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to the Rules and Articles of War.

I CERTIFY, ON HONOR, That I have minutely inspected the Volunteer Madison Hawkings previously to his enlistment, and that he was entirely sober when enlisted; that, to the best of my judgment and belief, he is of lawful age; and that, in accepting him as duly qualified to perform the duties of an able-bodied soldier, I have strictly observed the Regulations which govern the recruiting service. This soldier has Blue eyes, Brown hair, Fair complexion, is Five

When Elder J. Hawkins (code AH) was born March 7, 1855, his parents, Elder and Elisabeth (Caton-Gardner) Hawkins (code A and a), had already lived in Crawford Twp., Coshocton Co. OH, for 10 years after coming here from Chartiers Twp., Washington Co., PA about 1845. Almost nine months before Elder J. Hawkins' birth, the family had lost a little girl, Sarah Evaline Hawkins, at the age of 23 months. They buried her in Caton Cemetery, White Eyes Twp., Coshocton Co., OH.

It is the only child Elder and Elisabeth lost so young and the cause of death is unknown. There were so many young children buried in that cemetery, as high as three from the same family in one week. I suspect one of the diseases wiped out in our time, caused her death in her time. She was born in Ohio July 11, 1852, and died June 21, 1854. No doubt when Elder J. was born so soon after this loss, he brought joy to sorrowing hearts.

Elder J. probably was educated in the same "subscription school" as the other children in Crawford Twp., Coshocton Co., OH. He was 13 years old when his family moved to Richland Twp., Holmes County, OH in 1868. Since his parents bought so much land, (240 acres in Holmes and Coshocton counties), he probably learned to work early. In fact, one of the things he's most remembered for is his perseverance at work, and his ability to do many different kinds of work.

On June 5, 1875, when Elder J. was age 20, he married 18-year old Josephine Tharp, a daughter of Caleb and Catherine Sondles Smith Tharp, of Monroe Twp., Coshocton Co., OH. He had a dark complexion, black hair and mustache, black eyes, and was a nice looking young man. Josephine, was fair, had light hair, and blue eyes, and my father recalls that his mother was "a pretty woman." (See photo of them elsewhere in this chapter. Helen Meehan Hawkins, wife of the late Glenn Hawkins has the original big wall photo.)

After their marriage, they lived with Josephine's parents on a 40-acre farm in Monroe Twp., which her mother had bought on Jan. 30, 1866 from Adam Nyhart. Josephine's father, Caleb, who was 11 years younger than his wife, had served in the Civil War in Mississippi and had a 2/3rds disability from a paralyzed left side suffered in a fall from a cliff. Elder J. probably did the farming.

Josephine Tharp Hawkins' mother, Catherine Sondles Smith Tharp, died Feb. 26, 1876, less than a year after Josephine married Elder J. Hawkins (code AH). She was 60 years, 5 months and 25 days old and was buried in the Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery. The farm was divided between her husband and children and a girl that lived in the household from her youth, Mrs. Nancy Butler. Nancy was listed with the family in the 1860 census as age 16 and no different last name was given. She may have been a child by an earlier marriage.

Elder J. and Josephine bought out everyone's share of Catherine's Monroe Twp. farm on "Big Run," and continued living there for several years. At least six of their 15 children were born on this farm. Four of their children died young, but only one, William, was buried in a Monroe Twp. cemetery called Big Run. William B. Hawkins, their second child, born Jan. 28, 1879, died in infancy. We found no death record and no tombstone so we don't know how long he lived. I found the birth record in the Coshocton County Courthouse but have no other information about him. We do know he's not buried at Stillwell as the other deceased children were. No one in the family ever heard of him by name. "Mag," wife of John Elsworth Hawkins (code AAA), had told the family of this baby buried in infancy in the Big Run Cemetery.

On April 1, 1890, Elder J. Hawkins, bought 40 acres of the land his father, Elder Hawkins, Sr. (code A), had sold to his brother, George Hawkins (code AA). The parcel Elder J. bought from George was the N half of the NE Qtr. of Sec. 1, Twp. 7, Range 9 lying along the Holmes-Coshocton County border. For this land Elder J. paid $1,000. My father, Clifford Caleb Hawkins (code AHM), the 13th child of Elder J. and Josephine Tharp Hawkins, said Elder J. had sold the farm in Monroe Twp. I didn't find a deed transaction for this sale but there were so many different Elders on deeds I got lost in the shuffle!

This purchase included an old, frame house by the spring quite a distance down the hill from Road 452. George had lived in it at one time. It is uncertain when Elder J. and Josephine Hawkins moved from Monroe Twp. to Tiverton Twp. but considering where their children were buried, they must have moved to the new place about 1885. It was here, that problems began to pile up.

An infant son born Dec. 31, 1888, lived only one day. He was buried, unnamed, in Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery. Two other children died in their teenage years of typhoid fever. The raging fever killed Wellington Burt (code AHB), on Jan. 6, 1898 at age 19. (See his mother's handwritten obituary in the Miscellaneous Notes of this chapter.) He was buried in Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery.

The next year, the same dreaded fever took the life of a second child, Lillie Belle Hawkins, at about age 19. She too was buried at Stillwell. The load was heavy not only in personal loss but financially for by this time, they had 13 children.

Elder J., who had sawed lumber for a new house for his large family, had to sell it to pay for the expenses of sickness and funerals. But rather than stay in a house built near the spring, a breeding ground for typhoid fever, he cut logs and set about building a log house farther up the hill from the spring along the Tiverton Twp. Road 452 where the home of Mary Alice Hawkins McCombs now stands.

It was a long ways to go to carry the water they needed. When we consider a family as big as Elder J. and Josephine's, just carrying water for cooking and drinking alone was a lot let alone for laundry, baths, scrubbing, and cleaning. But that small log house, built about 1900 or a bit later, was to be home for Elder J. and Josephine as long as they lived. It was also home for my father and mother, Clifford and Pearl Ackeret Hawkins and their first three children until the summer of 1930. That year, they moved the house George Hawkins (code AA) had built from where it stood on top of the hill to where it stands now on the foundation of the log house Elder J. built.

In 1924, my parents bought the 40 acres Elder J. had bought from his brother, George, on which the new log house was built. My dad also bought the 40 acres his uncle Andrew Jackson Hawkins (code AI) had bought from George's estate after George died in 1918.

Though my dad was but a little tyke about four years old when the new log house was built, he remembers well how it was done. Elder J. had, with a broad axe, hewn notches in the logs so that they fit into each other needing a minimum of "daubin", (a mixture of sand and lime, and cement if they had it) between the cracks. Skids were placed along the frame of the side of the house they were working on and the builders rolled each log up the skids with "pike poles". They then were fitted into the hand-hewn notches on the corners.

Though just four years old, my dad had to watch what was going on (this was probably entertainment for all the kids) but he got a little too close. Someone grabbed him, yanked him back, and shouted, "Get outta here!" Perhaps that made the imprint on his young memory deeper. He doesn't remember who yanked him back.

It might have been his father for Dad says he was a man of strict discipline. With that many children one would have to be! One day Dad's brothers, Elder Harrison "Harry" Hawkins (code AHJ) and Newton Clarmont "Newt" Hawkins (code AHK), were arguing loudly about something out by the granary. Their dad, Elder J., told them to quit. In no time they were back at it. So Elder J. grabbed both his sons "by the back of the neck and cracked their heads together." I guess that ended it immediately! He was a strong man in body as well as spirit.

Perhaps he was strong because of his hard work. According to Dad, Elder J. worked from daylight until dark summer and winter. He not only farmed his own 40 acres but rented nearby land and farmed it. Of course his boys who were still at home helped. My dad remembers he and his brother, Roy Hawkins (code AKL) were hoeing corn on one of the fields close to the creek, and the mosquitos were bothering them, buzzing around their heads so bad they could hardly stand it. Though it was a hot day, Dad used his ingenuity and wore his heavy winter cap with eartabs. (See story "USE YOUR INGENILITY" in Miscellaneous Notes in this chapter for more on our family.)

Elder J. worked out by the day too. He shored sheep in the spring for his neighbors (it was said his mother, Elisabeth, could sheer sheep too), and dug ditches and laid drainage tile, all with hand tools. Wolf Creek was a very narrow, wet valley, so he probably was kept busy. He kept three or four cows, brood sows, chickens, and a team of horses which required care too. His sons worked out when they got old enough as did the daughters. He'd plant and cultivate with just the younger boys to help.

I don't know if the girls hoed corn too but I suspect they did as I did when we farmed the same land. My brothers, Charlie and Bill, would take a dip in the water as the end of every corn row ended up on the bank of Wolf Creek. They learned to swim but I was too afraid of the water to do more than wade in. Then there were the problems of modesty and mixed bathing in those days! We were modest even when no one was looking.

In the winter, Elder J. would chop down tree saplings from which he made barrel hoops that he shipped by train to the barrel factory at Walhonding. When he got a wagon load, he'd load them in bundles he could handle and spend the better part of a day driving his horses and wagon to Brinkhaven, OH so he could ship his barrel hoops from the depot there.

He also sold "Porter's Cure Pain", a remedy that relieved the symptoms of most any ailment. He'd order it shipped in by train to Brinkhaven. Elder J. would then ride a horse to Brinkhaven to pick up a case of this miraculous cure for his regular customers on Wolf Creek. Dad said it was "very hot to drink." It probably had a lot of alcohol in it as most patent medicines do today. But my Dad says, one customer, Charlie Matheny, got so he could drink it right out of the bottle without batting an eye! As far as I know, it never became a big business!

Elder J. was only 53 years old when he died Sept. 4, 1908. His death certificate reports he died of typhoid fever but the family feels he died of an injury. He and his sons were making hay one hot, summer day and had come in for dinner (that's at noon around here). After they ate, they decided to relax a little while before heading back to the hot field and hay mow.

So the boys were playing a little baseball. Elder J. came out, picked up the ball and threw it real hard ending up with great pain in his abdomen. The pain was so bad he thought he'd have to lay down a little while before going back to the field. He never got off his sick bed again and six weeks later he died. He had a raging fever and severe abdominal pain until the point of death. It is thought he burst something and died of the complications. They laid him to rest in the Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery.

Elder J. left his widow, Josephine, with four children under 12 to support and a 40-acre farm to run. But her children did well by her. From her flock of chickens, she sold the extra eggs at the general store in Stillwell. From her cows they had all the milk, butter and cottage cheese they could use plus exchanged the extra at the general store for groceries, dry goods, tools, or anything they needed. In those days you could buy dress material for three cents a yard and she made all their dresses and often, the boy's shirts.

Doris Bergoon Franks, recalls her mother, Lovie Hawkins Bergoon (code AHN) saying she and her sister, Alma Hawkins Carter (code AHO), had new dresses every Easter. (See photo of the two girls in their fashionable dresses elsewhere in this chapter.) They may have been "store bought" but more likely were made by their mother.

From the pigs they raised, came the meat supply which they "cured" and hung in the smokehouse. One son, Newt, was about 16 and he was "teaming" for a neighbor, so he helped his mother with the farming, as did daughter Myrtle's husband, Edgar, who lived on a neighboring farm. At one time "Harry," whom I mentioned before, lived just across Wolf Creek on land bordering Elder J.'s land, and he helped her farm. Of course not all this 40 acres was tillable.

My dad, Clifford Caleb, was just 12 years old when his dad died, but he and his brother, Roy, who was age 14 then, set traps and sold fur all winter. Everything anyone made went in the family till. When Dad was 13 years old, he struck out on his own by going to work for his brother-in-law, Gus Saunier (Nell's husband) in his cheese factory and farming operation near Tiverton, OH. This made one less mouth to feed and body to clothe. Nell, (code AHG) would walk to her mother's house to help as did her older girls. In those days it wasn't so terribly expensive to live, just a lot of hard work.

My dad worked for Gus and Nell until he was about 18 years old and then he went to Wellington, OH where his sister, Gladys Hawkins Sheldon (code AHF) lived. Dad worked there until he was drafted into the army in World War I. Officially he was listed with the 90th Div., Co. L, 357th Regt. He entered the service in June, 1918 with 39th Div., and was on the front lines in France by September. He fought in France with the 90th Div. in the battles of the Argonne Forest, St. Mihiel, and Meuse. Since the war ended on Nov. 11, 1918, he stayed with the army of occupation building roads with antiquated equipment and hand tools until June, 1919. He came home with the 80th Div.

Josephine Tharp Hawkins lived on in the log house until she died in her sleep of heart disease. She had gotten up in the night to let her son, Roy, (then unmarried) in the house after he came home from somewhere, and had gone back to bed. On the morning of April 3, 1923, her daughter, Alma, who also lived at home, found her dead. She was buried in Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery. (Her parents, Caleb and Catherine Sondles Smith Tharp are buried beside her as is Caleb's mother, Elinor King.)

In the summer of 1930, it was Harry Hawkins, Dad's brother, who finally made Uncle George's new house move. Dad intended to move it down beside the old log house, live in it while they tore the old log house down, and then move it over on the log house foundation. It was a huge project for those days and their equipment!

With a block and tackle and 300 feet of cable pulled by several horses, they lifted the house off its foundation where it stood on top of the hill and pulled it onto skids. Though the horses could move it, it was evident they couldn't do the whole job.

So Harry, who had a big Huber tractor with steel wheels, hooked onto the cable and as Mom says, "When Harry took hold of anything it moved!" They rolled this house about 50 feet at a time and down the steepest hill you can imagine. It's not quite a cliff but comes close! When they got to the road (CR 452) somehow, they managed to get George's house across and set down on a temporary foundation without breaking the thing apart. It took about a day and a half and many of the neighborhood men to accomplish this feat!

In December, I was born in that house and the next spring I was near death in that house. (See details ABOUT THE AUTHOR in the front of this book.) They tore down the old log house, which had a few snakes lurking about, and sawed it up for firewood. Mom said it "made the best firewood" as that's what they burned to heat the house. Then they moved the new house over on the old foundation and with some ingenuity made it fit! The house still stands and is home for Mary Alice Hawkins McCombs and her family.

Elder J. and Josephine's oldest child, Daisy Arminda Hawkins Smail (code AHA) died at age 26 of a breast infection when her only living child, Buelah Bernice Smail Hoover, was just three weeks old. Bernice was raised by Lambert and Jane Smail Arnold in Killbuck, OH, and attended Buffalo School in Holmes County, OH.

It was thought Daisy just had two children, Bernice Smail Hoover, and a son, Harley, who is buried near her in Stillwell Baptist Church Cemetery. But the obituary of her husband, David Smail, who married a second time to Nettie Schaff by whom he had a daughter, Mrs. Walter (Evelyn) Harris, reports that he and Daisy had two sons, both deceased. It is reported one was named Harold but the family doesn't know if the other was Harley or if there is a mix-up in names.

Bernice Smail married a Methodist minister, William Stace Hoover, who also took care of an 80-acre farm. He served the Big Prairie Methodist Church for 23 years. A daughter of Bernice and Bill, Amanda Jane Hoover Stevens, worked 10 years in general nursing, 10 years in supervision, five years as Director of Nursing, four years as a Nursing Home Administrator, and holds an Activity Directors Certificate and a professional teaching certificate.

There are many other accomplished people in this line but time and energy doesn't give me the luxury of writing it all. (See HOW TO USE THIS BOOK in the beginning of this book.)

World War II saw many young men from this line of Elder J. Hawkins giving military service. Though I haven't listed all the veterans of all the wars in this book, I came to realize we owe a lot to our own kin.

A few went beyond the call of duty in all the family lines but I wanted to especially mention two from Elder J's line as I have the information on them. The late Glenn Hawkins, son of Elder Harrison "Harry" Hawkins (code AHJ) had entered the military service in March, 1941. By the time the U.S. entered the war Dec. 7, 1941, Glenn had been overseas already for over three months. He was in the Medical Corps and saw much action through the entire war being discharged Sept. 15, 1945.

He received the Silver Star, which is the second highest honor of valor, and eight bronze stars for battles he fought on the African and Central European fronts. Battles in which he picked up the wounded and dead nearly every day for several years were Algeria, French Morocco, Tunisia, Sicily, Normandy, (during the invasion) Northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes, and Central Europe. As far as I know he came through unscathed except for the horrible memories of always dealing with the dead and dying.

Another man, Thomas Jefferson "Tom" Sheldon, Jr., son of Gladys Hawkins Sheldon (code AHF) and Thomas Jefferson Sheldon, Sr., was one of three brothers serving at the same time in World War II. (Another, Robert Sheldon was in the Korean Conflict.) Tom, who was serving in Italy, was a Prisoner of War in Germany and said of the experience, "It is something you have to live through in order to believe it could really happen in civilization." Though he rarely mentions his experience and is unable to recall some of it, we were able to piece things together from him and his family. This is his story. I write it here for he really knows what freedom means.

Tom landed on Anzio beachhead in Southern Italy the last of January, after two months on the frontline. Early in November, 1943, the Allies reached a line about 75 miles south of Rome, but they couldn't pierce the German defenses. Late in January, 1944, the Allies tried to outflank the German lines by landing troops near Anzio. Tom was one of those young men.

But the Germans held the high ground overlooking the coast, and hemmed in the invaders on a small beachhead. Tom was one of those invaders. He was on patrol one night in April, 1944 and got into a German mine field. He was captured and while trudging about 30 miles to a German hospital outside Rome, he had to carry a buddy whose leg was blown off. There was another friend who was blinded, but he had to carry a buddy too. So he hung on to Tom's coattails until they got to the German hospital.

From there, Tom and the rest of the group tramped to Brenner Pass, boarded box cars, and went to Germany. For the next 13 months, he was in various German prison camps. The first one, the only one he remembers, was Stalag 7A but he was only there a week. According to his brother, Bob, every time the Allies got close, the Germans forced the prisoners to march to a different camp. Most of them were work camps and they worked mostly on the railroads. They lived in box cars winter and summer.

Living conditions in all work camps were bad. The men were cold, hungry, and overworked all the time. From the time they were captured they were in constant danger of being strafed by our own planes. They were finally recognized by our pilots as after while, they refused to get off the road while the Germans ran to ditches.

In one of these camps, the men got so hungry they ate a cat. The guards let them build a little fire to roast it and Tom says, "From what I remember it wasn't quite done but it was good."

Tom was liberated by the American Tank Corps in early May, 1945. When the American medics finally checked him out a month later, he weighed 105 pounds, having lost 45 pounds. He was not far from starvation.

Two of the descendants of Elder J. worked for NASA as did Edgar Hawkins, grandson of George. (Read details of Edgar's work on development of jet and rocket engines during World War II in Chapter 2.) Robert "Bob" Sheldon was an Aerospace Mechanical Section Head with about 50 technicians under his direction including lower grade supervisors. He was to provide technicians for the buildup, maintenance, and assistance in some 75 research projects. These included research on super conducting magnets, fusion research, jet engines, helicopter transmissions, and lubrications.

My brother, Clifford Earl Hawkins, worked as a space science lecturer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) during the early moon shots. He was trained by the first astronauts and spoke to groups all over the Northeastern and Midwestern United States. He gave demonstrations to everyone from school students to military personnel in the Pentagon. Some of his training and work was done in connection with the Lewis Research and Training Center, Cleveland, where Bob Sheldon and Edgar Hawkins both worked. They represent three different ages of military research and accomplishment for NASA from this family.

After my brother, Clifford, stopped lecturing and giving demonstrations on space, he went back to teaching, his previous occupation. But this time was different. He, and a couple fellow space teachers, got a government grant for an Aeronautical Vocational Program in an Indianapolis high school, as that seemed to be where many jobs of the future would be. They wrote their own textbook, bought an old airplane for the school, and taught (youth and adults in night classes) the art of several vocations in the aviation and space field.

Another achievement of a man in this line is perhaps the humbler but no less important role Burley Saunier plays in his community of Loudonville, OH. For over 50 years he has been a volunteer fireman, 28 years as chief. "I experienced some very sad situations," he says, "but generally it has been upbeat, because people appreciate help when they really need it. And their show of appreciation does something to a person's inner being that makes it all worthwhile." Burley's wife has been confined to bed for several years and after he retired in 1974 from his job as Div. Superintendent at The Flexible Co., in Loudonville, he's chief cook and bottle washer at home as well as being active in the community.

My sister, Rosena Hawkins Kistler Weaver, was among the first group of nurses from Ohio to go to mainland China after our nation re-established relations with them a few years ago. She watched a thyroidectomy done with acupuncture as the only anesthetic and reports the patient was awake and painless during the entire operation. Afterwards, they helped the patient off the operating table, and gave her orange juice to drink.

Another family in this line which has achieved much prominence is the Gladys Bergoon and Mel Clouse family. For 25 years Mel was farm manager for Gay Acres, a 125-acre horse farm near Wooster, OH, one of the top breeding farms in the world. Daughter, Cindy, was listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students in the 1975-76 edition and son, Jon, was selected as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America for 1979. He's a faculty member of the University of Minnesota. Gerald, is director of the Pharmacy Service for Kettering Memorial Hospital and received the 1983 Hospital Pharmacist of the Year award from the Ohio Society of Hospital Pharmacists. Gladys keeps them all straight and achieving!

Through Elder J.'s son, Rile, come many achievers and some hard times. In 1936, a two-year old son of the late John Hawkins and his wife, Dorothy, was accidently kicked by a horse and died the next day of a fractured skull.

Another of Rile's grandsons, Paul Hawkins, Jr., traveled with missionaries in South America and has visited Israel twice. Another, Lloyd Strouse, is a Baptist minister managing an apartment complex, and another, Donald E. Hawkins, was a practicing attorney, and is vice president of a leading bank in Wheeling, W. VA. He founded the St. Clairsville Bible School, is currently its president, and has published several books.

One of Elder J.'s grandsons, the late Cecil Carter, son of Alma Hawkins Carter (code AHO), was ineligible for military service in World War 11 because he was blind in one eye. So he joined the U. S. Maritime service (Merchant Marines) hauling military supplies by ship to many places around the world including India, Casablanca, South Africa, South America, the West Indies, and England. He died of a broken neck in an automobile accident when he was only 22.

As for myself, my wall has many plaques of which one is the Community Life Service Award for 1984 (one is given each year by the local Lions Club and I am the first woman in the area to receive one. It's poor company to keep though as most of the recipients are dead!) Out of 400 people in the United States, I was named Community Leader of the Year in 1969 for all kinds of volunteer service, including some on the state and national level in church work, postal organizations, mission work, rural development, etc. I cherish being named an honorary member of the River View High School Future Farmers of America. That's a coveted award around here and comes only after much hard work with the young men in the high school.

I have been a published writer for 20 years and wrote a humor column for newspapers and magazines, but this is my first book. I was a full-time news reporter for THE COSHOCTON TRIBUNE and a correspondent for THE CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER. I was editor and chief writer for THE COSHOCTON BARGAIN HUNTER, and was the first Public Relations Director for Roscoe Village, a restored Ohio-Erie canal town at Coshocton, OH. I initiated the Coshocton Canal Day Festival which draws about 30,000 visitors annually, and the fall Apple Butter Stirrin' which draws almost as many. I was secretary of Ohio Baptist Women (about 15,000 of them) and was slated to become president when severe illness struck.

My husband, Jack, has a long history of service to the community and has just retired as postmaster of our village. He has awards for volunteer service in the fire department (21 years), emergency squad (local and county), and received the Warsaw Lions Community Service Award in 1974. He's very musical, plays the bass horn in two community bands, is relearning to play the piano (his mom, who is age 95, taught music for well over 50 years), and since my illness and his retirement, has taken over the duties of the house so I can use all my energy on this book. GIRLS, HE CAN EVEN BAKE HOMEMADE BREAD!

We have two daughters who are married. One lives in Mallorytown, Ontario, Canada and one in Newark, OH. Both are extremely active in the Little Theater groups as well church and community affairs. Debbie, who lives in Canada, is a homemaker, singer, bank teller, amateur actress, and church worker. Mary Jo, also very musical, is a registered nurse, has five green thumbs and uses them, does landscaping, and has taught piano. She has a 15 year-old named, Dawn Mari, who excels in track and a 13-year old named, Kimberly Joy, who is a runner and a writer. (She wrote her first book in grade 3.) Mary Jo has a two-year old named, Katharine Elizabeth, who busies herself with Sesame St. and wading in the spring run.

Debbie's husband, Hugh Prentice, is a buyer for Black & Decker Industries in Brocksville, Ontario, Canada, and Mary Jo's husband, Mike Metzger, is an English teacher and wrestling coach at Licking Valley High School near Newark, OH.

Debbie has a seven-year old named Margot Michelle, who is very precise about everything (she abhors her four-year old brother, Ben's English and most everything else he does). Right now that includes his love of snakes. He thinks he'd like to have a Boa Constrictor for a pet! (He had a pet six-inch garter snake that no one but he would take care of so I don't know what they would do with anything the size of a Boa Constrictor!) They all enjoy the winter sports of Canada and both kids are already skating and skiing. They were the only people I know who enjoyed the 1978 blizzard!

Their father was captain of the Ohio State University hockey team. He is just one of several Canadians attracted by scholarships to Ohio State University who married Ohio girls. So they have friends both places.

And so I must end this saga of the descendants of Elder J. and Josephine Tharp Hawkins. Though their family was large, and a lot of rough circumstances have plagued many of us down the years, we've shared in a full life. Dad, who inspired this book, is the last of Elder J.'s children living now. He will be 92, Feb. 16, 1988.

Though completely blind (he can't even see the difference between daylight and dark), and with severe heart disease, he gets up every morning, shaves, and prepares himself for the day as if he was going to work. Mom manages everything from insurance papers to "melt in your mouth baking and cooking" (See MOM WAS A GALLOPING GOURMET in the Miscellaneous Notes) to body work on her car. She learned to drive at age 64 when Dad wondered aloud if he had passed a truck or a school bus. They welcome any visitor at any time. Children and people who like to eat are especially welcome. If you are ever coming through Warsaw, OH, drop in. We live at 109 W. 4th St., and Dad and Mom in a mobile home on Beech St. (Late note: Dad died suddenly Dec. 8, 1987 of heart disease and is buried at Valley View Cemetery in Warsaw, OH.)

MOM WAS A GALLOPING GOURMET

by Jo Cullison

If anyone thinks the "Galloping Gourmet" image originated with television cook, Graham Kerr, they didn't know my mom, Pearl Hawkins, in Ohio 40 years ago. Though she always lacked a sophisticated air, "exotic" tastes, and a trim appearance, Mom could set out a meal that would make any gourmet's mouth water and she galloped all the while she did it.

But Mom's gallop was of a different gait. If she wanted chicken for dinner (and dinner was the noon meal at her house), she galloped to the chicken house to see if any lazy old hens were still dozing late on the roost so as to be caught more easily. If not, she galloped around the chicken yard chasing some poor rooster until he gave out and then she promptly nabbed him for her table.

After tying him upside down to the clothesline, she whacked off his head with a sharp butcher knife, doused him good in a bucket of boiling water, plucked his feathers, singed his bodily fuzz off and then scraped and scoured him until there was scarcely a goose bump left on him let alone a pin feather.

She galloped down a steep hill to the spring house where butter and milk, heavy with thick, leathery cream, sat in heavy crocks on cool, damp stones. For the freshest eggs on earth, she galloped to the chicken house and snatched them from under a very surprised laying hen trying to do her duty in peace. And if Mom ran out of table salt, she galloped to the granary to get some of the animals's loose, coarse salt from a gunny sack. Mom always made do with what she had even if it made her gallop to do it.

In the Spring, she galloped to the garden to dig new, thin-skinned potatoes and to pick tender, green peas which she creamed together and flavored with real homemade butter. And she galloped out again at the last minute to add fresh green onions, round, red radishes and tender new leaf lettuce to the meal for she had no refrigeration to keep such from wilting had she gotten it on the first trip to the garden.

In the Summer, she galloped to the garden for juicy, red tomatoes, succulent ears of golden sweet corn and crispy-fresh stringbeans, the likes of which a supermarket never saw. And in the Fall, it was purple-tinged turnips, long white parsnips, and golden pumpkins for pie that she galloped after. In the Winter she galloped to the smokehouse for a slab of hickory-smoked bacon, thick slices of sugar-cured ham and hand-pressed lard. And if she needed flour, it was up the stairs of our two-story house for a 25 pound sack of it made at the neighboring mill from their own wheat. And if she needed an onion, there were plenty drying on the attic floor. Getting them was no obstacle to Mom.

She had a harder time in the winter galloping through the snow down the outside cellarway to the dark, earthen-floored cellar for a can of peaches or pears or red Winesap apples from the bin. But while she was there, she'd pick up a can of deep-red, pickled beets, some tangy chow-chow, and sweet blackberry jam, all preserved the previous summer in a scorching hot kitchen over a roaring fire in a wood stove.

And Mom even galloped while she got a meal, though I never knew why. She spilled flour and splattered grease, and used a different fork or spoon every time she taste-tested her delectable food. She scrubbed, scraped, picked over, peeled, examined, cut out, and stirred constantly while she cooked. Beauty in motion she was not.

But even worse, Mom expected us to gallop too. My brothers galloped to the woodshed for fuel to keep the kitchen stove roaring hot while Mom commanded the pots, pans and iron skillet. They galloped to the spring to fill the water buckets again and again. Mom used more water getting one meal than anyone we ever knew.

And when the meal was ready, we all had to gallop to the table the minute Mom yelled, "Come and get it", as she had us convinced beyond doubt that mashed potatoes turned to stone in 10 seconds flat.

Then while we all gobbled down the delicious meal, Mom galloped around the table urging us to "eat up now" and apologizing that her beautiful homemade bread wasn't "quite as light as it ought to be" and that her tender, flaky pie crust was "a little bit too short." Why she thought she had to force us to eat what our mouths had been watering over an hour for, I could never figure out.

Time has changed now and Mom gallops on though her galloping has changed too. When she was 64 years old, she learned to drive a car because Dad went blind. So now she gallops to the city to the supermarket for eggs, milk, butter, flour and the like. The chicken house and smokehouse are long gone along with the springhouse and the woodshed. All that remains is the garden as Mom lives in a small town in her retirement.

Did I say retirement? Mom hasn't got to that yet. Now she's galloping around her table forcing a fourth generation of offspring to eat her wonderful food. Some of these progeny have eaten in gourmet restaurants around the world. Some declare life can't be lived without bean sprouts, yogurt, soy sauce and wine cookery.

But for some reason, I notice they always return with haste to Mom's table, especially if they catch a whiff of the distinctive odor of hot, homemade bread or spy a dish of golden, yellow homemade noodles on it.

Diets aren't remembered at Mom's table. And neither is Julia Child or Graham Kerr.

JUST USE YOUR "INGENILITY"

by Jo Cullison

Since recycling has become popular, my husband and I are no longer "pack rats" with lots of useless "junk" crammed into drawers, sacks and boxes in case we need it. We are, by second nature, compulsive recyclers. But if people had seen our folks recycling their way through the worst depression this country ever saw, they would understand the indelible imprint stamped forever on our psyches by this influence and practice.

I think it started when my father said, "Use your ingenility," a phrase he fell back on every time one of us six kids wanted something we couldn't afford, which was almost everything then. (We call that ingenuity now, we who are educated. Dad could get only five years of education in a little one-room school before striking out on his own at age 13 in 1909 as that's all that was available to him.)

But we knew exactly what he meant despite his misuse of the language. "Make it out of something you already have!" (We call that recycling, we who are environmentally minded.) It was this trait that got our family of eight through those harsh times in the 1930s without ever knowing we were "dirt poor," "culturally deprived," or "hard luck cases."

When my brothers wanted a ball and bat, Charlie, who was about 10, whittled one out of a piece of Quaking Aspen limb with a penknife. Then they unraveled one of Dad's worn-out brown socks, wound the heavy stocking yarn again and again around a piece of old tire until it was the right size. Then Mom sewed through it with a long needle and heavy cord and covered it with old overall denim. Tom Seaver never had more fun than they.

I never had a "store-bought" doll, but I never wanted for dolls. Since I sewed at quite an early age, I whipped up all kinds and sizes of rag dolls, using no patterns, and stuffing them from the rag bag. Once I made a life-sized doll but my cutting skill lacked a bit and her bottom sagged from under her homemade dress like those of the big gray geese waddling around our yard. My brothers called her Sally Goosebottom, and no one has forgotten her yet.

My greatest delight came in creating a doll which would drink and wet, a real luxury 40 years ago. My cousin gave me a real doll head which just fit into the top of a Clabber Girl Baking Powder can. I covered the can with cloth for a body, stitched on stuffed arms and legs, and bored a hole in her mouth and the bottom of the can. Then using the bottle we fed the pet lambs with, I tested her. And lo, my doll drank and wet. But lo, she also eventually rusted!

My brothers made beanshooters from hollowed out joints of elderberry bush branches, packing wet paper wads in each end compressing the air in the middle, and sending the "bullets" flying with a hand-whittled ramrod. I don't know why we called them beanshooters when they shot paper wads. My guess is we ate all the beans.

They made slingshots by skinning bark from a forked hickory twig and adding a slice of old inner tube. Empty spools, with notches cut in the edges and rubber bands strung and twisted by a stick on one end, became tractors, trucks, cars or whatever the childish mind envisioned as he played in the dirt on the garden path. (As a boy my spouse used soap or paraffin to make his spools run smoother, but then he was from the "uppity poor.")

We made playing cards from pieces of cardboard on which we pasted, with homemade flour and water paste, colored cartoon characters such as Andy Gump, the Katzenjammer Kids and Popeye cut from the Sunday funnies someone gave us. With these we played Old Maid, Fish, War, Snap and games we made up. Shuffling was a bit of a problem, but it still is for me with my slick, plastic-coated, uniform deck.

My brothers made bows from green hickory and whittled sticks to sharp points for arrows. We went sled riding on pieces of tin or corrugated cardboard and stuffed valentine boxes at school with hearts made from the wallpaper sample catalog fancied up with used lace and ribbon. I made a jumping rope from used binder twine, folded and twisted in such a way that it self-wound into a tight rope. My dad showed me how.

When we played wedding in the empty corn crib in the summer, the bride (me) had worn out curtains dragging far behind her and accepted a copper hog ring from the groom (my brother). (Sometimes the bride proudly wore her ring to school in the fall, too.)

All kinds of things became tools to better living as our "ingenility" flourished. When Dad put new screen on the door, we cut the old screen into rectangles, sewed bias cut cloth around the jagged edges of several thicknesses of the rectangles, nailed a piece of slat from a window blind on for a handle, and every kid had his own flyswatter. Flies never had a chance.

We wore hand-me-downs like everyone else, but that wasn't enough for my mother. She made children's coats, dresses and suits from worn out adult's coats, dresses and suits. When these were totally beyond wear, she threw the lightweight clothing into the rag bag (after snipping off buttons, hooks, eyes, lace, ribbon, zippers, and belt buckles to replenish the sewing box) or tore them into strips for woven, braided or crocheted rugs.

But she cut the heavy winter clothing into huge squares, sewed them together on her treadle machine (with its homemade belt) and knotted them into the heaviest comforts anyone ever laid slackjawed under! Mom never worried we'd get uncovered in the night and get cold. We did well to turn over!

Cloth feed sacks provided a multitude of household items from clothing to linens to curtains. A couple snowy, white feed sacks sewn together with lacy edges made from string saved when the sacks were opened, made a nice tablecloth for Sundays. Five feed sacks, well bleached and sewn together, made very ample bed sheets. But we once had one sheet which didn't bleach well and we hated to hang it on the line as it bore the words of the feed one sack once held... "Tail Curler"! But consider the plight of my mother's friend who had a pair of bloomers which read "Bran Middlins" across the seat!

Used jar rubbers sewn together made hot pads and if you had thread, crocheting made them fancy. But I can't forget the day I couldn't find my elastic garters to hold up my long, brown, ribbed cotton stockings, so before I left for school, I used my "ingenility" and wore used jar rubbers instead. The arteries in my legs were never the same again.

A rough lye soap was made from fat saved from cooking and lamp oil (kerosene) gave a mellow light from lamps as well as becoming a sure cure for croup when taken with a spoonful of sugar. A bag of hot salt was an excellent heating pad for any kind of ache and a hot, fried onion pack worked wonders on a congested chest. The latter sure opened up your sinuses in a hurry, too!

The day after threshing day, sweet smelling straw was stuffed into freshly laundered, striped "straw ticks" and when a goose met the hatchet, its down was saved for pillows. Broomhandles sometimes became hoe handles even if they were so short you nearly broke your back using them. And when I was the Rag Doll in the Christmas play at school, my mother's curling iron for my long curls was an iron rod heated just right in the hot coals of our kitchen stove firebox. Trying to gauge that wasn't much harder for her than sticking her hand in the oven to judge if it was hot enough to bake bread.

I pondered whether time, affluence, education and age had spoiled this trait in my family. And I think of my brother, a senior mechanical engineer for DuPont at Circleville. Many results of his ingenuity, registered in the U.S. Patent office are classified information, but I know that the thought of our old stove pipe damper helped him with a balky invention and saved his company plenty of money.

When he was in college in the 1950s at Ohio State University (OSU), with not enough money to buy a new battery for his car, he started the thing for three months by putting it in gear, jacking up the back wheels, wrapping an old parachute riser around one tire (don't ask me where he got that!) and giving it a hard yank to start the motor. Then he put the car out of gear, jacked the wheels down, and drove off. This he did whether at the grocery, college parking lot or post office in Columbus.

My sister and her farmer husband who have an investment roughly the size of a small factory, have cattle drinking out of an old, claw-footed bathtub from their old house instead of an expensive, new watering trough.

My brother, teacher of vocational aeronautics in Indianapolis and former NASA space science lecturer, used metal parts of an old fan to fasten flooring together for his utility trailer last summer.

He's the wizard who, when farming and going to school at OSU after serving in the Korean War, started a stubborn old truck himself by twisting his steering wheel as far to the left as possible, wiring it to the door, and then pushing it with his tractor until it started. Since it went in a circle, he simply jumped off his tractor and chased his circling truck till he caught it. (This worked alright until the wire on the door broke one day and the truck went straight-straight through a fence and into a plowed field.)

But he says it's the most inventive failure he ever had.

My sister the nurse, worked a double shift during Ohio's blizzard of '78 and snow was blowing through closed windows onto a surgical patient with elevated temperature as well as piling up on the windowsill. Since no maintenance crews got there, and she had no ladder, she climbed up on the bedside table and pinned heavy blankets to the drapes. When snow still blew from under them, she lugged heavy sandbags up four floors from the emergency room to hold the blankets tight to the windowsill and kept her patient comfortable while the blizzard raged.

My brother who works for Landmark made a dolly from an old lawn mower with no motor, secured heavy kitchen appliances to it and moved them out of a burning kitchen. He didn't want to bother his neighbors. (He was the bat whittler.)

Then there's me. Much of my notepaper and scrap typing paper comes free from third class mail. (I don't cuss it, I use it!) My freezer containers once held cottage cheese, yogurt, margarine, etc., and my canning jars held coffee, mayonnaise, peanuts and other foods. (I don't use them in a pressure cooker and no one should!) When I needed a sleeve board to press the long sleeves of a suit I was making, I wrapped a bath towel around my rolling pin, slid it in the sleeves and it worked perfectly.

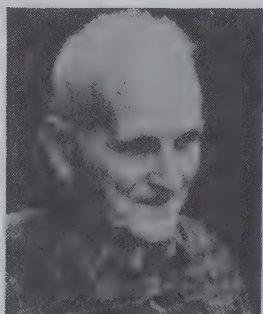

I've fixed old typewriters with everything from rubber bands to bobby pins and when I had a fidgety granddaughter with "nothing to do" last summer, I kept her mesmerized for nearly two hours while I whipped up a made-to-order rag doll complete with long black eyelashes, "painted" nails and a belly button. She, whose shelves hold Baby Thataway which crawls, Baby Alive which eats real baby food, and Baby Tiny Tears who sneezes water and cries real tears, loved that doll as tenderly as a real baby.

Maybe Dad wasn't so far off after all. Maybe he coined a new word by coupling ingenuity with ability and it hasn't caught on yet. But one thing I know, if bad times come again as has been predicted, I think we can make it. We'll just remember Dad and use our "ingenility."

Andrew Jackson Hawkins, (code AI), the last child of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins (Code A and a), was born on his parents' Crawford Twp., Coshocton Co., OH farm near the small town of Chili (pronounced Chy-lye), Mar. 10, 1858. He was 10 years old when they sold that farm and moved to land they bought in Holmes and Coshocton Counties, OH in March, 1868.

On Feb. 13, 1888, Andrew bought 80 acres of the Tiverton Twp., Coshocton County land from his parents, just a year before he married 16-year old, Alice Permmilla Preston. (He was 15 years older than his wife.) This 80 acres he bought for $1150 was the NE Qtr. of Sec. 1, Twp. 7, Range 9 in Tiverton Twp., Coshocton Co. OH. According to some of the family, Andrew built a log house on a portion of his new farm on the Holmes County line where several of his children were born. That log house and the 32 acres it stands on is now owned by Terry and Arlene Logston, descendants of Andrew's brother, George Hawkins (code AA). (See photo of the log house elsewhere in this chapter. It is located on Coshocton County Rd. 452.) Several of Andrew and Alice's children were born in this log house.

Ten years later on Oct. 24, 1898, Andrew Jackson Hawkins sold 32 acres of this land, including the log house, to his nephew, John Elsworth Hawkins (code AAA), just before John married Margaret "Mag" Preston, a sister to Andrew's wife, the former Alice Preston. (Three Hawkins men were married to Preston sisters; Andrew Jackson Hawkins (code AI), to Alice Preston, John Elsworth Hawkins (code AAA), to Margaret "Mag" Preston, and the other, Andrew Miller Hawkins (code AAC), brother of John, (code AAA.) to Belle Preston.)

Andrew Jackson Hawkins, built another frame house on his land on the hill bordering that of his brother, George Hawkins, and moved there with his family in 1898. They cut trees from his own woods and sawed out lumber for a house. He kept buying and selling properties until in the end, he had three tracts of land totaling about 130 acres in Tiverton Twp., Coshocton Co., to will to his eight living children. (Andrew and Alice lost their first child, Richard, at birth in 1891, and their third child, Dollie, in 1893 when she was two weeks old. Both are buried in Harmony Cemetery, Monroe Twp., Coshocton Co., OH.)

A property that Andrew bought from Leonard

Bowers, for $825 on June 23, 1904, had a nice house on it (it being the SW Qtr. of Sec. 5, Twp. 7, Range 9) and a son, Tom (code AII), still lives in it. My mother remembers it as quite an ample house for Andrew's large family of eight and said Tom's mother, Alice, was an excellent housekeeper, cook, baker, etc. (More about her later.)

On Oct. 28, 1901, Andrew paid Eli Phillips $1100 for 80 acres being the W half of the NW Qtr., of Sec. 1, Twp. 7, Range 9. He sold 40 acres of land (the N half of the NE Qtr., Sec. 1, Twp., Range 9) to my father, Clifford Caleb Hawkins (code AHM) on Oct. 6, 1924, and in 1943, dad sold it to Andrew's son, Fred Hawkins, Sr. Fred's daughter, Mrs. Mary Alice Hawkins McCombs lives on the property now.

Andrew was known to his sons as a hard working man and a man who was a mite feisty. Of course, most of the Hawkins people have a lot of fight in them; you can even see it among the infants in their cribs. It took fight to survive in the pioneer days and by anyone's standards, in our modern, affluent society it STILL takes fight to survive. But Andrew would even come to blows if someone provoked him long enough. Andrew used to argue, "By s--t, the earth is flat!"

Alice, too, had a lot of grit but her heart was made of gold. Andrew used to say she "was as stubborn as an old muley cow with her horns knocked off." (Muley cows don't have horns!) Though she never took the title, she was the unofficial midwife of the community. Many persons called upon her to attend their births, including my mother when I was born. Alice properly picked me up, cut and tied the cord, cleaned me up, and was carrying me around when old Doc Hilton Buker arrived on the scene from Killbuck, OH. I am just one of her namesakes.

She even delivered some of her own children herself. She wasn't neglected, she just preferred it that way! Perhaps she was so good at it, she didn't want anyone in her way. But she had to call in old Doc Buker when she delivered 14-pound son, Floyd. She was truly a pioneer woman.

She was also at my house in the spring of 1931 when I was near death with pneumonia at the age of four months. My parents had been told by the doctor that I wouldn't live through the night. I could not even cry aloud. But Alice, not one to give up, drew upon her knowledge of home remedies and suggested a cure. She told my parents to fry onions, sew the hot onions into a bag making a hot poultice and put them on my chest and back, changing them when they cooled down.

So my 21-year old mother and her mother, Sadie Belle Workman Ackeret, and Dad fired our wood stove all night long, frying onions and making poultices. They had nothing to lose. By morning, I was able to get enough air to cry. The crisis had come and they had triumphed. But for 10 days and nights afterward, they got little sleep as they pulled mucous from my tiny throat to keep me from choking to death. I have been good friends with onions ever since and my family has never forgotten our Aunt Alice Hawkins.

Andrew, according to his son, Tom, was balding in old age. But my father remembers him having light brown hair, and blue eyes with a weathered, tanned face. His sons say he was fair of complexion. He had broad shoulders and a slim waist, and was not fat but weighed about 165 pounds. He was about five feet 10 inches tall.

Andrew Jackson Hawkins was all business and not much inclined to engage in humor. He wasn't much to talk, period, but one day, when he and Dad were building "line fence", he began to tell Dad about his parents, Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins (codes A and a), and their family history. He talked and talked, which was unusual for him. Dad knew he had better not interrupt him with questions as he'd quit talking and go home. Dad wanted to hear this interesting family history, as it was all new to him. Dad said Andrew had a good memory and I'm indebted to that memory having been able to document much of it for this history.

Alice was a little five-foot, three-inch woman with brown hair and brown eyes, and fair complexion. She took care of a lot of people, and in later years, sometimes took care of people when she was sicker than they were. She had big meals to get most of the time and especially on Sundays. But it was never a reason to miss going to church.

She'd fix food ahead of time on Saturday, and then on Sunday morning, she'd walk the mile and a half to the Stillwell Baptist Church for services. Most often she probably walked home again unless someone with a car was going her way or to her house!

Andrew didn't go to church but when he was past 80, and Floyd Head was pastor at Stillwell, Andrew came to church, embraced the Christian faith, and was baptized by immersion at about age 82 in Wolf Creek. Many of his children and grandchildren are faithful members of the Stillwell Baptist Church today. One grandson, Asa Mellor, is a minister, having just started a new church at Big Prairie, OH last spring. Years ago, he started The Peoples Church in Millersburg, Holmes Co., OH, with a handful of people. Eventually his congregation combined with another one, and under the leadership of Rev. Mark Rohrer, with Asa assisting, the Faith Bible Church was born.

One great-granddaughter of Andrew and Alice Hawkins, Sherrie Sue Cooper, is interested in missionary work and worked a year in Mexico. Right now, she's back in school at Mt. Vernon Nazarene College and will graduate as a secondary math teacher in 1988.

Andrew was a man who was usually in a hurry. His nephew, John Hawkins, was the opposite and they made a comical team when they worked or rode around together. Andrew and John were going to Killbuck once, and as they rounded a very sharp curve (Snow's Curve), Andrew either hadn't slowed down enough or got all the pedals on his Model T Ford mixed up and ended up running off the road on this bad curve. It didn't hurt the "Tin Lizzie" much but no doubt it left the driver and his passenger a little shook up. I think they were able to drive the Model T out of their predicament and go on to town.

The Model T, the first real motor car the common man could afford, required a lot of skill to drive. One almost needed to be an octopus! Regardless of this, no driver's training nor driver's license was required to operate this intricate machine. It had three pedals on the floorboards; one for low, neutral, and high gears, one for reverse, and one was a brake. It also had a hand emergency brake, which when pulled, automatically placed the gears in neutral.

To start the machine, you'd first put the car in neutral and set the spark and throttle through little levers on the steering column. Then you got out of the car and gave the crank on the front end a whirl to turn the motor over. If the motor was behaving and fired as it turned over, it would start, sometimes on a quarter turn of the crank.

But it didn't always start on the first turn, and it might take several turns of the crank. Sometimes, the crank would "kick" and could break your arm. (It is said that Beecher Carter, husband of Alma Hawkins Carter, got so mad once trying to start his Model T that he threw the crank through the windshield.)

If you pushed the gear pedal halfway down, it was in neutral. If you pushed it clear to the floor, it was in low gear and took off on its own. After you got going fast enough, you let the pedal all the way out and it was in high gear. Of course this "gear shifting" involved a lot of guesswork. To go into reverse, you held the gear pedal half way down in neutral, and pushed the middle pedal which was reverse. A one-legged man would have a rough time of it.

To stop, you pushed the gear pedal halfway in, which put the car in neutral, and stepped on the brake. You could set there "idling" or turn it off with a switch key. Imagine if you can, Andrew bustling around to go to town one day. He stopped at John's house to pick him up to go with him, and John was taking his time as usual getting in. Andrew, not noticing whether John was all the way in the car or not, put the car in gear, pulled the throttle, and took off when John had just part of himself in the car. However, John must have gotten himself in, in record time for Andrew didn't stop. And they rode off to town together.

Eventually, Andrew grew to be aged, was humped over badly but still got around with a cane. He eventually got down in bed and was cared for by Alice and the two younger boys, Tom and Floyd Hawkins, who were still at home. He died of "old age" at age 83 and was buried in Harmony Church Cemetery in Monroe Twp., Coshocton Co., OH.

Alice, who died about 3 months after Andrew did, had been in failing health for several years, yet she kept going. Dad said she was small and got smaller all the time. She developed a hump on her back (probably from osteoporosis — bone deterioration) and had a growth in her abdomen. She had varicose veins so severely that they broke, bled, and left gaping sores. Her two grown sons at home, Tom and Floyd, tried to care for her.

Finally, she caught what was like a very bad cold which went down in her lungs. Her daughter, Hattie Hawkins Conner, and daughter-in-law, Sadie Hawkins (Fred Sr.'s wife), came to can peaches. Hattie noticed her mother was not very good as she coughed so violently. The next day, Hattie came back and took her mother home with her. She called Dr. Louis D. Lebold, from Warsaw, OH who gave her a shot of something. But it wasn't enough to save her as she died in a short time at Hattie's home. She was buried beside her husband in Harmony Cemetery.

Prominent in this family are the lumberjacks. Andrew's sons, Fred and Harve, both ran sawmills and their sons all work in timber today. Fred Hawkins, Sr., still has his sawmill and uses it occasionally though he's retired. In 1937, Fred Hawkins, Sr., and Bob Turk (a friend from Stillwell, OH) entered the first Coshocton County crosscut log sawing contest at Chili, OH. They won $5.00 each for first place by sawing through a 29" White Oak log in 80 seconds. Fred says that seems like a little prize but it was as much as a whole week's work in those "depression days."

In 1938 Fred Hawkins, Sr., went on to become the state chopping champion and he and Bob Turk were the Ohio crosscut sawing champions, winning that honor over stiff competition.

Since 1966, the sons of both Fred and Harve, and their sons' wives have entered all kinds of lumberjack contests around the midwest and have rooms full of trophies. Fred Hawkins, Jr., and his cousin, Gene Hawkins (son of Harve and Grace Haines Hawkins), were the 1982 state of Ohio crosscut saw champions. (Fred, Jr. and Gene are double cousins as Fred, Sr. and his brother, Harve married sisters, Sadie and Grace Haines, respectively.)

In 1966, Gene won the state chopping title, and in 1967, he ranked third in the nation. The first time I ever watched them stand on an eight" by eight" short block, with huge chips flying from their razor sharp, special axes, I nearly died. One slip and there would have been no leg or legs. The air hums when they are in good form. It is said they don't hone their axes, they tune them!

In 1967, Fred, Jr. won the tree felling contest though he was a novice in the event. Rick, a younger brother, was the 1986 state champion chopper at the Paul Bunyan show. He has brought home other trophies too. They have hundreds of trophies and ribbons and Fred Hawkins, Jr. and Gene Hawkins, have held the "State All-Around Lumberjack Champion" title off and on since 1969, with at least 10 years of the title between them. They once traveled with the Hank Peters Lumberjack show and Fred, Jr. became the emcee of the show. Now Fred, Jr., is the only one traveling. The other boys are in the timber business full time.

The wives of these men enter Nail Driving contests but it's not unusual to see a woman on the end of a crosscut saw opposite her husband, in a Jack and Jill contest. Fred Jr.'s wife, Alice, held the title of Ohio and Michigan Powder Puff Chain Saw Champion, and Gene's wife, Helen, was the Holmes County Nail Driving Champion. (The winner is the lady who can drive the most nails straight into a piece of wood in 30 seconds. If you think this is easy, try it.)

The types of lumberjack activities they compete in and demonstrate at shows include: stock chain saw, crosscut versus hot saw (a "souped up" chain saw); Jack and Jill Crosscut; axe throwing; spring board chopping; wood chopping; log burling; and canoe jousting. All are demonstrated in a 30-minute period of time in the shows. (Spring board chopping is where the contestants line up in front of eight-foot posts, and on signal, chop a notch, set boards in it, step up on that board, chop another notch, set boards, step up, all the way to the top.) These are very dangerous sports even if you are good at them.

These shows take them all over the U.S. and Canada and Fred, Jr., who's also in the auto salvage business at Stillwell, travels about seven months out of the year. Gene Hawkins has a logging business and is too busy to travel extensively. But he managed to do 50 shows at the Ohio State Fair in 1983, besides traveling to Kentucky, Florida, Maine, and New York. Rick and his son, Rick, have a sawmill and a chipper, and sell chips to paper mills. They hire several people.

Tom Hawkins, next to the youngest of Andrew's children, is quite a musician. He has an organ and a synthesizer which he can play quite well. He is a self-taught musician and if you happen to go to the door when he's at the organ, be prepared to knock a long time. Several members of the family are good singers, including Fred, Sr., and Lloyd Hawkins, who sang in the Stillwell Baptist Church men's quartet.

Maldon Hawkins, Andrew's fifth child, is a walking miracle. He was working away from home with his tractor alone in a field and somehow, got run over by his own tractor. Though he had a broken pelvis and the tube between his kidney and bladder was completely severed, he got on the tractor and drove it out of the field to where he could get help. He stayed conscious until they got to a hospital and after surgery and much treatment over several months, he survives and at age 89, is still driving his car.

Hattie Hawkins Connor and her children have lost several children due to sickness and accidents. Hattie and Jim Connor lost a son, Paul, at age four of a stomach problem and another son, Alvin "Buster," at age 10 of typhoid fever.

Later, a son, Leland, who was in his early 40s and had seven children, was killed when a tree fell on him. He had cut a large tree with a power saw, not knowing a smaller tree, rotted and not standing on its own, was leaning against the larger tree without any root support. The smaller tree fell, striking Leland on the head, killing him. Oddly enough, Leland's son Gary A. Conner, was killed in 1981 when a section of an oil rig fell on his head on the Douglas Randles farm in Coshocton County, OH.

Other descendants of Andrew and Alice Preston Hawkins are making their marks in the world too. You can get a good meal at the Village Restaurant in Millersburg, OH, owned and operated by John James and Evelyn Myers Bickel. If you have business in the Holmes County Probate Court, ask for Deanne Mellor, a deputy clerk.

Though, it was part of her job, she gathered many of the old, handwritten documents in chapter one of our grandparents, Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins. (She could have referred me to an expensive genealogist researcher as several court clerks did.) Jeffrey Mellor might give you a speeding ticket as he is a Deputy Sheriff of Holmes County. And Wilma Conner Richert, along with her husband, Carroll Lynn Richert, are co-presidents and managers of their own trucking company in Mount Vernon, Knox Co., OH.

Another descendant, Lloyd Hawkins, has been clerk of Tiverton Twp., Coshocton Co., OH for many years and served in the infantry troops which helped liberate the Philippines from the Japanese. He was in Co. B, 145th Infantry, 37th Division. Lloyd has a Philippine Liberation Ribbon with one bronze star. While in the Philippines, he got malaria and suffered the terrible fevers and chills of that for a while even after he came home.

Roger William Hill, a great-grandson of Andrew and Alice Hawkins, had three tours of duty in Viet Nam with the 173rd Airborne unit. He was wounded in action and received a number of medals including several bronze stars, service medals, and an expert badge, M-14 and M-16 rifles, an expert badge, M-60 with machine gun bar, and others.

A humorous note came when I asked my relatives if Andrew's grandson, Tim Mellor's real name was Timothy. Most everyone thought it was. From his son, Fred Mellor, came the story that his real name was Owen, and that Tim was his nickname. He got that name as a boy. There was a story in his schoolbook, "Tim and the Old Gray Mare". When, as a boy, Owen rode his father's old, gray mare to plow corn and potatoes, people would say, "Look! There goes Tim and his old, gray mare." The name stuck.

And so my story of the line of Andrew Jackson and Alice Preston Hawkins and their descendants must come to an end. Again, there were many more people deserving recognition but again I must work within my limitations.

I am very indebted to Fred Hawkins, Sr. and his wife, the former Sadie Haines, for helping me so much on this history. They brought Elder and Elisabeth's family Bible to me, they identified many pictures for other people which would have been lost to history, they spent much time and patience answering questions I had about the entire family. Though they neither one are well, they even took some descendants on tours of the home farm of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins since they now own the home and much of the land.

This is the last chapter of the book "ROOTS AND WINGS": A HISTORY OF THE FAMILY OF ELDER AND ELISABETH (CATON-GARDNER) HAWKINS 1809-1987 and it seems quite fitting to end with the people who have had the interest of the entire family at heart in this entire venture. I feel if Elder and Elisabeth could have known the more than 2500 descendants we have mentioned in this book, they would be quite proud. Pioneers they were, and pioneers we still are. We stand on the threshold of a tomorrow we can't imagine. Many of us are very involved in helping that tomorrow be a better place for those who follow us. May God grant us the courage to face each new tomorrow with trust and confidence that we will have a better world, for faith is trusting the sources we will never see.

SAMUEL F. HAWKINS

MILLERSBURG — Samuel Floyd Hawkins, 27, of Main St., Killbuck, died Saturday, Aug. 22, 1987, from injuries suffered in a two car accident in Wayne County.

Born Sept. 30, 1959, in Knox County, (Ohio), he was a son of Floyd and Mary (Gosser) Hawkins of Brinkhaven Route 1.

A 1978 graduate of West Holmes High School, he was a welder at Volvo-White Co. of Orrville and worked part-time in the timber business.

He was married April 11, 1987, to Tammi Johnson and she survives.

Also surviving are three sisters; Mrs. Dale (Carol) Maurer of Shreve, Marcella Hawkins of Lakeville and Marilyn Hawkins of Brinkhaven Route 1.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Alexander Funeral Home in Millersburg with burial at Stillwell Wolfcreek Baptist Church Cemetery.

Friends may call 7-9 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home.

For those who wish, memorials may be made to the Samuel Hawkins Education Fund in care of the Killbuck Savings Bank.

The log house Andrew J. Hawkins built about 1888 before his marriage to Alice Preston. It still stands and is owned by Terry and Arlene Logsdon. Terry, who also owns the 32 acres of the land the house stands on, is a descendant of Andrew's brother, George Hawkins.

HOW TO TRACE YOUR FAMILY LINE

We used a code to connect each person to his family line and no two people have the same code. Your code will be like your parents' and grandparents' codes except for the last letter. Also each direct descendant of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins has a code in capital letters while the indirect descendants, the inlaws, are the same letters but are small letters.

For example: the first Elder is "A" as that's the first letter of the alphabet and his wife, Elisabeth is "a." That completes Generation 1. Generation 2 lists all the children of Elder and Elisabeth Hawkins, each starting with the code of their father, capital A, (the direct line) with another letter added for each of them. Their first child, George, is "AA" while his wife is "aa." Their second child, Harrison, is "AB" (the second letter of the alphabet), and his wife is "ab;" Elder's third child, John, is "AC" (the third letter of the alphabet) while his wife is "ac," and so on down the line until Generation 2 is completed.

George's first child, John Elsworth, begins the third generation and is listed as "AAA" while his mate is "aaa." George's second child, Margaret Jane, is "AAB" and her mate is "aab" and so on down through eight generations and eight letters. By changing the last letter, each person is identified by his own particular code. If your code starts with "AB," you are in Harrison's line, Elder and Elisabeth's second child. If your code starts with "AC," you are in their third child, John's line. It continues that way through each of their eight children.

Your code also indicates the generation you are in. Your children have one more letter than you and your parents have one less letter than you do, etc. If your code in the alphabetical index shows four letters, you are in the fourth generation; if it has six letters, you are in the sixth generation. No code is longer than eight letters as we cover only eight generations.

The best way to find yourself and your line is to find your name and your code in the alphabetical index or the maiden name index. Adopted children are considered direct line and are identified by capital letters. Stepchildren are not. Since we were so cramped for space and time was a factor, we didn't include the stepchildren as we had originally planned.

Note how many letters you have in your code and turn to that generation in the genealogy section of the book. (All 2500 people are in the same section at the back of the book while the written history, photos and documents are in chapters 1 through 9 in the first part of the book.) Also, all the persons in one generation are either brothers and sisters or first cousins.

To trace yourself back to the first settlers, find your parents code in the generation before you. It will be exactly like yours minus the last letter. Your grandparents are in the generation preceding your parents and will be minus your code letter and your parents' code letter. Go on back until you come to the single letter A, the first generation and that is your line back to the first settlers.

Example: My code is AHMD (all capital letters as I am a direct descendant). Because I have four letters, I am in generation four. This is the way I would trace my family line.

AHMD

D is my code. I am the 4th child in the family. I am in the 4th generation as I have four letters.

Gen. 2

AH is my grandfather. He is the 8th child in his family. He has two letters in his code so he is in Gen. 2.

Gen. 3

AHM

M is my father. He is the 13th child in his family so uses the 13th letter. He has three letters denoting the third generation.

Gen. 1

A is my great-grandfather, Elder Hawkins, the first.

You may have to do some searching to trace your line but everyone can do it from the eighth generation back. We had to use a code as so many had the same names and some even had wives with the same names. (Both John Elsworth Hawkins in IL and John Elsworth Hawkins in Ohio married women named Maggie. There's a John Elsworth in the third generation of three lines and Elder Harrison in several.)
